We Want Desirable Industry--

THE people of Clanton and Chilton County who are supporting active measures to obtain industry for this area are well aware of the fact that desirable industry, both economical and physical, is what we seek.

Economically speaking, we want an industry which will employ local labor and pay reasonable wages and which is sound financially. These factors are being seriously and soberly considered every time the officials set out on seeking a new industry.

Physically we want an industry that is primarily "clean"! By that we mean the actual production of the product, if it be a product, is done in such a way that there will be no air pollution or other undesirable traits.

This question of air pollution has cropped up on several occasions and should be considered carefully. Chilton County is not so dependent on industry, nor should it ever be, that we accept any and all comers! Many industries, through no fault of their product, are 'undesirable' in that they have waste products which cannot be destroyed and are passed off into the air around us. This being a farming area and noted for its 'fresh air' we do not want to destroy this desirable atmosphere.

These things are being strongly considered every time the Industrial Board considers a prospect, and they consider us.

We are assured and firmly convinced that the local Board will not do anything to pollute our air or to harm any individual or existing business in any way. They are striving daily to acquire industry. . . good industry for Chilton County and any support you may lend them will not only ease a mean task, but will further insure your community of the atmosphere which has caused it to be referred to as one of the best places to live in the country.

We're proud of our County and it is growing, but not so fast and to the extent that we leave some of our cherished traditions and desirable situations behind. With intelligent thinking and the Lord's guidance this will not happen!

A Big Job Well Done--

MOST everyone will agree that Lally Bates (Hugh M. to some folks) has done a most excellent job as Post Commander of the local Post of the American Legion for the past many months. Mr. Bates has been the instigator of many new and progressive moves by the local Post, not in the least of these being the placing of flag poles and the donation of American Flags to various schools and public facilities over the County.

It is nearing time for a new Commander and is therefore fitting that Commander Bates be recognized for his time and talents so generously heaped on the organization and the community as a whole. They have grown into one of the most active Posts in the State and this in itself speaks well of good leadership manifested during the past year.

The membership should not take offense at the singling out of a good leader. We rather feel that they will join us in this tribute to one of their number.

Chilton, as well as Post No. 6 is indeed fortunate to have this calibre of young men in their midst. They get things done -- with a minimum of fanfare and hullabaloo!

Sold On Civil Defense--

NEVER have we seen a group sold on anything as solidly in as brief a time as the local Home Demonstration members were on Civil Defense measures which they observed on a recent trip to Birmingham. They returned home with a sincere and firm belief in protective measures taken for surprise attack with the fatal results of radioactive fallout. They were well briefed on the effects of such a happening and equally informed on precautionary measures that can and should be taken. It is evident that such educating of our general public is desirable and we know of no better way to spread the news than through an active organization such as the Chilton Home Demonstration Clubs.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

MOTHER makes a big fuss over a "little one" being "just like daddy" and "daddy's little buddy" but just let "daddy" raise a hand to correct same and the look mom conveys is something less than "he's all yours". It's more of a "just who's kid do you think you're hittin' anyhow?" Ah, motherly love. . . is apparently not for fathers!

WE were kidding around with an employee of the Power Company the other day, as he set out on the monumental task of reading the meter and we told him there wasn't any need to read it, we weren't going to pay it anyhow. "Oh you'll pay it alright", says he! Well now, we don't like to be made sport of We know we'll pay it alright, or else live by candlelight, dirty, hungry and completely without TV entertainment (which wouldn't be a bad idea) but as we said, we don't like to be made sport of and if anybody ever comes along with cheaper electricity, just look out boy!

WE have nothing but the greatest respect and highest admiration for Brother and Mrs. Nelson E. White, pastor-family of the Temple Assembly of God. The progress made by their 'Temple' speaks for itself of their talents and devotion to their calling. We like a man of the Clergy with a true sense of humor and understanding of the fallacies of men and we think Bro. White possesses these unisue gifts of God. We are not a member of their congregation, but are proud that they are members of our community and we're sure they are equally loved and respected by their 'flock'!

THERE is a decided difference in the reporting of facts and an editorial opinion of a writer. The editorial overtones in an article by Al Stanton of the Brmingham News recently concerning States Righters and Loyalists points out vividly the "slant tactics" some writers resort to to put across their point. If they are going to edi- editorial opinion or should publish torialize then they should call it an it in the editorial page which is designed and devoted to the opinions of the editors and writers. In this particular incident it was obvious that the writer either favored one of the factions involved or he was instructed to write his article to influence. They used to have a term for his color of journalism, but it seems to have become so prevalent that it is accepted as just plain writing! We disagree. There's nohing plain about it.

AMONG the last of course, but also among the most sincere. . . we're sure glad to have Bro. Lloyd Kimbrough back with us at Clanton Methodist Church fr another year. Bro. Kimbrough and family came here under very difficult circumstances after the congregation lost their beloved Griffin Lloyd. Bro. Kimbrough and family have shown abilities far-reaching and very heartening to the local church and we are not only grateful for having them here, but very fortunate as well. We hope your lives are enriched by our influence as we know ours will be by your presence here with us.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

'And though I have the gift of prophecy and understand all mysteries and all knowledge; and though I have all faith so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

— (1 Corinthians 13:2)

Any of us, through a life of righteousness, devotion and prayer, can win to the whole faith that rewards us with inner peace and strength. But we will not be wholly acceptable in the sight of God until we unfailingly extend a loving heart and helping hand to all our less fortunate brethren.

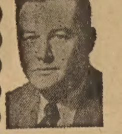
Report from Washington



BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Although effecting an installation located several thousand miles from Alabama, legislation introduced by me in the House of Representatives and by Senator Lister Hill in the Senate should be of interest to Alabamians. The measures to which I refer will make possible the construction of a new building to house the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory in Panama City, Republic of Panama.

Named for Alabamian—

The Gorgas Memorial Laboratory was established in 1929 in accordance with a law passed by Congress which also authorized our government to make an annual contribution for the operation and maintenance of the laboratory. It was named for Alabama's famous general, Dr. William Crawford Gorgas, who made possible the building of the Panama Canal by his conquest of yellow fever and malaria.

The government of Panama made a substantial initial contribution by donating the land and building presently occupied by the Laboratory, with the stipulation that it be used continuously by the Laboratory to conduct investigations of tropical and preventive medicine. The Panamanians have always shown great appreciation for the Laboratory and have cooperated with its activities.

Valuable Research—

Through the years the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory has made many lifesaving discoveries in the prevention and treatment of tropical diseases, particularly in connection with malaria and yellow fever. It was a former director of the Laboratory, Dr. Herbert Clark, who discovered that malaria could be treated effectively with atabrine. This discovery became tremendously important in World War II when the United States imports of quinine were stopped and atabrine was used as a substitute to protect our servicemen fighting in tropical areas. This protection, so vital to our troops in the successful conduct of the war, would not have been possible without the benefit of research carried on at the Gorgas Laboratory.

In addition to continuing its studies of yellow fever — a disease which reappeared in Panama in 194? and has since been moving slowly northward— the Laboratory is carrying on research in many other diseases that are transmitted by insects, such as a type of sleeping sickness that causes many deaths in the United States annually.

In recent years, however, the lack of space and modern facilities at the Laboratory has made its work difficult and at times dangerous The facilities of the present buildings are not adequate to carry on studies in the important field of virology and tissue culture, and are actually unsafe in that they make possible the easy transmission of viruses to laboratory workers. Also badly needed is space to accomodate visiting scientists who come to the Laboratory from all over the world.

Action Soon—

The legislation authorizing the propsed new building has already received committee approval and there is an excellent possibility it will be considered favorably by both the House and the Senate before Congress adjourns.

While the total of metropolitan dailies steadily continues to wane, the number (and good health) of the weekly papers in our land just as steadily continues to rise.

Constantly increasing cost of labor and material, declining circulation and revenues, have hit the big city papers hard, surveys show. Mergers and suspensions of publications follow apace.

Many reasons are given to explain the lamentable facts. One of them is that first radio, then television, robbed the dailies of the headline news coverage that sold papers. The "Flash" gets on the air in seconds. Readers know "all about it" before the giant presses begin to roll out the big news.

But if that hurt the city dailies, perhaps it has helped the weeklies, for they can concentrate more than ever on the "little" news, the "good" news that people always want to hear but seldom do on the air waves.

Who's visiting whom? Who's getting well after illness? Who's having a birthday party? Who's just been engaged and is having a "shower"?

Who's getting married? Who's welcoming a new baby? All about people, plain people, just people. Good news — good tidings. "How beautiful upon the mountains," wrote the prophet Isaiah, "are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings . . . "

I don't know about the "beautiful feet." But the "good tidings" — that I'll buy!

How To Increase Your Business

Dear Chilton Merchant:

EVERYONE in business, selling anyt will agree that consistent and dependable tomers are better by far than "spontane crowds. By that we mean that the steady tomer is preferred over the bargain hunter, security reasons!

Certain forms of advertising are better "bargain hunters" than are others. On the er hand, newspaper advertising is by far ter for the gradual building of steady custo whom you can depend on and who depen you for products, than any other media!

Why?

Because the newspaper draws the a tion of people who are seriously consid buying or they would not be looking. The people depend on their newspaper for ho and complete details. There is no que that they look. . . if there were, we would a great deal fewer newspapers. So, they And they are looking for a familiar pr at a price which pleases their pocketbook. is why spontaneous advertising is no bett the health of your business than is a "s neous customer". . . you cannot depend o

For example: Mrs. Smith is in the m ket for four dozen quart fruit jars for c ning purposes. She knows what br she likes and she knows how much cost. If you are advertising her brand a reasonable price and she is looking at time you are advertising she will likely from you. On the other hand, say you not advertise them that particular w Mrs. Smith then, might settle for an u miliar brand at another place of busir

Consistency is the key to successful vertising because it puts your produc eyes of those who are in the market at particular time. Nobody is always in market for everything.

This week, you may advertise a p of quality at bargain prices. If nobody that particular product at that time, yo vertising is going to look unproductive the other hand, if you advertise the sam duct consistently you will be "selling" th ple on that product and will make them to buy it. Familiarity with anything pr a desire to own it. You may not can sell onions this week because nobody want led onions. But, if they see it consisten vertised they will soon want to see w all about or eventually they will be in th ket for that product. . .AND the mercha is telling the public about that product time is the merchant who will attract th iness.

Nossir, newspaper advertising will likely increase your business 50% the week. But, a consistent campaign of ned advertising of your product(s), imagination and forseight, just as in other phases of your business will duce gradual results and eventually than double your business if your pro is worth the price asked for it and you telling the folks about it.

No advertising media has miracle las for selling your business. You m tract steady customers and the best way that is to tell them consistently about you have to offer!

As one fellow put it: "If your busi is not worth advertising, then advertis for sale!"

KNOW YOUR DOCTOR

EVERYBODY is interested in the cost of medical care.

Numerous federal agencies and state governments are conducting studies of hospital costs, health insurance programs, and other economic aspecs of medical care. Everyone seems to be writing or speaking on this subject—politicians, economists, magazine writers, newspaper columnists, and curbstone experts, who sometimes air their views in the newspapers.

Th American public—and rightfully so—has an intense interest in the costs of medical care. Those costs involve the people's lives, health, and pocketbooks. But the mass of written and spoken words frequently produces confusion and misinterpretation of facts in the field of medical economics. Quick and easy information—sometimes msnformation—is coming from persons who may be adept at statistics, but who lack a thoriugh knowledge of all the medical and human elements that go into health care.

No One Wants To Be Ill—

All this exposes a basic philosophy which is extremely difficult to combat. No one wants to be ill, and no one wants to think of being ill. Therefore, it becomes distasteful to pay for the costs of caring for the sick or for preventative measures. There is nothing more desirable than to admire a fine TV set, a new car, an expensive suit of clothes; there is nothing to enjoy like a gay party, a theatre, or a sports event. Therefore, the motivation is quite different when it comes to meeting the expnses of illness. There certainly is more fun in buying a TV set or a new car than paying a doctor's fee or a hospital bill.

Yet, when people get sick they demand—and get—the finest medical and hospital care obtainable any place in the world. And good medical care is costly; there is no way of getting around it. Some medical services are so expensive that often insurance, both hospitalization and medical care, is inadequate to cover the total cost.

Medical Progress Boosts Costs—

For example, a specific procedure was cited recently to show how the progress of medical science forces the cost of certain laboratory procedures to reach almost unrealistic levels over which neither patient nor physician has control.

Heart catheterzation, a paluable diagnostic tool to the physician, has grown exceedingly complex and costly, especially in relation to the equipment and personnel required. This cost, however, is only the beginning. Heart catheterization is one of many procedures terminating in cardiac surgery which is carried out by a large team using a costly heart pump.

Cost analysis of heart catheterization was cited recently by Dr Max H. Wil, formerly chief of cardiology at th City of Hope Medica' Center, Duarte, Calif., and presently assistant professor of medicine at the University of Southrn California School of Medicine, Los Angeles.

Heart catheterization, first described by Dr. Werner Forssmann of West Germany in 1929, is used as a diagnostic procedure in certain types of heart conditions, especially in children born with heart defects. In 1956, Dr. Forssmann along with Drs. Andre F. Cournand and Dickinson W. Richards of Columbia University, were jointly awarded the Nobel prize in medicine for perfecting a method of charting the human hart by catheterization.

The technique, for example, can yield valuable data on the pressure and oxygen content of the blood and the way in which the blood flows through the pulmonary system, and the contributing systematic circuit Since definitive treatment of congenital heart lessons is surgical, the information obtained by cardiac catheterization is sometimes needed in order to reduce the number of patients undergoing surgery for inoperable defects or denied operation for defects that could be corrected.

Thirty Years In Ministry

(from the Bert County News Tekamah, Nebraska, June 6, 1930)

"A large congregation from the churches of the Omaha Baptist Association met in the First Baptist Church Friday night for the purpose of ordaining J. Gilbert Hutchinson to the Ministry of the Gospel.

Brother Hutchinson has been supplying the church for some months and was called as pastor upon his graduation from the Omaha Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

An impressive service was presided over by Rev. Roy Larson pastor of the Riverside Church. Dr Wesley Esveld, pastor of the Immanuel Church, Omaha, preached the dedication sermon. He exhorted the new pastor to preach the Word of God, laying stress on the necessity of preaching the doctrines of the New Birth and Judgment

The charge to the candidate was given by Rev. William Allan, pastor of the Trinity Church, Omaha. Dr. H. Q. Morton, Secretary of the Nebraska Baptist State Convention gave the charge to the church. Rev. Hull, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Fremont, extended the hand of fellowship. The report of the Council was brought by Rev. George Sharp, Omaha, and the Scripture lesson was read by Rev. Moran pastor of the First Baptist Church Blair. Songs were sung by Miss Helen Franz and Rev. Allan of Omaha.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Church at the close of the service."

Dr. Hutchinson served the Tekamah Church for six years and then accepted the call of the First Baptist Church, Hamburg, Iowa where he served for six years. He held a reserve commission in the United States Army and was called to active duty, October 9, 1941. He served with the Armed Forces four years, three of which were spent in the Central Pacific.

At the close of World War II Dr. Hutchinson was called to the First Baptist Church, Thomasville Alabama, where he served until coming to Clanton, June 1949.

Marvin Durbin Featured 'Farmer'

A traveling editor of The Progressive Farmer recently visited the Clanton farm of Marvin Durbin and a story of Mr. Durbin's peach crop practices appears in the magazine's June issue.

For instance, Mr. Durbin uses a boom attachment on his sprayer which makes putting on sprays easier and safer than hand guns.

"We have been using this boom for several years in spraying peaches," says Mr. Durbin "and it is almost as good as hand gun spraying with experienced help."

More than 350 congreagtions of Jehovah's Witnesses, with a field force of ten thousand men, women and children, have accepted a mission to call at the home and deliver a miniature sermon to the millions of people in an eight-state area.

"The assignment covers the states of Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas Georgia and Illinois," local overseer of congregations, W. E. Robinson announced.

The 350 congregations will spend the four days of June 23-26 at a training assembly at the State Fairgrounds in Nashville. Local delegates will number about 30, Mr. Robinson estimated.

Under direction of the international Watchtower Society, the Nashville assemblage will brace itself to accomplish the gigantic mission.

Mr. Robinson predicted that to reach the eight state population, each witness by this period will have contacted about 3,500 persons. "Each of us will be calling at about 900 homes," he said.

Jehovah's Witnesses, he said, have no paid clergy to do their preaching but find much greater enjoyment in their religion by learning it so well that they can do their own preaching. "A faith worth beleiving is certainly worth teaching to others," Mr. Robinson said.

"The conviction that a rebellious world degenerating since Adam faces its long promised holocaust in this generation, is what spurs the witnesses to call on everyone with the good news that a New World of God's Kingdom is about to replace the present systems of things, Mr. Robinson said.

The Nashville gathering is designated "The Peace-Pursuing District Assembly". "It will demonstra that a global society of Christians, Jehovah's Witnesses has actually achieved world peace and unity, and this amid Christendom's two world wars", Mr. Robinson said.

"This is the most dramatic proof that men of good will are being gathered from all the nations to survive the world's end and find everlasting life on a Paradise earth under the Kingdom of the Prince of Peace."

One problem to be dealt with at Nashville is how to disperse their numbers more efficiently over the eight-states area to fulfill their mission, the local minister said.

Already individuals and families of witnesses who can afford the change, are movng out from well established congregations to live in more isolated areas to build up new congregations.

PERFECT PARTY MATES

Frozen Individual Dessert Pies

Put your heart into spring with an afternoon or evening party. Set a pretty table . . . pastel linens, shiny silver, delicate flowers . . . and serve a dessert suitable for a mixed group. This means something light enough for the ladies . . . hearty enough for the men. Look no farther than your freezer for the correct answer . . . frozen individual coconut custard pies.

Who doesn't love custard, especially when it's laced with moist shredded coconut and held in a pastry shell all ready to turn into a golden brown after 25 minutes in a 450°F. oven. Good measure . . . each pie weighs 5 ounces . . . and good eating.

To dress up the pies you might like a garnish a little different from the usual whipped cream topping. Here is one which is not only easy to make but provides a nice contrast in flavors. The recipe is:

Chocolate Nut Topping

1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate or ¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 tablespoon chopped walnuts
⅛ teaspoon sugar

Melt chocolate. Stir in nuts and sugar. Spoon over cooled baked individual frozen pies. Makes enough topping for 4 pies. FNS

NO COOK JAM IS BECOMING POPULAR WITH HOMEMAKER

by Faye Dav's
Assistant Home Agent
Chilton County, Alabama

Homemakers are through with standing over a hot stove to cook jelly, especially those that have heard the latest news about no-cook jams.

No-cook jams have three selling points for the busy homemaker:

(1.) No-cook jam saves flavor.
(2.) It preserves the natural bright color of fresh fruits and
(3.) It saves cooking over a hot stove.

No-cook jams can be made from home and commercially frozen fruit and juices and also from fresh fruit and juices.

This new method of jam-making is simple: you stir liquid or powdered manufactured pectin into raw, crushed and sweetened fruits and juices. The mixture will jell without cooking, sometimes within 2 or 3 minutes, though it may take 2 to 3 days.

If no-cook jam is to be kept any length of time, it must be stored in the refrigerator or the freezer because yeast and mold spores in it have not been destroyed. The jam will ferment or mold if allowed to stand more than a few days at room temperature.

No-cook jam has a nice consistency. It holds its shape and it spreads well. If jam is stiffer than desired, stirring will soften it. If weeping occurs after jam has been cut, stirring will blend it.

Sweetened, Frozen Fruit—

With slight variations, the recipe for strawberry jam from sweetened frozen fruit can be used to make jams from sweetened frozen cherries, peaches and red raspberries.

Strawberry Jam—

2 12 oz. pkgs. frozen strawberries (2½ c. pulp) 3½ c. sugar. 1 box powdered pectin and ¾ c. water or ½ c. liquid pectin.

Thaw frozen fruit. Pre ree by using a colander, electric blender or foo Stir in sugar. Let stand stirring occasiona If dered pectin, boil pectin 1 minute, stirring consta f using liquid pectin, do Add fruit to pectin and 2 minutes. Pour into j at once. Let stand cove hours. Seal with paraffi in freezer.

Variations of no-cook made by using other fruits. Recipes for these may be obtained from or Assistant Home Age

MISS GAY WED TO MR. GREGG AT HOME

One of the loveliest home weddings of the season was on Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, May 21 when Miss Bobby Thresa Gay became the bride of Tommy Gregg, son of Mrs. Frances Gregg and the late Clyde Gregg.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gay, with the Rev. J. L. Adams officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The living room mantle was banked with southern smilax and white candles. On each side of the fireplace were large baskets of white gladiolas and fern. The couple stood in front of the mantle.

A program of pre-nuptial piano music was presented by Mrs. J. T. Little, cousin of the bride.

Candles were lighted by Roy Carter, cousin of the bride.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Earline Gregg, matron of honor. She was attired in a dress of pale pink, featuring a fitted bodice and full waltz-length skirt.

The flower girl, Carlo Eiland, cousin of the bride wore a dress of pale pink nylon and carried a basket of pink sweetheart roses.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was a wondrous portrait of loveliness in a frock of palest blue taffeta styled with a ballerina length skirt with underhooped skirts. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, which was trimmed with a wide draped piece of blue nylon, forming tiny cap sleeves. Her silk illusion veil was trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a white Bible marked with a pink orchid showered with white satin streamers tied in bridal knots.

Billy Gregg served his brother as best man.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of beige rayon.

Mrs. Gregg wore a dress of pink nylon. Each wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Carter, uncle and aunt of the bride, entertained at a reception in their home.

Mrs. H. L. Gregg, aunt of the groom, presided at the bride's book.

In the dining room the bride's table was covered with a cloth of exquisite lace and marked with a fine tiered wedding cake. The white cake was decorated with hand molded roses in palest pink, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Garden flowers in pastel tones were artistically used throughout the room.

Punch was served by Miss Ruth Ann Friday, Miss Frances Gaddy and Miss Nancy Carter.

After the traditional cutting of the cake by the bride and groom, it was served by Mrs. Ralph Friday and Mrs. Julius Davis.

After a short wedding trip into Florida the new Mr. and Mrs. Gregg will make their home in Stanton.

Local Expert Says Time From Field To Freezer Is Two Hours

by Miss Faye Davis
Assistant Home Agent in Chilton County

Are you satisfied with the vegetables and fruits that you can or freeze?

If not, there could be several things wrong. One thing to remember in canning or freezing is that the sooner you get the item from the field to your canner or freezer, the better your product will be. Remember: 2 hours from the field to the canner or freezer is a good time limit to abide by. In order to work within this time limit, homemakers wil lhave to change their old habit of working with bushel quantities.

This year, work with pounds (about 4 lbs. at a time) rather than bushels.

Freezing—

Foods properly selected, prepared, frozen and stored will keep its natural color, flavor and nutritive value. In selecting vegetables for freezing, only the finest, freshest vegetables should be used. They should be processed and frozen as soon as possible after they are gathered. Fruits for freezing should be selected with particular care, using table-ripe fruits.

Proper preparation is required for the vegetable you freeze. After cleaning, all vegetables must be or blanched before freezing, thoroughly cooled, then packaged, except Bell Pepper, which is frozen in the raw state. This blanching process retards the natural growing processes which continue in many vegetables even after freezing, known as "enzymatic action".

Unless food is properly prepared spoilage or other undesirable changes will occur. These changes include:

(1.) Spoilage due to rapid growth of bacteria, yeasts and molds.

(2.) Enzymatic reactions which will cause off-color and poor flavor in vegetables.

(3.) Ice formation in foods. When a food is frozen, pieces of ice form in it. Quick freezing changes the water in food to tiny ice crystals which do not tear or damage the food tissues. Slow freezing however, results in formation of large ice crystals which tear the food tissues and cause food to look crushed when it is thawed.

(4.) Drying or freezer burns. To prevent a dry, pithy, tough surface on your food, use a vapor-moisture proof wrap or container and make sure the package is sealed well.

The packaging of your fruits and vegetables plays an extremely important part in freezing. Whatever type of container you use, be sure that it is air tight. Your freezer paper must be vapor-moisture proof and when using aluminum foil be sure that it is the heavy grade recommended for freezing and not the light weight used in our kitchens.

If more information is desired ning a booklet "Food Preservation on the subject of freezing and can- In Alabama" may be obtained by contacting your Home Agent, Johnnie Lane or the Assistant Home Aent, Faye Davis at the County Agent's office in Clanton.

They are at your disposal. Telephone number is 165.

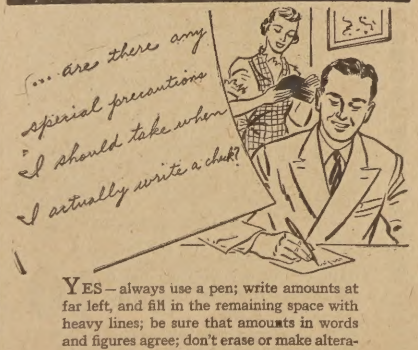
WHAT DO YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT BANKING?



... are there any special precautions I should take when I actually write a check?

YES—always use a pen; write amounts at far left, and fill in the remaining space with heavy lines; be sure that amounts in words and figures agree; don't erase or make alterations; don't sign until the check is filled in.

Checks are safer than cash. Open your checking account with us soon; follow these rules to transfer funds with maximum safety.

WHEREAS the Congress, by House Concurrent Resolution 17, agreed to June 1, 1959, has authorized and requested the President to proclaim the week beginning the second Monday in June of each year as National Little League Baseball Week, in recognition of the national and community benefits resulting from Little League activities.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning the second Monday in June of 1960, and the week beginning the second Monday in June of each succeeding year, as National Little League Baseball Week.

Steel Fences Stop Fires At Jet Bases

Metal similar to that used to make the familiar garbage can, galvanized steel sheets, is now protecting lives and property at Air Force jet bases, according to the Committee on Galvanized Steel Sheet Research.

The Committee said that galvanized steel concave fences have been built around the taxiways and runup areas at 26 Strategic Air Command jet bases in the United States and Puerto Rico. The fences will serve to deflect the high velocity, hot blast from the jet engines upward into the air.

The concave fences, made of heavy gage corrugated galvanized steel sheets, are of a single curved vane type, which protect personnel working on the air strip and prevent the jets blasts from starting fires in the vicinity of the runways. Galvanized steel sheets were selected as the material for this severe usage it was said, because of their strength and fire resistance qualities.

Approximately 80,000 linear feet of galvanized steel sheets, totaling about 1,500 tons, were involved in the project.

Mr. Will Reynolds Recalls Times, Good and Bad Of '90'

Mr. Will Reynolds will celebrate his 90th birthday next week. He has lived a rich, full life and is still going strong. His youngest son, Hoyt Reynolds, as a favor, got us some information on Mr. Reynold's history, but instead of using it as a reference for this story, we are running the "notes" just as Hoyt gave them to us. However you note they were written five years ago they are of such interest that we must pass them on "as is" so you can enjoy them for yourself—The Editor.

"I was born in Tuskegee, Ala., June 11th, 1870. My father was William Job Reynolds. He was born in 1844. My mother's name was Susan Jordan. She was born in Campbell County, Virginia.

My father ran away and went to the Civil War and was wounded at Perryville, Kentucky. He came back to Tuskegee on a furlough, and he and my mother ran away and were married on Sunday and he then returned to the Army on Monday. He was 17 and my mother was 14.

80 Acres For $20—

They lived in Tuskegee around six years, and in 1872 moved to Chilton County. He and my mother lived there the balance of their lives. He bought 80 acres of land for $20 with fine pine timber on it.

His neighbors helped him to build a log house around 20 feet square, and he got a job at a sawmill three miles away. He left home before day and walked three miles, and then returned home after dark, and he didn't miss a day in 12 years. His health was very good.

The settlement where he lived was called Dry Valley. We lived within one-fourth mile of a large pond, which was 100 yards across and 70 feet deep. The water was always clear and very healthy. I have seen eight families washing their clothes at one time there. I have also seen two trout caught out of it that weighed eleven and three-fourths pounds each. We walked and carried water from this pond until I was 15 years old. I dug a cistern, and we always had good water.

Schools were always around three miles away and we had to walk to them. They lasted around three months. (per term).

Earned A Bible—

I went to Sunday School when I was a boy. When I was eight years old, the Sunday School Superintendent told us he would give a Bible to each one that would learn the Ten Commandments in two weeks and would recite them in the church. I did this and received one of the Bibles.

Taught School At 18—

When I was 18 years old, we had a nine months school, and I secured a license and taught school. My first school was west of Dixie, and it was there I met Miss Sudie Ware.

She had red hair. On July 26th, 1891, I borrowed my father's horse and buggy and $5.00 and spent the night with Dr. Haley and drove over to Mr. Albert Ware's and Preacher Perry performed our marriage ceremony.

I drove back by Randolph and had dinner at 2 o'clock and got back home at 6 o'clock and we began our married life in the house with my father. At this time I was teaching a Bible class at Concord Church. I was teaching school at Center Hill, north of Jemison. I rode a horse 10 miles to school and returned home at night.

First Crop With Father—

In 1892 I made a crop with my father. I had a Negro boy to help me. We would plow until about four o'clock and then go around three miles and drive a beef cow and dress it and hang it until morning. Then my wife would get up and would cut it up in ten pound chunks. I would then drive to Montevallo 6 miles away and sell it and get to plowing by 9 o'clock.

The next year I made a crop with my father and made shingles at night until 9 o'clock and also on rainy days, and bought beef and killed them at night and peddled them at Montevallo by daylight.

The next year I moved about 4 miles away and farmed, and after I finished my crop I bought 40 acres adjoining the farm on time for $600.00. I made shingles out of some blown down timber and had the logs hauled, and sawed at the mill on halves, and I built us a house mostly at night and mostly by myself. I hauled the lumber 15 miles with an ox wagon and sold the house and farm, and the man still lives on it now.

Gets Job For -30 A Month—

After I moved, I went back every Sunday morning in a one-horse wagon and taught the Bible Class, and then in the evening I drove over to Sessions Chapel and taught a Bible Class there.

From $300 To $50 Thousand—

I went to work in a store at Jemison for $30 per month; worked two years and went into the mercantile business. I only had $300.

I sold my business in two years and bought a tract of fine timber in Marengo County. I put in a large mill and sold it for $50,000.00. Then I bought a lot of timber around Tuskegee and put in nine mills and sold them, and moved to Clanton 40 years ago.

I taught the Men's Bible Class in the Methodist Church here for several years after moving here.

We have seven children and lost one; have thirteen grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren. I am now 85 years old."

Mr. Reynolds was the father of seven children, five of which are living. Mrs. Lessie Hammock, Mrs. Guy Roberts, Mrs. Myrtle Pitts, Mrs. Sam Box and Hoyt B. Reynolds. The deceased are Reubin L. Reynolds and Julius W. Reynolds.

He now has 13 grandchildren, 28 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

THE person with the iron will is usually the first to rust out.

IF you must tell half-truths, be sure they are the right half.

THE motorist who drives with bad brakes invites bad breaks!

A tight wad we know has more money than he has friends, and is glad of it.

THE future, as has the past, have a lot in common with the present.

PEACHES ain't everything right now, but they rate pretty high on the economic scale of Chilton County.

LOTS of times a fellow gets credit for having good judgement when he's just a good guesser!

Wider Alleys Needed--

A clear necessity for wider alleys in Clanton was pointed out to us most forcefully this week. A truck or like conveyance knocked the lead pipe, housing our power lines into the News, off and put us out of business for half a day.

Our alleys must have been laid out for horse and buggy days because they are far too narrow for safety these days. The large transfer trucks can barely pass through most of our alleys with the present width of ten feet.

Just how this situation could be remedied would be decided by the City Council, but it is a question that is pertinent at the moment.

Chilton Has Had Help--

WHAT we consider to be the phenominal growth of Chilton County in the past several years has not come about through our good graces or completely by accident. Our County has had the individual and collective assistance of many good men and women who have "worked overtime" for the good of Chilton.

Such a man is M. R. (Red) Glasscock who recently resigned his position as County Agent, a post he has help for many years.

We doubt very seriously that there is a single farmer in this area who has not derived some help in some way from "Red" and if that is true wee have all benefitted. He has not only been over-active (that's beyond the call of duty) in farm activities and progress in the County, but has also been a leading figure in civic affairs as well.

His business affairs are always handled seriously and with considerable thought and foresight.

Mr. "G", as he was affectionately around his office, has been very helpful in the growth of Chilton County, both agriculturally and industrially.

His successor, Mr. John Sellers has a wide row to hoe, but he too is the calibre of man who can knuckle down to a task and doesn't mind getting his brogans a little dirty. Both these fine gentlemen deserve your support and personal best wishes.

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

EDGAR Valentine Smith, content to be a copy reader on a city desk, began to have other ambitions when he was nearing middle age. He still "sat around the rim", as they say in newspaper parlance, but he joined "The Loafers", an organization of which I have already spoken, and he started offering his short stories to the magazines. The first truly big publication that he hit was Harper's. Though he sold many others in the magazine field, the two that Harper's bought really amounted to more than any of the others.

His "'Lijah" went over so well that he was later asked to do it in a one-act play, and even today—though it has been years since Ed put in his final goodbye, it is used in T. and semi-pro productions on the stage. E. V's heirs still collecting royalties for this one brain child.

Our club was meeting regularly when Smith's "Prelude" was declared to be the best short story of the year by the O. Henry Memorial Committee in charge of awards. Ed was summoned to New York for the presentation of the trophy. He brought back from the banquet one story I hadn't heard before or since.

A Father had apprenticed his young son to Mark Twain to help him in the office. The boy later developed a siege of boils, and finally the famed author sent him back to his home with this note: "I am returning your boy to you. I love a manly man, a womanly woman—but the Lord please deliver me from a boily boy!"

Back To The Classroom--

Let's do some arithmetic.

Advocates of federal aid to education say we need $975 million in federal funds to build new schools in the next three years. They have a bill in Congress to appropriate the money, at $325 million per year.

The House Education and Labor Committee, which studied the bill and reported on it, placed the yearly need for new classrooms at 52,700 for 1960-64, and fewer thereafter. If federal funds are needed to build these classrooms, it would seem that local sources are not able to construct them at the desired rate of 52,700 a year. Yet the fact is that over the last 10 years—without any federal aid—the construction rate has averaged 59,400 classrooms a year. Since 1955, the average has been 66,900.

Under the Congressional bill, 42% of the federal tax money would go to just seven states. Far from being the seven "neediest" states, these are seven of the richest—New York, California, Pennsylvania, Texas, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan.

When you add it up, the argument for federal school building funds isn't very convincing.

Local level taxes are not going to be popular until we cut down on federal taxes and this will not—cannot happen until we, and that is all of us, cease to seek federal grants and aid. Simple arithmetic!

Financial Burden Heavy—

Dr. Weil stated that while the procedure is valuable in many respects, "the financial burden of development and maintenance of a proficient cardiac catheterization laboratory is such that the unit can hardly be self-sufficient.

"In addition to the need of costly physical space in a hospital area the expense of special installation in a properly equipped laboratory may be in excess of $100,000," he said. He provided a detailed summary of actual costs involved in the establishment of one such unit. It ran to $104,113.88.

How the advancement of medical science has forced the cost of certain diagnostic procedures, such as heart catheterization, to skyrocket is seen from a breakdown of Dr. Weil's figures.

He said that with so many remarkable refinements taking place constantly in cardiac catheterization, the equipment requires almost constant replacement.

"For this reason," he said, "purchase of equipment becomes a continuing necessity if standards are to be maintained. It is estimated that the basic expenditure will be repeated at the end of five years.

"Further," Dr. Weil said, "successful conduct of the laboratory equires a competent medical staff on at least a half-time basis." Each procedure requires participation of a minimum of two physicians, a nurse, and three additional trained persons. In small children, the services of a highly skilled anesthesiologist are required.

Cost of Procedures—

If three cardiac catheterizations are done weekly, the cost of technical and nursing personnel alone for each procedure is $130. This does not include the fee for the cardiologist's services or for anesthesia.

"Then expendable items such as catheters, X-ray film, radiopaque mediums and recording paper add about $65 for each procedure," he said.

Dr. Weil also pointed out that the paper work and study of data in connection with each procedure are enormous. A typical case involving the procedure—interpretation of data, calculations and compilation of the report—requires a minimum of eight hours of a heart specialist's time alone.

Dr. Weil offered a solution to the complex cost problem.

"Would it not be far better," he asked, "to pool professional and financial resources and thereby provide generous support of a centralized laboratory? Cardiac clinics throughout a geographical area, each of which has but a limited number of patients requiring detailed studies, would share the advantages provided by a laboratory which is more adequately staffed and equipped."

This is only one specific instance in the broad field of medicine where the cost of medical care is forced up through no fault of the physician or the patient; there are many more.

Inflation Plays Big Part—

Actually, the cost of medical care generally is higher in terms of dollars than it used to be, but the same applies to everything else. The long and complex battles relating to the cost of medical care should be directed against inflation that makes each dollar purchase less.

Despite inflation, the physician's share of the medical care dollar is shrinking.

Figures, based on U. S. Department of Commerce data, show that in 1938 physicians received 31 cents of the medical care dollar compared with 24 cents in 1958—22.6 per cent less than 20 years ago.

The same data shows that 5.6 per cent of the $293 billion spent by Americans during 1958 for all goods and services went for medical care. This compares with 5.8 per cent for recreation and 5.3 per cent for tobacco and alcoholic beverages.

Today more than 71 per cent of the U. S. population is protected by some form of health insurance, whereas only 10 per cent had this protection in 1938. And more importantly, from the public's standpoint, is the fact that it receives a vastly superior product, medically, than it did 20 years ago.

That it is superior is testified by the tables for life expectancy.

In 1920 newborn babies could expect 55-60 yeers of life. Today the same fiure is up to 70 years for the average life expectancy.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

IT'S a strange thing how literally every area of the USA is grumbling or making excuses about why their population increase did not meet their expectations and hopes in the recent nationwide census. All the time statisticians are telling us that the population increase is going to push us off the planet. . . now we're not doubtng any of these folks facts, but what we want to know is: where is everybody?

BEST way to command respect and receive it — is to deserve it! folks!

WE, bless our souls, owe Rev. James Baker and Old Macedonia (Beat 11) an apology or an explanation or something. Last week Rev. Baker, a good fellow indeed, gave us a bit-o-news to publish and we in the usual weekly turmoil failed to do so. One thing comes of all this Bro. Baker and folks: If you didn't think we were human, now you know we are — we make mistakes with the best of 'em! Sorry

THE fact that Alvin Ellison, recently re-elected as president of the CD Rescue Squad, was elected by such an overwhelming "write-in" vote speaks wonderfully well of his years of leadership in the organization. It's food for thought indeed when such a going organization honors their leader in such a fashion. It's a big burden we know, but Alvin should be humbly grateful for such confidence from his fellows!

PEOPLE are so cruel to other people, just by accident, it looks like we'd all try twice as hard to help the other fellow instead of always seeking vengeance and sowing ill feelings.

WONDER if the fella who tore all the wiring loose in the side of the News building the first of the week was the type who kicks little chickens in the creek. He sure had us up a creek all Monday morning. It took about five employees of the Ala. Power Company and two electricians to "fetch us out", too. That weren't the neighborly thing to do, now was it neighbor!

THE grapevine tells us this week that the ace Clanton hurler (baseball) Clay Carroll has signed with the Milwaukee Braves and will go on the payroll next spring. That's a mighty fine break for a mighty talented young man and though we're not much of a baseball fan, when it's that close to home we're just naturally interested! Congratulations to you, brother Carroll and we'll be in there plugging for you. He signed up June 6, by the way.

WELL-known old-timer down the street said to us: "Did you know we had an election here the other day," Well, that in itself was news! Then he said, "I got 100% on calling the winners, how about that?" "I told those Republicans up there that they were through running on the Democratic ticket!" Now what on earth could he have meant by that?

IT'S gettin' so it's pretty hard to hide an Elephant under a Rooster!

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The House of Representatives on a roll call vote of 223 to 174 passed and sent to the Senate last week a bill to increase the temporary naitonal debt limit and to maintain present excise and corporate income taxes.

Debt Limit—

The present temporary debt limit is $295 billion, but this ceiling will automatically revert to the permanent limit of $285 billion on July 1 unless counteracting legislation is enacted. The bill approved by the House last week sets the temporary limit for fiscal year 1961 at $293 billion or two billion dollars less than the temporary limit for fiscal year 1960.

Excise Taxes—

Although there appeared to be sentiment in favor of repealing the present 10 per cent tax on local telephone service and reducing the travel tax, the bill was considered in the House under a procedure which prohibited amendments. Under the terms of the House bill, these taxes will be maintained as will levies on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, automobiles, and automotive parts and accessories. The measure also calls for a year's extension of the 52 per cent rate on corporation income, which otherwise would drop to 47 per cent at the beginning of the new fiscal year nn July 1.

The extension of these tax rates was urged by President Eisenhower as a means of preventing a four-billion-dollar loss to the federal government in annual revenues.

Amistad Dam—

Also passed by the House last week was a measure authorizing the construction of an important international storage dam on the Rio Grande River. When completed, this dam will virtually eliminate devastating flood damage on a three hundred mile stretch of the Rio Grande River between the United States and Mexico. In addition, it will provide water for irrigaton purposes and hydroelectric power. The United States and Mexico have agreed to share the construction costs.

As chairman of the Inter-American Subcommittee, I introduced the authorizing legislation and last Thursday handled it on the floor of the House. The dam, to be named "Amistad" meaning friendship, will accrue numerous benefits to the State of Texas. With the unqualified support of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, there is every reason to believe the Senate will also pass this measure before Congress adjourns.

Othr Legislation—

Other legislation receiving House approval last week included bills to authorize an additional $150 million for small business loans; to strengthen regulations and punishment of offenders in connection with the publication and distribution of obscene literature in the District of Columbia; to permit veterans of the Indian and Spanish-American Wars to receive pensions at the rates applicable to veterans of WW I; to extend the Defense Production Act for two additional years; to authorize the construction of three Coast Guard cutters for icebreaking in the Arctic and Antarctic regions; and to appropriate funds for military construction during fiscal year 1961.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOD HEALED ME OF TUBERCULOSIS

Twenty-five years ago I was dying with tuberculosis. The disease was in both lungs and the three physicians who had diagnosed my case knew that I couldn't live. Many mornings when I woke up there was blood on my pillow and on the wall.

In addition to having tuberculosis, I stuttered. Since childhood I had hardly been able to make anyone understand me. I hated to go to school. I used to hide from people because I was ashamed. At the age of seventeen I found myself dying.

In desperation, I turned to God for help. I put my faith in God and was saved. I told Him that my whole life was His. A few weeks later an evangelist put up a small tent in Ada, Oklahoma, near where I lived. Soon the whole community began to buzz with amazing stories of healings that took place there.

I began to believe that God could heal me and that He would. One night my family took me to the revival to receive prayer. When the minister prayed for me, I expected to receive something—I believed that I would be healed. God met my faith.

I felt a warm glow spreading inside my chest. Suddenly I realized that I was healed of tuberculosis. When I leaped to my feet to tell the people what had happened, I found that I could talk; I did not stutter at all. I was instantly healed.

When I went back to the doctor at the Sugg Clinic in Ada, the fluoroscope showed that my lungs were absolutely perfect.

However, it was several weeks before I regained my full strength because my body had been emaciated and weak.

I am now 42 years old and am in the best of health. Each week I preach to millions of people by radio and television. In the big canvas tent cathedral I preach to tens of thousands that God is a good God. I tell them how God healed me.

I am physically well and strong. I have endured many hardships. I travel hundreds of thousands of miles and carry the gospel to the masses.

Why was I healed? Thousands of people have written and asked me, "How did it happen?" I was healed because I believed God was able to heal me. I expected Him to do it. I turned from fear and wrong believing. When I believed that God would heal me, He met my faith.

You, too, can experience the healing power of God. Open your mind and heart to Him, believe that He is good, that He wants you to be healthy. Pray, or accept the prayer of faith, and believe. God will deliver you in mind, soul and body.

Deloach Advances In Navy Air Force

Aviation Electronics Technician, Third Class Jack M. DeLoach

The following letter was received recently by Mrs. Donia DeLoach informing her of her son's advancement in rate in the U. S. Naval Air Force. Jack is in the field of Electronics and Mrs. DeLoach is justifiably proud of her son's accomplishments. —The Editor

"My Dear Mrs. DeLoach,

It gives me great pleasure to inform you of your son's advancement in rate to Aviation Electronics Technician (Radar), Third Class.

Advancement in our modern Navy is only achieved by those individuals who have both the necessary initiative to complete their required courses and the professional ability to qualify for each new rate. Your son has not only fulfilled the requirements of this command, but also passed a Navy-wide professional competitive examination with high marks.

It is gratifying for me to command and work with men such as your son who have the initiative and talent to take advantage of the educational facilities of the U. S. Navy in order to further their careers, thereby strengthening our country.

I join you in the pride you must feel.

Sincerely yours,
J. W. LENNEY

JUNE IS BUDDY MONTH

The month of June has been designated "Buddy Month" by the United States Air Force Sgt. Jeffries, local USAF Recruiting Sergeant disclosed yesterday. The Sergeant said "Buddy Month" was established to enable long time friends and high school graduates an opportunity to remain together after enlisting in the Air Force.

Sgt. Jeffries said that a high school education is desirable for the "Buddy Plan" but that men who have completed the 10th grade are also eligible for the program. By enlisting in the Air Force under the "Buddy Plan" young men of the Clanton area can be assured of remaining together through basic training, the Sgt. said. At the same time, it was disclosed that vacancies exist at the local recruiting station for men with mechanical, electronics, administration and general aptitudes.

For further information on the many opportunities available to the young men of the Clanton area, contact Sgt. Jeffries located at Montgomery or phone AM 3-7521 Ext. 349.

Insects Take Great Toll Of Crops In Alabama

Insects and diseases take a tremendous toll of fruits and vegetables in Alabama each year.

And growers cannot afford to take a chance on losing a large part of their crop or reducing its quality by damage caused by insects and diseases, states our expert.

Wise farmers start the dusting or spraying program before the crop is damaged, rather than afterwards. And they repeat the applications regularly to protect new growth and to replace material as it loses its strength or is washed off by rain.

Fruit and vegetable growers also find that it is important to spray or dust with the right maerial and to follow manufacturers directions.

JULY SHOWERS BRING MORE BOLL WEEVILS

Alabama cotton farmers who keep dusting or spraying in July and August are the ones who will keep going to the gin in the fall.

The most important job on any cotton farm during these months is controlling cotton insects. And poisons stored in the barn will not kill weevils in the field.

Frequent late afternoon sprayings are best during the rainy weather that usually comes in July and August.

The kind of insecticide doesn't make much difference. But the wise farmer adjusts the spray outlets to the proper height, which is above the top of the cotton plants and never low enough to drag thru them.

Applying plenty of insecticide is important and if weevils get out of hand, one or two applications at double the normal rate of dust or spray will help to regain control. Even if cotton growers get discouraged, threy won't stop poisoning if they want their state to pick a million bales in 1960.

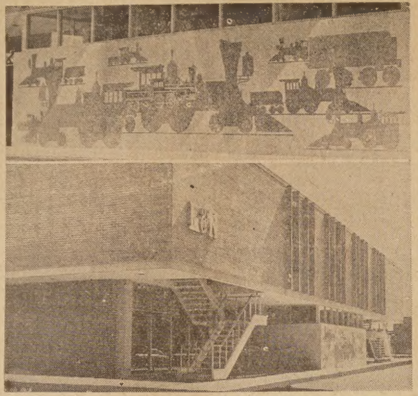
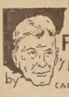
Old Landmark Replaced By Modern Structure



The new Louisville and Nashville Railroad passenger station at Birmingham, lower picture, is of modern, functional design, contains over 32,000 square feet of floor space and is air-conditioned thruout. Close-up, top, shows striking tile mosaic panel that decorates front of the attractive structure.



FROM MY FRONT PORCH

by CARL HELM

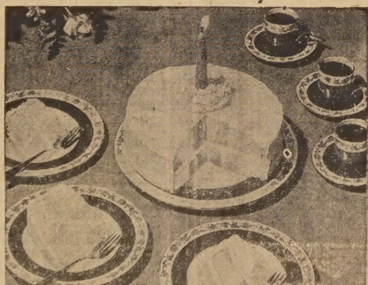
To millions of viewers of the Jack Paar television show he's been applaudingly introduced as "that zany screwball" and "America's No. 1 press agent." Which makes him, of course, an "interesting guest."

It's frequently apparent, however, by his reserved manner that the big, bearded Jim Moran, soft-spoken and dignified, is but slightly bemused by that introduction. True, he sold an icebox to an Eskimo, sat on and hatched an ostrich egg, flew midgets on a giant kite, among other fantastic things.

But true also is the fact — known to but few — that he'd much rather be reputed and introduced as author of two tender, sensitive books for children: a dedicated classic guitarist, a shy, meditative philosopher. (But would that make him an "interesting guest"?)

The truly modest Moran and I have been friends for years. Away from the glittering uproar of Broadway, where he's a show-business legend, he is the most tranquil, retiring gentleman I've ever known, one devoted to the serenity of the spirit.

Rainbow Tints A Party Cake



Here is a fine party cake of rainbow hue. It will make a hit with guests and family too. Nonfat milk in reliquefied form adds an economical note while lowering the caloric count per portion. The trick is to delicately tint the batter. For special occasions use pastel shades of fresh flowers to decorate the cake plate.

Rainbow Party Cake
(Makes two 8-inch layers)

- ½ cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 tablespoon double acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup liquid Starlac

Few drops each of yellow, green and red vegetable food coloring.

Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla; beat until thoroughly blended. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add to mixture alternately with Starlac; beat well after each addition. Divide batter into three equal portions. Tint one portion yellow; the second portion green and the third portion pink. Butter 8-inch layer pans. Place large spoonful of yellow batter in center of one pan. Spoon green batter around the yellow batter. Spoon pink batter around green batter. Reverse the order of placing colored batter in the second pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake springs back when lightly touched with finger. When cool frost with your favorite fluffy frosting.

Suds Shine TV Screen!

he double? Try sudsing off your television screen.

There's nothing magic about a television screen. It's glass and can be treated like other glass surfaces. Wash TV screen with a soft, lint-free cloth wrung from thick or detergent suds. The cloth holds enough suds to clean surface, but there's no excess water to leak into the crevice een the screen and the case. Rub lightly in one direction oid streaks. Wipe with a clean damp cloth, then dry with towel.

a household with children and pets, laminated wood or c cabinets are best because such cases can also be washed with suds and water. Use your vacuum cleaner's up- ry brush to suck up the lint and dust that collect around reen and open grillwork.

you see blurred TV images in the future, don't always blame roducers or the station. When children and pets creep se to the set to peer at the show, they are sure to leave smudges and paw prints. No harm! A swish with a sudsy will chase away those screen "ghosts."

Pilots Receive Citation For TB Work In County

The Pilot Club of Clanton, longtime Christmas Seal campaign sponsor, was cited this week to be honored by the Alabama TB Association.

Local Pilots were proud to learn that a much-needed medical book, "Advances In Tuberculosis Research" will be presented to the Library of Tuberculosis Nursing Program, University of Alabama, in honor of Pilots.

The presentation of the valuable medical book will be made by Miss Stella Bray of Birmingham, past District Governor of Pilot International. And, as a lasting reminder of the many hours of service given to the TB effort by this humanitarian group, the book inscription will read: "Presented as a tribute to Pilots for their sustained interest in and substantial contribution to the crusade against tuberculosis".

Standing: Ruth Waters, director; Mabel Bean, president; Lois Mims, treasurer and Ellen Brinker, director and acting recording secretary.

What's new in fun-foods in Alabama? The answer is "Dipsy Doodles", a new triple-rippled corn chip made by Old London Foods, Inc. The product was the first to be created for use with dips. It is also the perfect accompaniment for beverages, soups, cold dishes as well as for just plain munching.

To mark the introduction of "Dipsy Doodles", now available at Kroger, A & P and Hill's as well as at many independent grocers, the Old London Home Economists prepared this dip recipe:

DIPSY DOODLE DIP

1 tablespoon grated onion
½ cup grated cucumber
¼ cup grated radishes
¼ cup grated carrot
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
1 cup thick sour cream
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce

On medium sized grater, grate onion, cucumber, radishes and carrot. Cream the cheese and stir in sour cream, parsley flakes, salt and tabasco. Add grated vegetables and blend. Chill until used. Makes about 2 cups. Serve with package of "Dipsy Doodles".

Unusual Sauce for Chicken Entree

CHICKEN DIVAN MADE WITH DESSERT TOPPING! Unusual . . . yes, and delicious too. The topping adds light texture and a rich creamy flavor to the divan sauce.

The dessert topping is made from a mix that is stored on the pantry shelf indefinitely . . . and the topping after it is made up can be kept in the refrigerator 3 or 4 days with no worries of separating or weeping. The recipe here uses just one cup of prepared topping and since an envelope makes 2 cups, here's an idea for the remainder. Add ¼ teaspoon of mint flavoring and serve it on pudding or fruit dishes for a refreshing dessert.

CHICKEN DIVAN

2 large chicken breasts, cooked and sliced
1 package (10 ounces) quick-frozen asparagus or broccoli spears
4 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken bouillon or chicken stock
4 tablespoons parmesan cheese
1 cup prepared Dream Whip

Cook asparagus or broccoli as directed on package. Drain.

SAUCE: Melt butter in saucepan. Add flour; blend. Gradually add bouillon or stock, stirring constantly. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened, 5 to 10 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons of the cheese and the dessert topping. Mix well.

Place the vegetable in casserole; cover with half of the sauce. Make a second layer with the chicken, cover with remaining sauce. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Broil until golden brown. Makes 3 servings.

WHO'S CALLING?

Who's Calling?" This question, asked by a person answering a telephone, is most likely to lose friends and alienate people, a survey of Southern Bell Telepoone Company employees, who deal with telephone matters every day indicates.

If it is really necessary to know who's calling, the edge may be taken off the question by phrasing it like this: May I say who's calling," or: "May I take a message for him please?"

According to Mr. Waters the restern Bell manager for this area, there are many ways to annoy callers when answering the telephone But, he says, there are equally as many ways to make friends and influence people with good telephone manners.

Southern Bell's telephone courtesy films and lecture demonstrations are available for schools, clubs and businesses in this area. These films and demonstrations point out how you can win or lose a friend for yourself or business for your company each time you answer a call.

Here's The Point—

"The point is to convey that you are a helpful, alert person", he advises. He suggests that an honest desire to be helpful and interested will almost automatically help attain this objective.

Accordin to Mr. Waters the response "Hello" to a ringing telephone is definitely on the way out and should be.

"John Smith speaking", is a good way to answer a telephone—providing of course, your name is John Smith.

Ample parking space has been provided with the manner of situation of the building on the lot.

This lodge, with its one-hundred members, has done extremely well in providing an adequate and desirable building for this generation to enjoy and no burdensome indebtedness to carry.

Take the Safe Way. . .

Whenever and wherever you're driving during the holiday weekend ahead, highway safety should be your most important consideration.

Safe driving depends on many things, but the most important is the fellow behind the wheel. With more cars on the roads, ordinary highway hazards are multiplied many times. A split second's carelessness could turn a pleasant holiday into a day you'll always regret.

Have your car checked carefully, consider the weather, road conditions and drive accordingly. Drive carefully—take the safe way this holiday.

CHEVROLET

OUT WHERE THE COUNTRY CAN TEAR A TRUCK TO PIECES—

Chevy middleweights get 1/3 more work done in a day!

Where they used to deliver 2,300 gallons of liquefied petroleum gas in other trucks, Petrolane Gas Service of Long Beach, California, can now deliver 3,500 gallons a day! That's 7 days a week usually, over back trails and up into high rock country with maximum GVW loads. And with Chevy's Torsion-Spring Ride paving every foot of the way! "You don't get any more jolting on washboard roads than you do in a passenger car, or any sidesway on curves," says driver Bernie Stone. "I used to take some rough roads at from 5 to 8 miles an hour. Now I can go 30 over them." Petrolane has over 200 Chevrolets hauling for them.

If you think we're excited about Chevy's independent front suspension, you ought to talk to the truck owners who are profiting by it. They'll tell you Chevy's torsion-spring design is the hottest thing to hit the industry since trucks began. Drive one—that's the proof, short and sweet.

FROM MY FRONT PORCH

by CARL HELM

Measured against Conshohoken, Pa., Pleasant Prairie, Kan., Kokomo, Ind., or any other of a thousand hometowns, New York isn't America. It's just about everything but!

Its ethnic conglomerate, its high rewards for the best brains and talent from all the continents, its seat of the United Nations, make New York a world city — the world's capital, really, of money and materialism. As one of many consequences, there are the ever increasing, ever higher soaring skyscrapers which are making of New York's principal borough of Manhattan one vast office-building complex.

Fifth and Park Avenues, for generations symbols of elegance and fashion, are becoming canyons of slab-sided glass and metal structures, 40, 50, 60 stories high; the old brownstone mansions vanish. It's bigness at its biggest: bedazzling, expensive — New York.

The evidence accumulates that the average American, however, is becoming less bedazzled by bigness. The continuing success, for instance, of the smaller, unadorned but trim and economical Lark by Studebaker is proving this among the motoring public in every hometown in our land.

With all its glamor and glitter, its sophistication and its showiness, New York is a city that every American should see at least once. It is exciting and stimulating, a continuous World's Fair. It is, as many an out-of-towner has observed, "a wonderful place to visit — but I wouldn't live there if you gave it to me!"

We've Got The Supply--

DURING a good peach year, such as we are now experiencing, Chilton County farmers are finding it increasingly difficult to find a suitable market for their crops whereby they can realize a substantial profit.

The problem, as it stands today, seems to lie in the 'supply and demand' department. We have the supply, but the demand is not great enough in present markets to give the farmer a good price for his product.

The answer seems to be somewhere in the fact that we must either find new markets, better ways of moving our peaches (canning for instance) or some of us are going to have to get out of the peach business.

Some growers are developing an opinion that if the consumer is not willing to pay for a good product then he will give him a cheaper one. Under no circumstance should we let our quality peaches be overrun by shabby replacements. "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops" and every effort should be made to keep them that way.

It seems to be a negative approach to the problem to even suggest that we 'undersell' our product and that is what would come from "quitting".

If there is not a market for our No. 1 peach -- at least not a sufficient market -- then we should organize even more closely to see that markets are made available. Somewhere, there are people who have never tasted a Chilton County peach who don't realize what they are missing -- our job, it would seem, is to find those people and get our product to them!

There's no question that we're in the peach business and like any other business, it would be foolish to throw that knowledge and experience which we have acquired to the winds. The thing we must do is to continue to "sell" peaches and to continue to "sell" buyers on a truly superior product. If we do this -- together -- we will see results!

Home Grown Products -- The Best--

WE have always been firmly convinced that a home-grown product was the best kind! Especially when you are dealing in 'people' as the product.

Such is the case with two of our homegrown varieties in the persons of Russell Shelton, Jr. and Ervin Dailey, Jr. They are truly different in their personalities, but equally endowed with what it takes to make a fine 'product'. Of course Chilton County can only claim them geographically, because the makings was given without the help of location. Mom and dad Shelton and Dailey had a large hand in the finished product, not to mention the determination and faith in the makeup of these two fine young men.

This past Sunday, these gentlemen conducted the entire service at First Methodist Church in Clanton and we have never witnessed a better, more forceful message than these two lads brought.

Our hat is off to these deserving young men and though we cannot claim any credit for 'making' them we do reserve the right to acclaim them for their accomplishments and we're glad that they are from our 'orchard'.

At the least, it speaks well of our community.

Drunk Meter To You--

THE City of Clanton has purchased a Photo Electric Intoximeter. That is a machine to determine the amount of alcohol in the blood when a man who can't even stand up swears he has only had one beer or maybe one drink of whiskey.

This new machine will tell exactly how drunk the party is and how much they had to get that way. No more guessing for the City Policemen.

The local Police force has had some other unfortunate incidences too, that the Photo Electric Intoximeter will prevent. Among these, is the diabetic who slips into a coma and acts very much as though he were drunk.

The first test was made last Saturday on the new machine and the subject came up with a 30.05 reading on the machine. Since the instructions say the fellow who registers 35. is totally "out", then that fellow with a 30.05 reading must have been "loaded"!

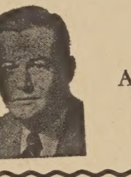
Report from Washington



BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Both the House and the Senate worked overtime last week in an effort to complete pressing legislative business so that they can adjourn next month before the political conventions begin. Although there is some speculation that it will be necessary for Congress to return in August, such is highly unlikely during an election year.

District Suffrage—

Action was completed in Congress last week on a resolution which proposes a constitutional amendment to give residents of the District of Columbia a vote for President and Vice-President.

The proposed constitutional amendment would give the District three votes in the Electoral College. Before it can berome law, it must be ratified within seven years by three-fourths (or 38) of the 50 states.

Pay Raise Voted—

Both houses of Congress also approved last week a federal pay raise bill that faces a threatened Presidential veto. As sent to the White House, the measure calls for a 7.5 per cent raise for classified workers and an average 8.2 per cent increase for postal employees. These increases would become effective on the first pay period after July 1.

Cuba Studied—

Last Friday I called a meeting of the Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs, of which I am chairman, to re-examine the growing communist threat in the Western Hemisphere — with particular reference to the critical situation in Cuba. Several members of Congress were heard on Friday, and we expect to receive testimony from officials of the Executive Branch when hearings are resumed by the Subcommittee this week.

One of the principal goals of international communism is to divide the American Republics and to weaken the United States' position of leadership. Its ultimate aim, as proved in Guatemala, is complete control and domination of the individual countries of the Western Hemisphere.

In an effort to destrcy our leadership and to impose the communist philosophy and way of life upon the people of the Americas, the forces of international communism have subjected the United States to an unprecedented campaign of vilification and abuse. Aiding and abetting these efforts are certain offcials of the present government of Cuba. Outright slander and deliberated distortion of the truth have become characteristic of efforts by the Castro regime to undermine our relations with our Latin American neighbors and to build a false impression of the United States and its policies in the minds of the people of Cuba.

Our government has been most patient with these fanatic attacks, but we can ill afford to ignore mounting evidence that the present Cuban government is being used to further the international communistic conspiracy.

Although the importance of the wringer washer has decreased in the last 10 years, it still accounts for about 20 percent of the total washers sold.

Watch Out For The '4th'—

WATER SAFETY IS UP TO YOU COUNCIL SAYS

The biggest playground in America today is — the water!

Virtually every major adult summer spirt centers around water, the National Safety Council points out. And one of the biggest sports of them all is swimming.

Unfortunately, swimming fun all too often is spoiled by drowning.

About 2,300 Americans drown annually swimming or playing in the water. One out of 15 fatal accidents is a drowning.

A reported 30 million-plus Americans swim, sometimes in the nation's estimated 250,000 swimming pools, more often in rivers, lakes and ponds.

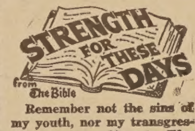
Swimming fun probably reaches a peak over the Memorial Day and Fourth of July holidays.

Anyone can learn to swim, the experts say. As one writer put it, "All you need is water, a swimsuit and the willingness to enjoy yourself."

You can't enjoy yourself, of course, if you're afraid for your life.

Safety in swimming means keeping in mind such tips as these from the Council, hub of the safety movement in America and concerned with all forms of safety:

1. Learn to swim.
2. Be sociable — never swim alone.
3. Stick to the beaches with lifeguards around. Look before you leap. Don't swim or dive in unfamiliar waters.
4. Know your limitations. Don't swim so long you become tired, overheated or chilled. Take it easy.
5. Don't swim right after eating. Give your meal time to digest.
6. Don't rebel if your muscles cramp—relax for a moment in a face-down float and massage the muscle.
7. Swim parallel to shore if you want to test your endurance.



Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions; according to Thy mercy, remember Thou me for Thy goodness' sake, O Lord. —(Psalm 25:7)

Some of us find it difficult to forgive ourselves for the thoughtless or willful sins of our younger days, and a feeling of guilt lies like a stone on our hearts through the long years. But Our Father, through Christ Jesus, forgives us when we are truly repentant; we should then forgive ourselves.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

IF you've ever been a Linotype operator, and we're sure you all have at one time or another, you know that sometimes you are in rare form for what we call "tickling the keyboard". It's that time when you need four hands and you really only have two, both of which are 'left' and to top that off, all your digits are thumbs. Now if you've ever seen a "two-left-handed" man with ten thumbs trying to accomplish anything you've got some idea of what we had when we set this column (among others) up for to print. Everything was pretty much ETAOIN and SHRDLU and if you don't know what that means, it's just as well!

WE'VE all heard—and laughed at—the old saying about "being snake-bit! Well, it ain't funny! It refers to the status quo of a mans "luck or fortune" and here lately it seems like all the snakes have been snappin' at our heels. It all started back in 1951 when we bought our first automobile. We're coming to the conclusion that we're the kind of feller that could drive a brand spanking new car out of the showroom and immediately upon the expiratin date of the guarantee or warranty (call it what you will) the front wheel would fall off. When it hit the curb, it would spring the frame or bust the block or knock a hole in the transmission or the radiator would spring a leak, Not only that, but the mayor'd probably be standing there saying "I told you so" and we'd pay like sixty for that curbing we tore up! Dad blamed horseless carriages, anyhow; if we weren't so lazy we'd go to walking!

IT seems the briefest part of any women's club meeting around Chilton County is the business part. The eating or "refreshment" period seems to require so much time that it kinda crowds out everything else. And if they don't watch it, it kinda "crowds them out' too, if you know what we mean!

HEAR by way of a very reliable source that the new County Courthouse will be equipped with flagpole on which the new 50-Star American Flag can be proudly displayed. Bravo to the officials and in-dividuals who saw to it that this small detail was included into the plans. A flag may be a small matter, but OUR Flag, and "for which it stands. . ." is very important to us and to our way of life. Fly the flag in grateful acknowledgement of the sacrifice that has gone to keep it flying freely over a free land of freedom-loving people. Do not take it for granted under any circumstance!

GRIT is something we all have. In some it comes out as determination and in the other guy it's just plain mule-headed stubbornness. All depends on who's doing the looking.

SOMETIMES a conversation will crop up around home that has all the remarks of a good round of words, but just doesn't quite make it! For instance: Little Wayne: (as we were waxing the car and he was looking on) "We just got back!" Us: "Got back from where?" Little Wayne: "From where we got!" Naturally!

AND speaking of 'little people', the other day, after our eldest son had poured forth to his sister some of the things he could, would and would not do in a circumstance such as she was in, we couldn't help interfering. . . we should have known better. "Ben, to hear you tell it," we said, "you're a pillar of virtue." Very sure he was doing right he replied, "I guess I am." There's always a first time, we had never met one!

A question we overheard the other evening and can't seem to forget is: "Why did the Good Lord make temptation so strong, and man so weak?" Oh, that applies so directly to most of us!

THE family circle was discussing back and forth June 19th. "What is today, Sis?" "Sunday,' she replied. "Yes, but what special day is it?" "Dad she said. "And what mean?" After cons the factors she triumph nounced, "Socks!"

Take Care When Using Electric Fans

When putting your oscillating fan to use, remember the little folks around the house.

Auburn Extension Engineer Bill Cox says a fan ran be set right on the floor for air circulation in the room. But he warns that there are safety precautions to be taken.

To eliminate the danger of children sticking their fingers into the fan and to keep them from hurting themselves while playing near it, cover the fan with one-half inch mesh hardware cloth. And as an added safety measure, check old cords to see that they are in good conditions, adds Cox.

More Vegetables Result From Extra Waterings

Vegetables are little bags of water with most of them running 90 per cent or more.

And Extension Horticulturist John Bagby says the rule-of-thumb is that vegetable plants require about one inch of water every week. This means that it takes 27,000 gallons of water to cover an acre of land to a depth of one inch. And if there is not enough rainfall to furnish the amount of water needed, gardeners who have a water source available should add some to make this amount. They will find it pays off in more and better vegetables.

Bagby says too little water causes wilting, poor growth, blossom drop, and many other things. And early morning waterings are best because the leaves will be dry by night.

Enough to Go 'Round The Earth 132 Times

Prosperity follows the dairy cow.

Enough milk is produced every year in America to fill a river 3,021 miles long, 40 feet wide and three feet deep, according to Extension Dairyman John Parrish. And if all of the milk produced last year had been put in square quart containers side by side, these containers would extend more than 132 times around the earth.

That is a lot of milk, but during the next decade it is predicted that dairy cows will produce even more milk than ever. Dairy farmers should see a 20 billion pound growth in the milk market, says the Auburn specialist. However, the use of this milk does not agree with the production. The per capita consumption for the year 1959 was 689 pounds compared to 692 pounds for the year 1958 and 741 pounds in 1950.

Children need three to four glasses of milk a day, teenagers four or more, and adults two or more. Milk used in cooking and other dairy products can supply part of this quota.

Big Event Of June--

Miss McCullar Mr. Blalock Exchange Vows

INSIDE — TOP SPOT 2 CL HD.
Big Event of June—

A scene of beauty marked the setting of the home wedding of Miss Carolyn McCullar and James Colyn Blalock on June 3 at 6:30 o'clock.

Hurricane lamps were spaced from the sidewalk to the entrance of the home which added to the beauty. Rev. L. D. Brookshire officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lowell McCullar and Mr. and Mrs. Vonnie Curtis Blalock.

The couple exchanged their marriage vows before a screen in front of the fireplace which was decorated with ivy and two tall baskets of white glads and on each side 7 branched candleabra holding white burning tapers, with ivy entwined around the base. A white rug marked the place for the couple. A large mirror over the mantle gave a beautiful reflection of the decorations.

Miss Carolyn DeVaughn played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Ann Williams as she sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "A Wedding Prayer".

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Charles Babers, who wore a turquoise dress of polished cotton, capped sleeves with a sweetheart neckline and fitted princess waltz length. Her bouquet was white carnations with yellow streamers. The bandeau she wore was of white satin and net with tiny yellow flowers and she wore shortie gloves and white shoes.

Mr. Charles Bavers served Mr. Blalock as best man.

Candles were lighted by Wayne McCullar, brother of the bride and Gary Ballock, brother of the groom.

The brothers also served as ushers.

Miss McCullar, given in marriage by her father, was a portrait of loveliness in her wedding gown of white taffeta with sweetheart neckline and three quarter length sleeves, designed in princess lines with a panel in back and was waltz length.

Her shoulder length veil was attached to a crown of seeded pearls and sequins. She wore a strand of pearls, gift from her mother. She carried a white Bible topped with two baby orchids and lillies of the valley and streamers of white satin ribbon tied with love knots.

Mrs. McCullar chose for her daughter's wedding, a baby blue eyelet dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Blalock wore a blue dress with touches of white and also wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Bobby Headley presided at the Bride's Book from an appointed table with a crystal bud vase holding a single yellow rosebud.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents were the hosts at a reception in the home. White and yellow bows of ribbon marked the entrance into the dining room. The Bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth draped with net and caught at each corner with yellow roses and white wedding bells and white satin streamers. The four tiered wedding cake was placed on a mirror plaque surrounded with fern and yellow rosebuds. The cake was white decorated with yellow and green bells and topped with a miniature bride and groom. The third and fourth layer was divided with white swans. On one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl of lime sherbert punch which was surrounded by gardenias and fern with a floating gardenia in the punch bowl. On the table was nuts and green mints. The table was centered with a five branched crystal candleabra entwined with ivy and gardenia with yellow ribbons and holding white burning tapers. Flowers on the buffet were white glads interspersed with yellow pom-poms.

After the cutting of the cake by the bride and groom it was served by Mrs. W. D. Rhodes and Mrs. Toby Mayfield, who were dressed in blue waltz length evening dresses wearing white carnation corsages.

They will be at home at 307 2nd Avenue North in Clanton.

Good luck!

Abruzzi Rye Gives Early Fall Grazing

Alabama farmers are saying that you can't beat Abruzzi rye for early fall grazing.

And reasearch conducted by our experiment stations bears them out, states Extension Agronomist O .N. Andrews. Rye is an unusually hardy crop and furnished grazing earlier than other small grains. The specialist adds that it will germinate with less moisture than other cereals and will make fair growth on land that is too thin for wheat or oats.

Andrews says that after rye starts to "root" early in the spring it makes poor grazing and is not good for hay or silage. So in order to lengthen the grazing season, some farmers overseed with 15 lbs. of rye grass and 20 pounds of crimson clover per acre. Then the rye furnishes late fall and early winter grazing, and the rye grass and crimson clover give late winter and early spring grazing.

Another way farmers handle rye is by planting a small area for fall and early winter grazing until oats and other crops are ready. Then in late February or early March, they turn the crop and follow with another.

ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

NOW THAT VACATION SEASON is in full swing, I think it's appropriate for us to salute one who has done much to help us maintain and preserve some of our finest and most scenic vacation spots. He's Smokey the Bear, the cartoon character who cautions us about carelessness with fire in our forests and woods. Smokey has probably impressed more people with the need for outdoor fire - safety than anyone else. Let's all take his good advice this summer.

P. S. While on the subject of safety, I'd like to remind you to be careful over the long Fourth of July weekend coming up soon. Watch the traffic and don't take chances if you go swimming or boating. Have a happy Fourth but a safe one.

THIS IS STATION C-O-W! I've never seen a talking cow, but recently I heard of one that almost does. It's a "broadcasting" cow used by University of Nebraska scientists to study the digestive processes in cattle. A tiny transistor radio in the cow's stomach transmits information which ultimately will be used to help improve cattle feeding. Transistors, developed by the Bell Laboratories, permitted construction of a radio small enough for the cow to swallow without injury. Research of the kind which produced transistors is continuous in the telephone industry and its benefits always come back to each of us—directly or indirectly.

The Clanton Directory will be closing Friday, July 1st. This means that you have about a week during which time you may contact the Business Office about a change or an addition in the listing of your telephone. Speaking of additions, I know the other people that use your telephone would find it such a convenience to have their name listed. Inquire at the Business Office about it today.

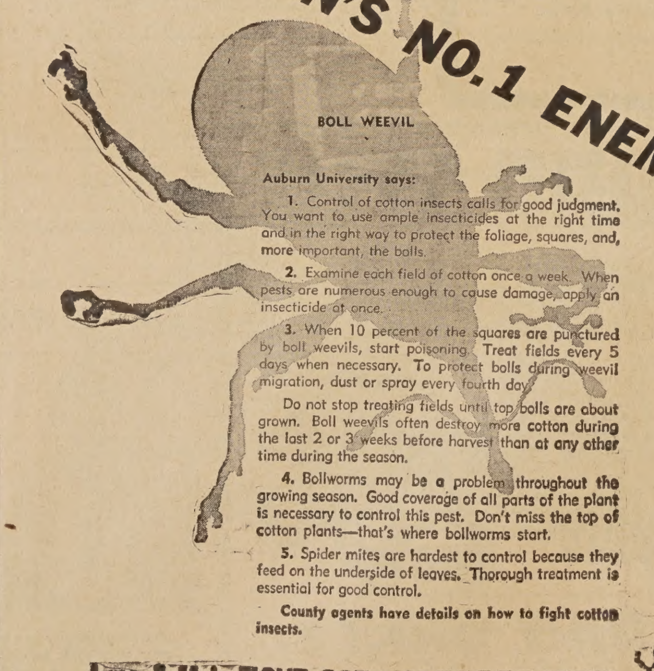
COTTON'S NO. 1 ENEMY!



Auburn University says:

1. Control of cotton insects calls for good judgment. You want to use ample insecticides at the right time and in the right way to protect the foliage, squares, and, more important, the bolls.

2. Examine each field of cotton once a week. When pests are numerous enough to cause damage, apply an insecticide at once.

3. When 10 percent of the squares are punctured by boll weevils, start poisoning. Treat fields every 5 days when necessary. To protect bolls during weevil migration, dust or spray every fourth day.

Do not stop treating fields until top bolls are about grown. Boll weevils often destroy more cotton during the last 2 or 3 weeks before harvest than at any other time during the season.

4. Bollworms may be a problem throughout the growing season. Good coverage of all parts of the plant is necessary to control this pest. Don't miss the top of cotton plants—that's where bollworms start.

5. Spider mites are hardest to control because they feed on the underside of leaves. Thorough treatment is essential for good control.

County agents have details on how to fight cotton insects.

Some 1500 See CD Rescue Squad Perform Water Safety Measures

ANYTIME a tragedy occurs or an emergency comes up, every one of us likes to know that there is someone available who can take over and handle the situation.

The Chilton County Civil Defense Rescue Squad proved to 1500 more persons Sunday afternoon that it is equipped and has the skill and training to cope with most any emergency — especially if it is a water emergency.

Sunday afternoon, at McGough's Camp on Lake Mitchell, the local Rescue Team demonstrated the do's and don'ts of water safety and how YOU can save your own or someone else's life in an emergency by following simple rules.

4 Commonly Violated Rules of The Water—

A demonstration on four commonly violated rules of the water was given by members of the Squad with the assistance of Eddie Chas. Henley and Alton Boulware, both with the Fish and Game Division of the Alabama Conservation Department. The four rules are:

1. Boats meeting head on.
2. Boats crossing at right angles.
3. Boat departing from pier or dock has right-of-way over incoming vessels.
4. Abrupt changes in course of vessel while underway, without observing other traffic on water, especially behind.

Demonstrations were given on several different subjects with the right way and the wrong way clearly identified.

Standing up in boat, motor too large for boat, many phases of water skiing, different types of life preservers and several others. In one, six men crowded into a boat large enough for possibly two and proceeded to cross the river. A larger craft came by and the waves swamped the boat. All six were thrown into the water.

BUT. . .!

If you are foolish enough to let the above happen to you, the Squad demonstrated very effectively how you can still come out of the situation alive. The six 'victims' locked arms across the boat and it floated all of them. KEEP YOUR HEAD!

Emcee for the occasion was Burton Mullins, head of Civil Defense in Chitlon County and directing the maneuvers was president of the Squad, Alvin Ellison. Also taking part in the Safety Show was a helicopter team from Ft. Rucker, who really knew their job and demonstrated "pick up" rescue operations. These rescue demonstrations were thrilling and Capt. Sandel, in charge, made them realistic and provoking.

Guest of the Squad for the event and to whom they dedicated the Show was Mrs. Charles E. Barrett, of Birmingham, whose husband was a victim of the riper near this place last year. Mrs. Barrett has assisted the local Squad in many ways since they were instrumental in recovering the body of her husband and the Squad in return dedicated this Safety Show to her and presented her with an orchid corsage.

Two of the State's Safety Patrol Boats were on hand for the occasion.

All in all, it was a whopping success and the only hope from the Rescue Squad was that someone would take heed of these lessons in water safety and make our waterways safer.

Wetumpka Man Drowns When He Topples From Boat

MONDAY afternoon at about 3 o'clock the Ala. Highway Patrol called out the local Civil Defense Rescue Squad to search for the body of Wendell Harris, 23, of Wetumpka, Rt. 3, believed drowned on Lake Jordan near Carlton's Camp.

50 members of the local Squad and all necessary equipment converged on the scene. At 9:25 p.m. the body was located by the Chilton County Squad, but due to litter and trees in the water could not recover it. A diver from the Inland Diving Service, using the lighting facilities of the Chilton Squad recovered the body.

According to reports, Harris was attempting to tune the motor of his boat when he asked an associate to "gun it!" When the companion did as he was requested Harris fell from the boat. Rescuers believe he hit his head on something when he fell.

COTTON ON 693 FARMS IN CHILTON CO

The rain that helps the cotton grow often gives help to cotton insects, too. Chilton County Agent John Sellers explained that there are generally a lot of clouds and showers during July. Such conditions make it more difficult to apply insecticides. But July and August are the months when the most important job on any cotton farm is to fight cotton insects.

Chilton County farmers have planted 5500 acres to cotton this season. Sellers believes farmers can harvest 300 lbs. of lint cotton per acre from this ecreage if they follow good insect control practices and the season is reasonably good.

Cotton insect control means more than dusting or spraying when it is convenient, Sellers said. During rainy weather it is most important that cotton fields be treated every four or five days. Dust or spray applications made in the late afternoon give the best insect control in rainy weather.

The kind of insecticide used during periods of rainy weather is not important, Sellers added. The important thing is to keep one of the recommended materials on the plants at all times.

LIFE must be worth living — the higher prices go the harder we try to make ends meet.

SUSPICION is the thing that makes us try to find out things that we'd rather not know.

IF you have the ability to accomplish things, you can afford to let the others do the talking.

MOST times a fellow gives you good advice, it's because he has no use for it himself.

WE spend most of our time being afraid of things that never happen.

Public Opinion Moves Ideas--

FOR many moons now, supporters of a Regional Library Program for Chilton County have been gathering strength of number to impress upon the powers that be just how much the people of Chilton County "want" library facilities. Now the crusaders, led by such organizations as the Junior Chamber of Commerce, are furthering efforts to connect onto, or join with Coosa County in the Coosa Valley Regional Facilities.

According to supporters, "In order for Chilton County to participate in this program the Board of Revenue and Control must consent to an annual appropriation of about $6500.00 to support the project; it has refused to do this in the past."

The State will match county funds to provide, "not only a central storehouse in Clanton, but also, bookmobile service to all parts of the County and to all school and municipal libraries now located in the County."

There should be no question of the usefulness of such a project. What remains to be seen is just how many of our citizens do wantthe facilities and how many of them would take advantage of this $6500 annual investment. When the supporters can prove this point without a doubt they will get the aid they seek. As we said, the forces are growing!

The Age of Traffic Lights--

THE signs of progress are many and varied. In this modern age, not in the least of these is the traffic light.

Many of Chilton's 'not so old' old-timers can remember when Clanton had only two traffic signals and Thorsby, Jemison and Maplesville didn't have any. Now, with the growth of traffic and our communities, traffic lights are springing up ever so often. Clanton now boasts five on busy Hwy. 31 and more than that elsewhere in the City. Our other towns are growing accordingly. It is interesting to note just how fast these changes come about. For anyone believing that our County is not growing, this is just one factor that disputes their belief.

Seeds Of Kindness - Sow Them--

IT is extremely difficult to love someone or something if you have hate in your heart. By the same token it is difficult to love someone if THEY have hate in their heart!

It seems that hate repels love, but love encompasses hate, when sincerely practiced. That love is a virtue is easily understood; putting it into practice in our day and time, when neighbors hate neighbors and races hate races; where individuals think they hate races, when really they don't know them, it is hard to spread love.

A fact, without exception, is that the only reason you could possibly hate another, providing you are in your right mind, is because you do not understand that person fully enough to appreciate his good qualities, and worse; you do not seek to understand. The same holds true of groups of people and even races of peoples.

Prejudice is a forerunner of hate and it is past time that we put it down, before it puts us down!

The Right To Life--

ONE hundred and 84 years ago members of the Continental Congress met in Philadelphia and affixed their signatures to a document declaring it to be self-evident that all men are endowed with certain unalienable rights.

ON July 4th this year, millions of Americans will leave their homes to celebrate that event and to exercise one of those rights — the pursuit of Happiness. In the pursuit hundreds of Americans will lose the vastly more precious right of Life. Thousands more will be deprived of Liberty through crippling injuries that will confine them to hospital or home, many of them permanently.

SINCE 1776, eight wars have been fought to preserve for you the rights proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence. On this 184th anniversary, do your part to preserve them for others. Drive carefully. Swim carefully. Play carefully. Make certain that you are not the cause of any other American losing his life, his liberty, or his ability to pursue happiness on a holiday week-end.

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

H. E. McCormack was a very truthful man, and he informed that he would be willing to make an affidavit as to the authenticity of the story he handed mes, and which I am about to tell.

It happened many years ago when Mr. McCormack and family vlied in a small town where he operated a feed business and a general store. The town had no railroad accomodations and when this merchant wanted to re-stock on certain items, it meant that he had o drive a two-horse team some night and make the return journey hirty miles to the city, spend the the next day.

"Ladies of the church were staging an ice cream supper, and they had commissioned me to get a hundred pounds of ice in the city for them," said Mr. Mack. "Well, sir, it didn't dawn on me that I had forgotten the ice until I got within fifteen miles of home. I worried through about five miles trying to figure out how I could erplain to the ladies. And while I worried, a dark cloud was gathering in front of me. All of a sudden it started raining, and then hail started falling into my conveyance in plentiful supply. After the hail storm, a clearing, and I whipped the horses into atrot.

"I drove into the church yard about an hour before serving was to start, shoveled hail, the women putting it into the freezers, and they made some of the best ice cream you ever tasted. The ladies didn't censure me for my poor memory, and the head of the Missionary Society said that that bountiful supply of ice was the Lord's work. Well, isn't it always?"

Report From Washington

By, Armistead Selden

Continuing its strenuous drive toward adjournment, the House of Representatives convened its daily sessions early last week and adjourned them alte. Many bills were acted on before the end of the week, including several measures that the leadership had indicated would have to be disposed of before adjournment. As I pointed out previously, both houses of Congress are making every effort to complete the legislative session before the political conventions in July.

Aid For Aged—

One of the major bills passed by the House last week in its adjournment drive is a social security bill containing a limited medical aid program for the aged. Approved by an overwhelmng vote of v80 to 23, the measure was referred to the Senate.

The social security bill was considered in the House under a rule which barred any amendments from the floor. In addition it a number of provisions that liberalize existing social security programs, the measure provdes limited medcal care for persons over 65 who cannot pay for it themselves. This would be accimplished through a system of matching federal grants to states. These grants would come from general treasury revenues rather than from increased social security payroll taxes as provided in the Forand Bill that was killed recently by the House Ways and Means Committee. Participation would be optional for each state, and participating states would be allowed to determine the range and standards of benefits within limits specified by the bill.

It is estimated that the House bill would cost the federal government approximately $165.5 million annually. Yearly costs to the states would total almost $160 million.

Wheat Bill Fails—

Two attempts to secure passage of legislation to reduce the wheat surplus, which now totals more than 1.3 billion bushels, were turned down by the House last Thursday. Members first voted down a Senate -passed bill that would keep price supports at 75 per cent of parity and reduce wheat acreage by 25 per cent. A bill proposed by members of the House Agriculture Committee was defeated next. The second measure called for raising supports to 85 per cent and cutting the acreage allotment by 20 per cent.

It is generally believed that the defeat of these two bills greatly lessens chances for passage of any wheat legislation during the present session of Congress.

Emergency Ends—

Also passed last week by the House of Representatives was a measure to end the 10-year-old Korean War emergency as far as military buying is concerned. The House acted after Chairman Carl Vinson of the Armed Services Committee said the armed forces have been relying on the emergency to bypass a law designed to encourage competitive bidding.

Under the provisions of the bill, the emergency would be ended for procurement purposes, although the President could reimpose it in any new emergency.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

YOU know, we're forever singing the praises of our "little woman" as a cook, because she is right up there with the best of 'em, but there is one thing that sets her apart from all the rest (little cooking required) and that's a dish known 'round our home by young and old as "Nanner Puddin" and you'll note the capital "N". 'Course that's a dish that some of you have never had and likely never heard of, especially yeu Yankee inclined folks, but there's just no topping it and that's when dessert time comes around a fact! Especially when the wife has a knack for that sort of thing. A few other delicacies which our 'cook' is famous around home for is potato salad, new potatoes (by the peck, man) steak (any kind, any way and very seldom), beans, peas, (fresh only) and man that cornbread just can't be beat. Just simple foods, 'tis true, but we are a simple fellow and like easy to eat and easy to like foods. Though we do not serve as a very substantial looking testimonial to our wife's fine cooking, we've noted that the skinnier the fellow, the greater his love for good food—could be that he needs it worse'n most folks—anyway, we sure appreciate ours, and the cook, too!

HON. John Patterson has gotten himself out on a limb and about the only graceful way down is to be sawed off! Not very graceful, but inevitable when you mess too deeply into things which are not your primary concern! In case he has forgotten, he does have a duty and responsibility, first to the people of this State, who elected him as Governor. . . and that's all.

PREACHER was expounding on the virtues of meekness and in defining it said that it was "gentleness' with strength of purpose. Also, in making a few illustrations, he forcefully proved that the meek man, down throuh the ages has come to be the hero and a standard example to follow rather than the "violent" and "proud" man. In illustrating this fact he used Paul of the Bible and Nero of Rome. These are no doubt familiar to you as to which was the meek and which was the proud! Said Bro. Rice: "That's why people name their sons Paul and their dogs Nero!" We think that's a pretty good illustration and certainly points up the fact that it is true, as Crrist said, "The meek shall enherit the earth!"

HAD the distinct honor and privilege of attending the wedding Sathrday evening in Birmingham of Nelma Jo Boockholdt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Boockholdt, when she became Mrs. Norman Murell. As usual, the most nervous looking individual present was the best man! Can't understand why that always happens unless it's because it's usually some poor fellow who still retains his freedom, but realizes all too well that it's a losing battle. The affair was well carried off and we know Uncle Carson and Aunt Liza are proud of their only dauhter who has found for herself a helpmate. We wish the newlyweds much happiness, of course and many grandchildren that they can tell all about their wedding day.

AND while we're speaking of Boockholdt's, it is with much concern that we see Mr. Carson Boockholdt go to the hospital in Montgomery again. He had an operation last year and complications developed requiring another. It was scheduled to take place yesterday morning (Wednesday)) and as this is written we do not know the results. Mr. Carson is a fine gentleman whom we respect highly and our prayers, such as they be, are with he and his wife through this trying itme. We're sure they would appreciate knowing that you might consider them in your prayers today!

LATEST version of an old-time song was voiced for us the other day by Benji, our five-year-old. He liked the song, which we had sort of absent-mindedly sung a few days before and kept after us to sing it for him. He enjoys singing and with great feeling. We didn't feel that the neighbors would particularly enjoy our rendition (we were out in the yard at the time) so we declined his inviation. He took it upon himself to sing it, as best he could, and it came out something like this:

Who can wash my sense away,
Nothing but the blood of Jesus.

Who can make me hold my can, and that was about all that he knew 'real well'. He wasn't being sacreligious, it just made sense to rim and that's 'the way he heered it'! He knows what his "sense" is and he knows what a "tin can" is . . . about those other things—such as "sin"—well, he hasn't learned that yet, but give him time.

Know Your Doctor

Are hospital bills, and doctors' bills, and drug bills too high? Is the price of meat. or haircuts, or automobiles too high? Are stocks too high or any other commodity or service too high?

Competition Can Force Costs Down—

As a free-enterprise system of capitalism, the United States has an automatic, built-in deterrent when something becomes too high. When it really is too high we stop buying it and the price drops in the face of competition.

Certainly this is true in the field of medicine, for any physician can easily price himself out of the market for his services. If the doctor wants $300 for an operation that an equally good man will do for $200, he soon finds that the laws of economics apply very swiftly. And the same applies to the price for house visits, consultations, and on and on.

What About Health Care?—

Is the cost of health care too high? By all economic yardsticks it is not: not while more and more people buy more and more insurance for more premiums to pay their bills for illness: not while people demand more and more services from hospitals and will pay for them: not while patients demand more and better care from their physicians and will pay for this improved service.

Kill The Goose And Have It Too—

What the battle is all about is that more and more people are getting trapped in the easy credit system of today and are committing their income on installment buying of TV sets, electrical appliances, automobiles, and the thousand and one commodities which are part of our high standard of living. If they can find dollars to buy the most advanced model of hi-fi stereophonic sound and get these dollars out of their regular yearly medical hospital and drug expenses, then they can have the dollars from the golden goose and kill it too. Maybe that is what they want to do an no one can blame them for trying.

Medical Package Bigger And Better—

Ironically, the success of medical advances is one of the main causes of higher medical bills for many families.

Tens of thousands of people are alive and able to work because doctors now prevent or successfully treat such things as pneumonia, polio, tuberculosis, heart ailments and other ills which were once fatal. But, as a direct result, more and more people are living on into a time of life when long and costly illnesses are likely to occur.

Basically, the rising cost of care can be traced largely to relatively new elements—new drugs, improved techniques, materials and equipment. Also, there are the salaries of specialists and technicians skilled in fields developed only recently with the result that the whole medical package now is bigger, better —and more expensive.

Possible Versus Impossible—

The problem is to try to find a way to keep medical bills from becoming an impossible burden, without halting the progress of medical science. It is easier now to keep from getting ill, to recover more quickly once illness hits, and to keep your health after you regain it. But the discoveries that make it possible cost money, so the cost of getting sick—and getting over it—keeps going up.

Candles were lighted by ushers, Eugene Carter and Dan Glass of Calera.

The vows were said before a wrought iron arch holding white cathedral illuminated candles, interwoven with smilax, accented with a fan-shaped arrangement of specimen white mums, gladioli, and bristol fang gypsophelia. On each side of hte arch were tiered wrought iron candelabras, palms, and urns of white bridal flowers. The family pews were marked with large bows of white satin ribbon.

Miss Sandra Murrah served her cousin as maid of honor. Her dress of shell pink organdy was fashioned with embroidered bodice and a full skirt which ended in embroidered scallops.

The junior bridesmaids were Miss Gayle and Donna Murrah, also cousins of the bride. They were dressed identically in pale blue organdy and carried miniature colonial bouquets of pale pink pompoms.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wyndol Murrah. She was lovely in a chapel length dress of imported tulle. The basque bodice featured a square neckline with silk embroidery extending into a cap sleeve effect. The fitted sleeves came to a calla point over her wrists. The bouffant skirt with tulle side ruffles was outlined by an embroidered peplum which extended in scallops down the length of the skirt. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Her hand-hemmed veil of imported illusion was attached to a atira of seed pearls and irridescent sequins. The bride carried a white Bible covered with lace over satin topped with split carnations and lilies-of-the-valley and centered with an orchid.

Mr. Kenny Farris of Calera served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at hte home. Miss Peggy Murrah, aunt of the bride, presided at the bride's book.

The table, covered with a cloth of madeira embroidery, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake mounted on a mirrored plaque. The cake was exquisitely decorated with hand-molded pale pink and blue roses and garlands of valley lilies and was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

After the traditional cutting of the cake by the bride and groom, it was served by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Wyndol Murrah of Bay Minette, Ala. COTTON—

ALA GOAL FOR 1960 IS ONE MILLION BALES

What are the odds that Alabama farmers will harvest a million bales of cotton this year?

"It's a goal we can reach," County Agent John Sellers declared, "If we will keep boll weevils from taking their usual toll of the crop and have good weather."

Boll weevils cause far more damage than bollworms, aphids, and spider mites combined during most years. Furthermore, Sellers pointed out, if a grower uses the right control methods for weevils, the materials will also be effective against bollworms and aphids.

WED SATURDAY EVENING

Mrs. Henry Grady Heflin, Jr.

On the afternoon of June 25, New Post Chapel at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, provided the setting for the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Sharon Lee Trail, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Harry E. Beliveau, Rector of Saint Paul's Episcopal Church of Altus, Oklahoma, read the marriage vows.

Mrs. R. M. Henson, organist, played traditional music and accompanied Major Charles R. Cochrane singing "O Perfect Love" and a "Wedding Prayer".

As matron of honor, Mrs. James Duke Heflin of Clanton, wore a gown of buttercup silk organza over matching taffeta, with a fitted bodice, pleated cumberbund, a double circle skirt, and matching lace jaket. She wore mathing accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of Talisman Roses.

The bridesmaids, Misses Linda Lawton, Oklahoma, and Misses Sue Jones and Jo Ann Williams of Jennings and Amanda Rice of Fort Sill, were dressed identical to the honor attendant and carried colonial bouquets of yellow roses.

The ringbearers, nephews of the bridegroom, were Duke and Irby Heflin, sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Duke Heflin.

The fitted bodice had long lace sleeves which tapered to points over the wrist, a scalloped Sabrina neckline embroidered with pearls and sequins. Graduated self roses formed an oval on the back of the bouffant lace skirt which was detailed with a scalloped hemline and swept into a graceful chapel train. Her four tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a jeweled lace pillbox. She carried a crescent bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis, and ilies of the valley.

The bride's mother wore an embroidered lace and peau de soie sheath of soft green with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore an imported pink batiste dress with lace and embroidery, matching accessories, and a corsage of orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Officers' Club. The bride's table was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candleabra. At each end of the table, champagne punch was served from silver punch bowls. Assisting in serving were Mesdames Verdi B. Barnes, Berton E. Spivy, A. C. Goodwin, Jr., I. F. Bonifay, B. B. The 'Secret' To A Long, Happy Life

To live to a "ripe old age" is the aim of most people.

But Extension Dairyman John Parrish reports that it is impossible for the aver'ge person to get enough of two important essentials for a prolonged life without milk. And these two are calcium for nerve, muscle and heart action, and bone strength and riboflavin, a vitamin of influence in preventing signs of senility. In addition, Parrish says milk gives protein needed for bone repair as the years go by.

If the adult does not get the right amount of milk, he will need to eat an egg, meat, bread, butter, cereal and about 30 servings of vegetables and fruit each day to make up his loss of calcium.

As Far As State Is Concerned--

An Able Father Must Support His Family

In answer to charges that aid to dependent children recipients refuse jobs because they "are afraid if they work they'll be cut off the welfare," Pensions and Security Commissioner Alvin T. Prestwood said such refusal can be cause for closing the case if the facts are made known to the Chilton County Department.

"We have definite requirements in regard to employment of both adults and children in ADC families," Prestwood said. "In the first place, the program is only for children who already have lost one or both parents' support through death, disability or absence. Thus, no child can get aid with two able-bodied parents in the home."

"Furthermore, an able-bodied father must always seek and accept employment. An able-bodied mother is also expected to seek and accept work she can do, provided suitable plans can be made for the care of the children."

Effects of this policy are seen in the fact that the mothers in about a third of the families are working full or part-time, the Commissioner said. For them, ADC supplements their low wages. In over 13 percent of the homes the mother was not present.

"The county workers are doing a good job, especially in the light of high caseloads, to help these people get back on their feet," Mr. Prestwood said. He added that additional staff is badly needed to enable the workers to do a better job and give more intensive services to all these families.

"While we hear vague reports about refusal of recipients to work, no one wants to give us names and other facts," Prestwood said. "We cannot investigate without the necessary information."

As for other needy groups finding work, Prestwood said that with an average age of over 74, the old age pensioners seldom are in the labor market. Neither are the recipients of aid to the disabled since one requirement is a "permanent impairment that is totally disabling." Under both State and Federal laws, the blind may earn as much as $50 monthly and not have it counted in computing their needs. Those in this group who are able to work are eager to do so, he added.

Southern Style Sea Food

Southern homemakers have long appreciated the convenience and economy of using Carnation evaporated milk in cooking. The better blending qualities of evaporated milk insure creamy, smooth texture, and because evaporated milk is a concentrated form of milk, it enhances dishes with extra nutrients. A popular use of evaporated milk in the South is in combination with fish. Shrimp is a favorite, and the home service department of the Carnation Company has developed two delicious dishes featuring this shellfish. Green peppers are filled with a flavorful mixture of shrimp, vegetables and evaporated milk in one of the dishes . . . the other is a variation of baked potatoes in which the vegetable becomes a tempting supper or luncheon entree.

SHRIMP STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS
(Makes 6 servings)

- 6 medium-sized green peppers, cut in half
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 2 cups chopped cooked shrimp
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ⅔ cup (small can) Carnation undiluted evaporated milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Cook peppers in boiling salted water 5 minutes. Drain. Meanwhile, melt butter. Add celery and onion and cook 5 minutes. Combine celery mixture, shrimp, crumbs, evaporated milk, eggs, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce; mix well. Fill green peppers with shrimp mixture. Arrange in buttered shallow baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 25-30 minutes.

SOUTHERN BAKED POTATOES
(Makes 4 servings)

- 4 large baking potatoes
- 1 cup cooked diced shrimp
- ⅔ cup (small can) Carnation undiluted evaporated milk
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon cayenne
- 1 tablespoon dehydrated minced onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- Grated Parmesan cheese

Bake potatoes in hot oven (400°) 1 hour, or until potatoes are tender. Remove tops from potatoes and scoop out potato; reserve shells. Mash potatoes. Combine potatoes, shrimp, evaporated milk, butter, salt, pepper, cayenne, onion and parsley; beat well. Fill potato shells with potato mixture. Sprinkle with cheese. Place on baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 20 minutes, or until thoroughly heated.

DON NELSON IS AN 'EVEN DOZEN'

Last Thursday, June 23 was a happy day for Don Nelson on his twelfth birthday when his mother, Mrs. Osley Nelson gave him a surprise birthday party.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. —(Romans 5:1)

We have faith that the sun will rise tomorrow; that when we turn them on, the electric light, the TV and the radio will work... belief in the operation of powers we cannot see or comprehend. Why, then, does our faith in God often falter? Without it, we can have no peace.

In warm summer months everyone wants to spend time relaxing with friends on breezy outdoor patios or in air-conditioned living rooms. Of course, cooling refreshments and tasty snacks are essential for such gatherings. Here are some hints for easy summer entertaining.

There is no better summer-time combination than good-tasting cheese spreads, some nibble tidbits, and a tall glass of iced coffee. Of unusual interest, too, are cheese spreads in new hostess jars. Attractively designed for use at home on your coffee table or outdoor buffet, the jars feature a wide top for easy service. Almost pear-shaped, the clear glass jars have easy twist-off tops and a steady flat base.

The cheese spreads are available in eleven flavor varieties from Pimiento or Pineapple to Smokey or Garlic. They provide quick steps to hostess popularity. Just arrange jars of the spreads near a tray ringed with crackers and assorted tidbits. Let everyone choose his own flavor. But here's a special flavor hint:

Spread pineapple cheese spread over two slices of canned luncheon meat, then put together sandwich fashion. Add a plain slice of meat for a top. Chill for a few minutes in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Remove and cut these double-decker meat sandwiches crosswise into finger-length or bite size pieces. Fill celery stalks with creamy blue cheese spreads.

Cheese spreads are a boon to teen-age summer sandwich making, too—let the kids make their own

Mrs. J. C. Parr and Mrs. Jimmy Bell were co-hostesses at the home of Mrs. Parr on Monday morning, June 20th when they had a Coke party.

A number of friends came by and enjoyed the get-together.

Mrs. Roberson left Wednesday morning for her home in Daytona Beach. Going with her was her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cox, for an extended visit.

Church Presents Burks Family With Gift In Farewell Service

"Mrs. Burks and I were greatly pleased to have the opportunity to dine with the members of the (Thorsby First Baptist) church family last Sunday at the noon hour in the basement of the church. It surely was one of the nicest occasions that we have experienced. Then, on Sunday night at the last service Norma Gail Anderton, grand daughter of Mrs. S. F. Mims, marched down the isle and up on the rostrum and presented Rev. and Mrs. Burks with an envelope filled with money as a token of the love and appreciation of the donors. Superfluous to say, no person or persons could ever be worthy of the recipients such as that. We have felt from the very beginning of the relationship with the First Baptist Church Thorsby, that we could never exceed in services rendered to them in many, many nice things that have been done for us across the years. We are deeply grateful to this fine church family for what they have meant to us."

"To our friends in Chilton County, may I say to you that we are profoundly grateful unto you for what you have meant to us across the years and we shall be ever eternally grateful to our Heavenly Father for permitting us to pass this way in order that we might come to know the people of this County and work with them.

We will be located temporarily at 505 Neverre Street, Gulf Breeze, Fla., just across the Bay from Pensacola going East.

There is nothing that would thrill me more than to fondly anticipate sharing fellowship with you as you find opportunity to come our way, or if you are passing our way, for you to spend some time in our home."

Missionary To Receive Honorariums—

The deacons of the First Baptist Church have arranged for a visiting speaker Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock and have obtained the services of our associational missionary for Sunday night, 8:00 o'clock.

Our Associational Missionary will also preach both Sunday morning and Sunday night on the second Sunday in July. Bro. Fields and Mrs. Fields are endearing themselves to the Baptists of the Chilton-Unity Association. We are happy to report to the churches of the Chilton-Unity Association thru this letter that on last Sunday afternoon the Executive Committee voted unanimously for honorariums paid for supply or service rendered over and above the regular duty of our Missionary be retained for himself. Please let us remember that when he is called upon to supply for a pastor the amount paid for supply should be given to him personally.

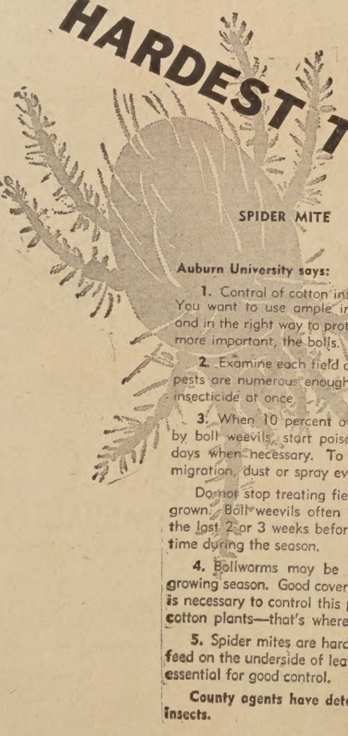
HARDEST TO CONTROL!



Auburn University says:

1. Control of cotton insects calls for good judgment. You want to use ample insecticides at the right time and in the right way to protect the foliage, squares, and, more important, the bolls.

2. Examine each field of cotton once a week. When pests are numerous enough to cause damage, apply an insecticide at once.

3. When 10 percent of the squares are punctured by boll weevils, start poisoning. Treat fields every 5 days when necessary. To protect bolls during weevil migration, dust or spray every fourth day.

Do not stop treating fields until top bolls are about grown. Boll weevils often destroy more cotton during the last 2 or 3 weeks before harvest than at any other time during the season.

4. Bollworms may be a problem throughout the growing season. Good coverage of all parts of the plant is necessary to control this pest. Don't miss the top of cotton plants—that's where bollworms start.

5. Spider mites are hardest to control because they feed on the underside of leaves. Thorough treatment is essential for good control.

County agents have details on how to fight cotton insects.

public safety, come these shermen:

On the dangers of hooks—

1. Try not to carry fishing lines with hooks attached.
2. Don't fish too near other anglers.
3. Be careful casting your line.
4. Handle with special care bait casting plugs that contain clusters of double or triple hooks.
5. If a hook gets imbedded in you or one of your fishing cimpanions, see a physician, unless you're sure the wound is extremely minor.
6. Try never to back a hook out of a wound. It's best to push the point of the hook through the skin.

On Wading—

1. Test each step in advance. Many streams and pools have underwater shelves or other dropoffs.
2. Remember that flat, underwater rocks usually are slippery.

On Boat Safety—

1. Check your boat for leaks or other defects before leaving shore.
2. Take along life perservers, an extra oar or paddle and a bailing can.
3. Don't overload the boat.
4. Never stand in a boat or sit or stand on the bow or stern.
5. Be cautious about changing places in a boat while in deep water. Better to come into shallow water first.

If your boat capsizes—

"Stick with it," Kuhli said. "Even most small boats will support several persons for hours. Keep calm. Wait for help to arrive rather than try to swim to shore."

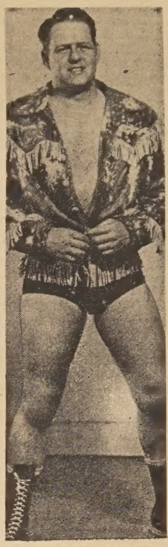
Friday, July 1st—

Big-Time Wrestling At Colored Ball Park



Friday night, July 1, 8:15 p.m., at Clanton Colored Ball Park, Clanton, Ala. the first big wrestling card to be held in a long time will be presented. It will be sponsored by the Great Ace's Social Saving Club and Nick Gulas, Birmingham promoter is matchmaker.

In the main event, Frankie Cain and Lester Welch, two very popular stars will meet two of the roughest and toughest men in matdom when they tangle with Don and Al Greene.

The Greene's are rated among the top teams in the nation and will go all out to stop the winning streak of Welch and Cain.

Cain and Welch form the ideal team. They think like champions. They both like it best when the going is the roughest, and they are confident they can defeat their opponents.

Action and plenty of it in this big battle — which will be 2 out of 3 falls — 1 hour.

To get this card underway, there will be two one fall, 30 minute matches. Lester Welch tangling with Don Greene and Frankie Cain encountering Al Greene.

First match 8:15 p.m. That date again: Friday, July 1st at the Clanton Colored Ball Park. The Club is selling advance tickets. Prices are ringside $1.50, general admission $1.00. Children under 12 will be 50c.

In April--

Average Pension In Chilton $53.21

348 of the 1,035 old people receiving pensions from the Chilton County Department of Pensions and Security also receive Social Security (Old Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance) Benefits from the Federal Government, Miss Joyce Clements, local Welfare Director, revealed today. This group represents 26.7 percent of all Old Age Pensioners in the County, she said.

Both programs are more liberal today than in 1955, she explained. A larger number of old people are eligible for some social security, and old age pension standards are higher than five years ago.

"The amount of a social security check, however, is always counted as any other income and deducted from a person's need in computing the amount he can get from the Department of Pensions and Security," it was explained. The average old age pension payment in April, when this study was made, was $58.14 for the group not receiving OASDI or social security and $35.26 for those getting it. For both groups combined the April pension average was $53.21.

The same study showed that only 8.8 percent of the aid to dependent children families have OASDI benefits, Miss Clements said. The statewide average is 5.3 percent.

Again, there was considerable difference in payment for the OASDI recipients and those getting ADC only.

Miss Clements expressed the hope that most persons not yet 65, or 62 in the case of women, will be eligible for OASDI upon reaching retirement, and that such benefits, will be adequate to cover their needs. Those with a minimum or inadequate benefit who are also eligible for a supplementary pension would gradually become fewer in number.

Sargeant William E. Chambers Receives Crew Chief Award

S-Sgt. William E. Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Chambers of Maplesville, KC-135 crew chief of the 4238th OMS, was presented the Master Crew Chief award Tuesday by Col. Julian M. Bleyer, wing commander, in ceremonies held on the base flight line.

The sergeant received master crew chief patches and a 2nd AF master crew chief pin for his recognition.

To be eliible for the award, the aircraft must have flown for a three month period without a late take-off or cancellation. Chambers' aircraft has flown for the past 11 months without a late take-off or abort.

"During the past four years Sergeant Chambers has continually exhibited the technical and managerial ability to properly crew B-47 and KC-135 aircraft," said Capt. Deane F. Myers, KC-135 Branch supervisor.

SM-Sgt. James J. McCann, flight line controller, has this to say of the sergeant:

> "Sergeant Chambers' ability to train subordinates is one of his greatest assets. As an OJT instructor he trains and prepares airmen assigned to him for upgrading in a minimum amount of time."

"Sergeant Chambers has set an outstanding record in this organization with no late takeoffs or aborts for an 11 month period on his aircraft," says M-Sgt. Larkin Angel, flight crief. "His maintenance is of the highest quality and he will not compromise ground safety procedures to make a short cut on the job,' the sergeant continued.

Chambers is a veteran of 7½ years service, has been at Barksdale for the past seven years. He has performed duties as crew chief of B-47 and KC-135 aircraft since being assigned there.

Peace Costs Money

Help Strengthen America's Peace Pow

The littlest guy at your Thanksgiving table probably doesn't know what freedom from want means. But he's sure there's going to be lots to eat, that everything is O.K.—peaceful. And that's the way we want to keep it.

But peace costs money. Money for industrial and military strength. Money for science and education. And money saved by individuals.

Every U. S. Savings Bond you buy helps strengthen America's Peace Power. Are you buying as many as you might?

SAFETY FIRST—During National Safety Week, July 24-30, folks throughout the nation will be conscious of safety hazards. But wouldn't it be wise if safety practices were carried out daily? Here, members of the Fairview 4-H Club in Coffee County discuss the dangerous end of a lawn mower with Assistant County Agent Tom Casaday. The rotary-type mower will throw pieces of wire, rocks, or other objects at high speeds from the opening where grass is blown from the mower. Therefore, small children or others should not be playing or working in the yard at the time the machine is in operation except the person mowing the lawn. Shown, left to right, are James Allen, Glen Wilkins, Carrel Wyatt, Agent Casaday, and Billy Gautney.

National Safety Week, July 24-30

EVERY year farm and home accidents in the country take a toll of 14,000 lives. And some 3,500 of these are home accidents. Motor vehicle deaths total 6,000, while occupational work accidents take a toll of 4,500.

At present, records show several recent accidents in Alabama. They include the following: a mule kicked a farmer during an attempt to bridle him; a can of kerosene exploded as a person attempted to build a fire in the kitchen stove; a child playing with matches set her clothes on fire and burned to death; a woman tripped on a broken step and broke her leg; revolving parts of a tractor caught the clothes of the operator, severely injuring him; an electric circuit with too heavy a load caused a "short" and burned a barn filled with feed and livestock; a woman slipped in the bathtub, resulting in serious back injuries.

More than half the deaths in the home from accidents are due to falls. These are caused by falling down steps, stumbling over toys or other objects carelessly left in paths of travel through the house, or slipping on small rugs. Another chief cause of fatal falls is the use of unsteady chairs or tottering tables for stepladders.

The National Safety Council has analyzed thousands of farm and home accidents and gives three reasons for them—carelessness, indifference to risk, and ignorance of danger.

Neither you nor your family can afford one of these accidents. And with proper care and effort, they can be prevented.

Last year the Extension Service in cooperation with the American Zinc Institute of Lafayette, Indiana, conducted several roof painting demonstrations in Alabama. So far as I know it was during these demonstrations that the roller was tried for the first time in applying metallic zinc paint. The roller worked so well it was used almost exclusively in three demonstrations held in North Alabama this past April. The roller was used in all demonstrations and only on one occasion was there a need for a brush. The roller is an industrial type with a fleece one to one and a fourth inches long. Nine inch rollers are very satisfactory, but rollers longer than nine inches are exceedingly heavy when filled with metallic zinc paint and will be a little unwieldy, particularly on a steep roof. Rollers are available at most hardware stores or paint dealers.

Metallic zinc paint not only forms a good surface on the roof but also is an excellent primer for steel or galvanized steel for application of other paints. If you have a rusty poultry house roof and would like to paint it white, metallic zinc paint can be applied directly over the rust and then the white paint put on as a second coat.

In cases where galvanized gutters and downspouts are peeling, this paint will correct that condition. All loose, peeling paint should be removed, the gutters primed with metallic zinc paint, and outside house paint applied as a finish coat. The paint may be used in the same manner when refinishing metal lawn furniture.

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

It is true that we have enjoyed good cooperation in the past. I don't mean to infer otherwise. However, we have never had the opportunity or the mechanism whereby all agencies, organizations, groups, and individuals interested in agriculture could get together to do some coordinated planning, to recognize common problems, to identify common objectives, to set some basic goals, and then to join hands in working toward these goals.

Operating independently, farmers represent an ever dwindling minority. However, through such a unified approach, all the forces, including business and industry, concerned with agriculture can be an extremely powerful and effective influence.

The purpose of our state conference was to lay the foundation for such cooperative effort and to consider how we in Extension might render more effective service to all agricultural groups.

Next month we would like to consider this idea in more detail.

Auburn University Agricultural Experiment Station

CHINCH BUG CONTROL. Chinch bugs must be controlled to prevent serious damage to St. Augustine grass in southern Alabama. In 1959 tests made in Mobile, DDT and Zytron gave control for four months. DDT was effective at 5, 10, or 20 pounds of spray or at 10 pounds of granules per acre. The 10-pound rate of spray or granules was more effective than five pounds of spray and as good as 20 pounds of spray. Zytron gave good control at 20 pounds of granules per acre. And VC-13 at five pounds per acre was effective for three months. All these insecticides must be used with care.

OAT LAND PREPARATION. Planting oats on prepared seedbeds gave better results than sod seeding during a three-year test at the Black Belt Substation. Earlier grazing, a longer grazing period, and more total gain per steer gave a greater net return for the prepared land oats. Average daily gain was slightly higher for cattle on sod seeded oats, but total grazing time was only about half that of steers on the prepared seedbed oats.

BLISTER BEETLES ON ALFALFA. Blister beetles can ruin alfalfa in Alabama when they attack in great numbers in the summer. Their attack ends only when an alfalfa field is defoliated. According to Auburn Experiment Station results, many insecticides are effective against these beetles. Ten percent DDT, 10 percent toxaphene, 10 percent methoxychlor or five percent malathion dusts gave good control at rates of 15 to 20 pounds per acre. All of these materials are poisonous, and if they are eaten on hay by cattle, they may be passed to man through milk or meat. For safety, cattle should be kept off pastures, and no alfalfa should be cut for hay or silage for 30 days after using DDT or toxaphene, seven days after applying methoxychlor, or three days after using malathion.

FENCING COSTS. Fencing is an important expense of Alabama farmers. Cost of materials for a 32-inch, woven wire fence with two strands of barbed wire on treated posts is about $2.50 per rod. Materials for a four-strand barbed wire fence with treated posts cost about $1 per rod. And for fencing a square, 10-acre field with barbed wire, material costs about $160, or $16 per acre. Initial fencing costs can be reduced by planning the shape and size of field.

HOME FINANCING. Interest charges increase home building costs considerably. On a home financed for 20 years at five percent interest with payments made semi-annually, interest increases cost more than 50 percent. In a recent southeastern study, it was found that interest rates of banks, savings and loan associations, and the Production Credit Association averaged highest among sources available to farmers. These were followed in order by life insurance companies and the Veterans Administration, with Farmers Home Administration having lowest interest rates.

TURNING CROTALARIA. Turning a crop of crotalaria in summer increases the farmer's yield of fall vegetables. With 120 pounds of P_2O_5 (phosphate) and 120 pounds of K_2O (potash) per acre, six-year average yields of collards, turnips, and green onions were 4,861 pounds from no N (nitrogen), 13,566 pounds from 60 pounds N, and 22,326 pounds from 120 pounds N on a light sandy soil. When crotalaria was turned, average yields increased 83, 48, and 11 percent from the 0, 60, and 120 pounds of nitrogen. Similar results were obtained on clay soil.

Fight Cotton Insects

Protect Every Boll With Enough Poison

W. A. Ruffin
Extension Service Entomologist
Auburn University

COTTON farmers who keep dusting or spraying in July and August are the ones who will keep going to the gin in the fall.

The weather and insect populations during July and August will largely determine what the per-acre yield of cotton will be this year. No one has found a way to control the weather, but all of us know how to control cotton insects.

The word "fight," according to Webster's dictionary, means a battle—a violent physical struggle for victory. Too many growers are just poisoning cotton; they are not fighting cotton insects.

Research Increased Yield

Auburn University research workers made extensive tests last year in fields in Central Alabama. Dry weather during August ruined most of the crop of bolls in the area. Despite the weather, the Auburn researchers increased yields 1,000 pounds of seed cotton per acre by controlling cotton insects. On the other hand, farmers increased yields on the average only 375 pounds of seed cotton per acre by poisoning.

Obviously many farmers are not making the best possible use of insecticides.

So far no one has found a way to kill all the weevils or other pests in a cotton field. Neither has an insecticide been found that will kill cotton pests instantly. I am not sure that it would be safe to handle any material that would do either of these things.

It is known, though, that any one of 14 materials or combination of materials, if used as recommended, will control boll weevils, bollworms, and aphids. Information on these materials is available at county agents' offices.

Auburn Recommends

I would like to emphasize that Auburn University does not recommend that poisoning be started on any given date. However, many years of observation show that the first generation or crop of young weevils usually appears in fields in South Alabama during the last 10 days of June. In Central Alabama they will begin to emerge the first week in July and about 10 days later in the Tennessee Valley.

I suggest you check your fields twice each week during such critical periods. Young weevils are much easier to kill than those that get fat from several days of feeding. If a control program is started at the right time, then three applications of a recommended insecticide put on at five-day intervals will get rid of most of the weevils of one generation.

If needed, start a second series of three applications not more than three weeks after the field was poisoned the first time. A total of six applications of poison should control the first two generations of weevils, and this will allow enough time for cotton plants to set a good crop. Of course, repeat any application of dust if it is washed off within 24 hours.

Proper Dusting Program Means Higher Yield

To protect the top and middle crop of bolls from migrating weevils, fields should be treated every four days, repeating three or four times. This means that a total of about 10 applications of poison will be needed to do a good job.

Remember these rules: start on time; stay on schedule, if possible, rain or shine; use plenty of insecticide; don't let dust or spray outlets drag through cotton; don't dust cotton when the wind is carrying the material out of the field; and don't quit until it's about time to start picking.

Best Check Temperature Around Animals

G. B. Phillips
Extension Pork Production Specialist

HOGS gain more on less feed when the temperature is about 60 degrees. Hotter or colder weather increases the amount of feed needed per 100 pounds of meat gained.

In one experiment where temperature was controlled at 60 degrees, a 200-pound hog required 360 pounds of feed to make 100 pounds of gain. But at a temperature of 90 degrees, 1100 pounds of feed were needed to put on the 100 pounds. The same was true when the temperature (in the same experiment) was dropped to 40 degrees. A 200-pound hog still required 1100 pounds of feed to put on 100 pounds of gain.

This difference of 740 pounds of feed should give you some idea of the importance of keeping hogs comfortable in hot or cold weather. Of course, this experiment was conducted under controlled conditions where the temperature remained constant over a period of time. In regular feeding operations it doesn't always work this way because temperature does not usually reach these extremes.

Naturally, smaller hogs do not suffer as much from temperature extremes. Therefore, they do not take as much feed. Still, a 100-pound animal requires more feed as temperature goes up or down.

Most experiments show that sprinkled growing-finishing hogs gain, on the average, about two-tenths of a pound a day faster than unsprinkled animals. So, there's only one answer. Protect your hogs from hot weather and your feed costs will go down.

And, according to research, there's not much difference in cooling methods used. For an example, ordinary wallows in the sun—long a familiar feature of hog production—were found to be just as effective in increasing rate of gain as in some other ways that were more elaborate and expensive. Of course, where wallows in the sun are used, good shade should be provided nearby, either natural or man made, so the animals can leave the wallow and go to the shade for sleeping. The big and important thing is keeping them cool by whatever method is the most economical for the farmer to use, keeping in mind proper sanitation.

Water is the best "cool season" substitute for hogs in summer. A cool stream near the corn field or self-feeder is ideal. But marshy, stagnated, poorly drained areas are dangerous from a parasite standpoint.

Spray nozzles are fine to use when feeding on concrete in summertime. In fact, ease of using spray nozzles is one of the advantages of feeding on concrete. Portable wallows are good where water is readily available.

It is extremely important to keep gestating sows cool. One experiment station compared the reproductive performance of two groups of sows during pregnancy—both having access to shade but only one group had sprinklers over their quarters. Where the sprinklers were used, sows averaged 2.3 more live pigs born per litter than where no sprinklers were used.

But regardless of the cooling system, use plenty of shade—either natural or brush arbor. A simple shed roof with lumber decking and building paper between the decking and aluminum roofing is good. Galvanized iron is satisfactory instead of aluminum, but you should paint the iron white so that it will reflect heat.

Cherokee 4-H'ers Try New Method

Plant Forest Land By Direct Seeding

Bob Sharman
Extension Assistant Editor
Auburn University

DIRECT pine seeding—a method of reforestation that is catching on to the tune of sixty to eighty thousand acres per year among adult groups in the South—is being done just as effectively, but on a slightly smaller scale, by 4-H Club members in Cherokee County.

Under the direction of Ralph Ballew, assistant county agent, several demonstrations have been conducted showing methods of seeding. The two youngsters shown at left with Ballew will account for two and one-half acres this year as part of their 4-H project work.

In Extension Forestry Specialist Ivan R. Martin's Circular 559, "Direct Seeding for Farm Forests," we find there are many advantages to direct seeding. When compared to transplanting, direct seeding has lower cost of materials, less labor expense, lower equipment cost, absence of shock associated with transplanting, and it can be done much faster. In the past this method also had its drawbacks. Wildlife was apt to eat many of the seed, and crickets had a habit of cutting the young seedlings. But through research and trial and error, many of these "ifs" are in the past, and now direct seeding is an accepted method of obtaining a stand of forest trees.

With some 150,000 acres of Alabama land being put into forests every year, direct seeding, with its lower costs, holds a prominent place in the thinking of many foresters. But there is still one big hurdle to overcome.

George I. Garin, Auburn Experiment Station forester, says one of the big problems now is getting seed that are adapted to a particular area. As is true of some other crop seed, pine seed produced in, say DeKalb County, aren't satisfactory for use in Mobile County. According to Garin, research is now in the process of being established to find out how far north or south pine seed from a given area can be grown without impairing its productivity with regard to value of wood produced.

The Cherokee County 4-H'ers, watching Ballew plant seed, are Joe Frank Cernut, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Cernut, Piedmont Rt. 1, and Terry Upton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Upton, Centre. These two boys have set out over seven thousand trees this year in addition to the direct seeding project.

Since this was the first try at direct seeding in the county, Ballew made his own seeder somewhat on the model of the old guano horn. He first scuffed the land so the seed could come in contact with the soil. After the seed were dropped, they were pressed lightly into the soil by the planter's foot. Treated seed were used to help reduce wildlife damage. Ballew says, "This is a slower method than seeding with a cyclone seeder or an airplane, but for small areas the 4-H'ers can handle it very well."

Price Objectives

Assuming there is good economic reason for an industry to stay in production in an area, following are some principles that should guide farmers and their associations in developing price policy:

1. Price should be high enough to make staying in the market and continuing to produce a high quality product worthwhile for the producer.
2. Price should not be so high that it brings about undue increase in production over a period of years by those producers regularly supplying the market.
3. Price should not be at a level where new producers from the outside would be encouraged to enter the market, thus furnishing products materially beyond market needs.
4. Price should not be so high that retail prices will be increased to a point where consumption is unduly discouraged and the commodity priced out of the market.
5. Price should have reasonable steadiness from month to month and year to year, if possible. However, this may not necessarily give the greatest net return, since advantage can often be obtained through seasonal price changes.
6. Price should be high enough to give about the same income as alternative crops. This would prevent violent shifts in production patterns.

These points, of course, emphasize the ideal price policy, but we must realize that these objectives are difficult to achieve and that progress may come slowly.

Confidence In Co-ops Built By Management

Farmer cooperatives must deserve the unhesitating confidence of banks, and one of the best ways to show this is through sound and successful management.

Among the greatest problems facing cooperatives is keeping up with competition, with the economy, and with the desires and needs of members. Management is the key to the whole problem. If a cooperative doesn't have aggressive and wise leadership, it won't make any difference whether or not it has adequate financing. And both managers and directors ought to have some management training.

Fried Chicken

Fried chicken has become a year-round food due to the growth of the broiler industry, but many homemakers feature fried chicken more often in family menus and at outdoor events as a hearty welcome to spring.

Broiler supplies are expected to be ample, with marketings likely to be a little above those of a year ago.

Last year, per person consumption of chicken, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, rose to 28.9 pounds, more than double the rate of 20 years ago. And this year the USDA expects per person consumption to average 28.8 pounds, or about the same as last year.

Prices Inconstant

Price changes for farm products are predictable but nevertheless the most inconstant economic fact that farmers deal with in marketing. Take potatoes, for example. In February we noted that the stock of potatoes in storage was 10 percent below the holdings on February 1 a year ago and, consequently, that we could expect higher prices. But who would think a change in supply of this size would result in the farmer's price going all the way from $1.28 per hundredweight in April 1959 to $3.15 in April 1960. Parity-wise, potatoes were selling at 133 percent of parity in mid-April compared to only 55 percent of parity a year earlier. Just a little attention to planning but much more effort in the matter of keeping market supply in reasonable relationship to market demand could work wonders for farmers with most any commodity.

Poultry Income in 1959

The Crop and Livestock Reporting Service gives the following revised figures on poultry income in Alabama in 1959: broilers, $78,855,000; eggs, $31,328,000; farm chickens, $3,572,000; turkeys, $846,000; and baby chicks sold, $13,102,000. This came to a total of $127,703,000.

In 1958 the state's income from poultry totaled $123,279,000. In 1953 the poultry income figure was $50,243,000, only 39 percent of last year's total.

Farm Auctions on the Increase

The cost-price squeeze on the farm is boosting the auctioneers' business, and in some parts of the country at least, the number of auction sales of personal farm property this year has tripled over those of preceding years. Some of the sales are big ones, grossing $30,000 or more.

Farmers are leaving the farms because they no longer find farming profitable. Some of the oldsters are retiring from the farm, but many are taking jobs in cities and towns.

Farm machinery is going at less in farm sales this year than in former years. Dairy cow prices, however, are said to be holding up better at farm sales than those for most livestock, with good cows recently selling from $250 to $350 each.

Auburn University Extension Service

Cooperation. "Counseling Together—Working Together." This was the theme for our state-wide conference of Extension workers held in Auburn and Tuskegee in mid-June.

Present at this meeting were over 100 leaders in agriculture, education, home economics, business, and industry, representing some 70 different organizations. Also taking part in this important meeting were every county and home agent and their assistants from throughout the state, plus all members of Extension's specialist, supervisory, and administrative staff.

The objective of this conference, as stated by our planning committee, was to develop ideas and lay the base for cooperative efforts designed to give maximum assistance in achieving the full potential of agriculture, homemaking, and related businesses in Alabama.

Achievement of this objective depends upon the mutual understanding among all interested groups and individuals, their appreciation of each other's contributions and their realization that teamwork among all can enhance these contributions.

The way I see it, there has never been a time when there was greater need for unity of purpose and action on the part of all people, agencies, and organizations concerned with agriculture.

Problems. Few times, if any, in history has agriculture been confronted with more serious problems—most of which have been the outgrowth of a period of dramatic and unparalleled change. These changes have confronted the farmer and his family with major adjustment problems.

Steadily increasing capital requirements and operating costs, surpluses and resulting lower prices for farm commodities, declining net farm income, adverse public reaction to the "farm problem," and the cost of government farm programs, criticism resulting from high food costs, steadily declining numbers of farmers and resulting loss of influence—these are just a few of the problems confronting today's farmers.

Opportunities. Although beset with many difficulties, agriculture at the same time has excellent opportunities for further growth and development. A recent U. S. Department of Agriculture report says that the demand for agricultural products should increase at the rate of more than two percent annually during the next 50 years.

Agriculture has become a highly competitive business. Alabama has excellent resources which give us many competitive advantages with other areas in agricultural production and marketing. As a state, we can have a great future in agriculture if we make full use of these resources.

The Challenge. If we are to render maximum service to farm people in assisting them to adjust to rapidly changing conditions and if we are to make full use of our resources in promoting the further expansion of Alabama agriculture, then we must develop the highest possible degree of cooperation among all agencies and organizations working with and for the farmer.

Renew Old Metal Roofing With Coat Of Metallic Zinc Paint

William T. Cox
Extension Agricultural Engineer
Auburn University

HAVE you taken stock of the galvanized steel roofing around your farm recently? Does the roofing still have that dull gray color it had about one year after it was put up, or is it beginning to show rust?

If the roofing is still a dull gray you need not worry for a while; but if it is beginning to show rust or is completely rusty, then it is time to take some action toward repairing or entirely replacing the roof.

If deterioration has reached the point where the roof should be replaced, or if you are building anew and applying galvanized steel roofing, there are several points to be considered in the selection and application of galvanized steel.

COX

Whether you use 5V-crimp, one and a quarter-inch corrugated, or two and a half-inch corrugated roofing, the nailing strips underneath should be of two-inch material. That is, two by fours should be used instead of one by fours. The one by four doesn't hold the nails tightly enough to keep the sheets from coming loose. Nail 5V-crimp roofing in the ridge of each crimp across the sheet. Nail one and a quarter-inch corrugated sheets in the ridge of every third corrugation and two and a half-inch corrugated roofing in every other corrugation across the sheet.

The best nail to use is a screw-shank galvanized steel nail with a lead washer. The lead washer under the head is better than the lead headed nail because the washer is not damaged as much if you should happen to hit the nail a glancing blow. One thing that will determine how long a new roof will stay on a building is the amount of zinc coating or galvanize on the sheet. The thicker the zinc coating, the longer the sheet will last before it begins to rust.

ESTIMATED LIFE (before rusting) OF GALVANIZED SHEETS IN THE ATMOSPHERE

Total Zinc Coating on Both Sides —Ounces—	Life in Years under Atmospheric Conditions
	Rural	Temperate Marine	Suburban	Highly Industrial
2.50	35	25	20	9
2.00	25	15	12	7
1.20	10	7	5	3
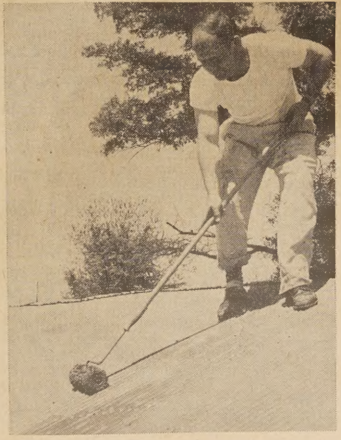
.50	5	3	3	1

The zinc coating is the amount of zinc on both sides of one square foot of sheet. Generally, galvanized steel sheets come in three different coatings—a two-ounce zinc coating, one and a quarter ounce, and less than one and a quarter ounces. Each of the heavier coated sheets has a label showing the amount of zinc coating by weight. Unmarked sheets have less than one and a quarter ounces of zinc coating per square foot. Usually there is no difference in price between the unmarked sheet and the one and a quarter ounce coated sheet, but the usable life of the one and a quarter sheet can be as much as twice that of the unmarked sheet.

The two-ounce coated sheet will cost approximately two dollars per square more than the unmarked sheet, but its life will be about two and a half times that of the one and a quarter sheet.

If a roof is just beginning to show rust, it is just right for painting. One application of metallic zinc paint on a roof will prolong its life from five to eight years. Before the roof is painted, the surface should be prepared by tightening all loose nails. In cases where the framing underneath has rotted so that the nails will not hold, a new nail should be put in close by and the old nail hole stopped up with a number 12 or 14 sheet metal screw. Sheet metal screws can also be used to fasten sheets together at an end lap if the sheets do not lap over a nailing strip.

After the roof is well nailed, clean with a stiff bristled brush to remove all dirt and loose rust. When painting with metallic zinc paint, it is not necessary to wire brush the roof down to clean metal. However, if you use any paint other than metallic zinc paint, all rust must be removed down to clean metal. Metallic zinc paint can be applied over rust and is the only one I know that will stop rusting and bond to the metal.



The brush, top left, is used to remove loose rust and dirt from metal. The best size in a roller (second picture) for applying paint is the nine-inch roller with a one to one and a fourth-inch fleece. You get less coverage per gallon when using the roller, but the heavier coating of paint gives a longer life to the roof before repainting is necessary. Above, Cox shows how the roller is used when painting a metal roof.

The pigment in metallic zinc paint is 80 percent zinc dust and 20 percent zinc oxide suspended in oil. This paint is manufactured by a number of paint companies and each company uses its own trade name, but there will be no question about getting the proper material if you ask for Type 1 in Federal Specification TT-p-641b. By asking for this Federal specification, you will get exactly the same paint regardless of manufacturer.

One gallon of metallic zinc paint weighs approximately 23 pounds, but in this you have 14 pounds of zinc dust. When the paint is applied it is almost like putting a new coat of galvanize on the steel. Metallic zinc paint, sometimes called MZP, can be applied with a brush or roller, or it can be sprayed on.

With a roof that is just beginning to show rust, one gallon will cover approximately 700 square feet and will give protection for about eight years. The coverage will vary somewhat depending upon the condition of the roof and the type of application. If the paint is sprayed, it takes an extremely high nozzle pressure, approximately 80 pounds, to do a good job. Brushing is a good method, but one of the fastest and easiest methods is to use a paint roller. By using a roller you will get less coverage per gallon, but by putting on a heavier application of paint you will also get a longer life before the roof will need repainting.

Facts For You

Did you know that every year farmers use one-half as much steel as the automobile industry, that a four-dollar shirt contains less than 10 cents worth of cotton, that about one-fourth of the farmers in the United States do not own their own farms but rent on a share or cash basis, and that just over 20 million farmers feed this nation of some 180 million people?

TAKES ON NEW MEANING WITH LATEST PRACTICES AND TECHNIQUES

TREE farming has come into its own, says Fayette County Agent Albert Pitts.

Both farm and non-farm groups are vitally interested in this industry that ranks third only to steel and textiles in the state's economy. And the heavy drain on Alabama forests from all phases of the industry has wiped out practically all the virgin timber and cut deeply into the year-to-year growth of planted and natural stands of today's timber areas.

In fact, reforestation programs have created a demand for pine planting stock that is difficult to meet, even though expanded nursery facilities and research in nursery management have greatly increased seedling production and survival. Thus, the pine seedling shortage, in addition to the producer's natural desire to find short cuts to reduce the cost of establishing a forest, has given rise to much research on techniques of direct seeding. And today direct seeding is recognized as a reliable method of getting a stand of forest trees, he adds.

On the other hand, transplanting seedlings will continue to give the most satisfactory results under certain conditions while direct seeding meets the needs on other sites.

With the vast stockpile of virgin timber gone and no hopes of replacing it, farm and non-farm foresters—whether large or small—have the tremendous job of keeping up with demand by applying proved practices in forest management, explains Pitts. Such practices as seeding or planting seedlings on eroded or otherwise unproductive areas, skip planting in natural stands, selective cutting and thinning, and proper harvesting are among those important in the forester's year-to-year program.

Eugene Jones of Fayette Rt. 7 is one of four county demonstrators carrying out a proper timberland management program this year. A sawmiller and farmer, Jones has three demonstrations underway, says Pitts. The first one, a timber improvement demonstration, consists of selective cutting. This involves removing diseased and cull trees which Jones has already done. He has also thinned the trees to eliminate crowded conditions, thus releasing the remaining trees to grow faster and bigger, explains Pitts.

On another area Jones clearcut the timber, which was mostly hardwoods, and planted pine seedlings. And on a third field that was not in production he planted pine seeds—his first time to try this method of tree farming.

Jones is trying the direct seeding method because it is new and untried in Fayette County. He is following research information in order to do the best possible job of successfully growing pine trees from seed. Pitts says that farmers in that area want to know the cheapest method of getting a stand of trees started, and Jones is cooperating in running this demonstration as one of the first in direct seeding in the county.

"If it works for me," says Jones, "it will work for others."

Some of the advantages of direct seeding, points out Pitts, are lower cost of materials, less labor expense, lower equipment cost (as compared with mechanical,planters), absence of shock to the tree caused by lifting and replanting, and faster planting. One man can seed 20 acres a day—one airplane, 1,000 acres.

TREE FARMING—Tree farming has become a part of Eugene Jones' improvement program in Fayette County. The picture at top shows Jones (left) and County Agent Albert Pitts discussing direct seeding of pine trees. The area around them was seeded by this method this year. The second picture shows Pitts examining a seedling while Jones looks on. This area was cleared of hardwoods and planted in pine seedlings. The next picture shows selective cutting. Here, Jones (left) explains to Pitts that he is carrying out three demonstrations—timber management and planting new areas by the direct seeding and seedling methods. Three other tree farmers in the county are carrying out similar demonstrations.

SEWING EXPERT—Lynda Davis, 15, has become an expert seamstress in the two years she has carried clothing as a project in the Hamilton Senior 4-H Club. The Marion County lass has made 25 dresses and blouses, not counting numerous small articles. And the local club vice president has other talents. She does an excellent job with her garden and prepares and preserves the food by canning and freezing. Besides this she has a dairy project. Lynda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Davis of Hamilton Rt. 3.

Hunting Getting Better

Surveys show that 5700 wild turkey gobblers were harvested in Alabama in 1958. That's a small percentage of the estimated total population of 54,000 on Alabama hunting fields.

And the number of white-tailed deer killed was 8800 out of an estimated total population of 87,000. In my travels I have learned through personal interviews with hunters that the deer and turkey population has increased tremendously. In fact, deer are grazing heavily on spring planted crops in some counties. Last year a farmer in one county abandoned his corn field, located in the middle of a deer area, because these animals ate every ear of corn in the field.

Items From The Editor's Desk

THACH community folks, 1959 District Four winners in community improvement, set the stage for more and better community work when they played host to over 300 club leaders, Extension workers, and guests at an open house get-together in Walker County a few weeks back.

"They had a successful meeting," says Extension Community Betterment Specialist R. G. Arnold. "I judge the success of the meeting on three things. First, the statements made stimulated people to think for themselves. Second, the meeting was used as a springboard for reaching greater goals. And third, a good time was had by all."

Anytime J. C. Bullington—he's Walker County's farm agent—and his efficient staff have anything to do with planning an event, you can bet it will be successful.

Most From Cotton

We've had a rough beginning with the state's cotton crop this year. Cold weather, lack of enough high germinating seed to start with, and other things have held us back, but we can still get the most from cotton if we follow through with good insect control and harvesting practices.

Don't let insects present another rough spot in this year's program. Dust or spray those pests until it is time to start picking—and then some.

July Is Camp Month

State 4-H Camp starts next week with some 600 boys, girls, and Extension leaders moving onto the Auburn campus for five full days of fun, recreation, and education.

There'll be many disappointments when winners are named in the various project fields, but 4-H'ers have been taught that "It matters not whether you win or lose but how you play the game."

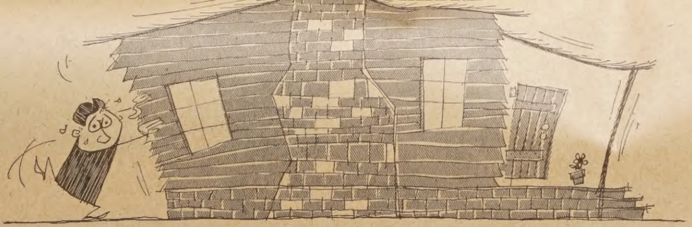
Later in the month—July 25-29—fish and wildlife boys from over the state will hold their annual camp at Camp Tuckabatchee in Elmore County. More than 100 youngsters will grab their bedrolls and bunk under the stars during this event.

They'll learn woods and boating safety as well as safety in the use of firearms. Trapping techniques and identification of snakes and trees come under other educational courses of the camp. And they'll eat like kings—I know because I've been there.

Good, wholesome, clean recreation and study is the backbone of this camp. Every youngster should get the chance to go.

Make Farm Life Safer

In addition to deaths, it is estimated that 1,250,000 accidents happen to farm people each year. The time loss from these accidents is estimated at 25,000,000 man-days—enough effort to produce the nation's wheat crop.



Soil Fertility Plays Big Role In Foundation Of A Farm Program

Dr. Walter Sowell
Extension Soil Management Specialist
Auburn University

SOIL and soil fertility may be compared to the footing and foundation of a house.

A house is constructed by first putting a good, firm foundation in the soil. Then the sills, flooring, walls, and roof are added. If a good foundation is constructed on a soil that will support the building, then a solid, serviceable house may be completed. However, if the foundation is weak, the entire structure is of little value regardless of the type materials used above the foundation.

The same is true for a profitable farm program. It, too, must have basic fundamentals. For a crop to grow and make a high yield, it must be planted on soil to which it is suited. This is the first determining factor in planning a sound farm program.

A strong fertility program through soil tests and improved fertilization is the next step or the foundation. This is the second determining factor between a profitable and non-profitable farm program.

These two factors—good soil suited to the crop and a proper fertility program—are a must before the farm operator is prepared to follow through with the next four steps—that is, selection of best variety of seed; planting on time; conducting proper weed, insect, and disease control programs; and using sound harvesting and marketing practices.

Thus, soil and soil fertility may be compared to the structure of your house. If any major part of the building is omitted, the house is incomplete—non-serviceable. And if any part of your farm program is omitted, from the selection of soil to marketing, the result is the same.

DENNIS WALKER likes dairying better every year. And he is especially pleased with his grade-A operation since he went on the Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program in 1958.

In fact, the Calhoun County producer gives DHIA much of the credit for the increased efficiency and the 1959 average production of 10,223 pounds of milk per cow. "The only way to cull cows is through use of such accurate information as you get in DHIA," declares Walker. "Some of the cows had me pretty well fooled," he laughed.

And Assistant County Agent Goode Nelson pointed out that Walker gets a better price for his heifers and bulls when their full record is available through a testing program.

Walker operates the dairy on a 720-acre Wellington Rt. 1 farm owned by C. Majure. He has been on the place for 10 years, having a beef cattle program for several years. In 1953 Walker asked Nelson about starting a manufacturing-grade milk operation on a small scale to supplement his income. Then in January 1957 he changed over to grade-A, milking 35 cows. At that time he bought a herd of 22 grade Holstein cows and built a milking parlor with a bulk tank and a pipeline.

Walker recalls that his average production was about 8,000 pounds of milk per cow when he started on DHIA in February 1958. Last year he had an average of 10,223 pounds of milk on an average number of 32.9 cows on the milking line. There were 24 cows with a production record over 10,000 pounds and three over 15,000 pounds.

Agent Nelson says the herd has been upgraded through the use of artificial insemination. And an excellent feed program to keep the production up has been developed.

Walker now has his son, Glenn, helping to operate the dairy and he plans to expand to about 50 cows on the milking line.

Dennis Walker of Calhoun County recorded an average production of 10,223 pounds of milk per cow in 1959. Here the Calhoun County dairyman, right, is showing Assistant County Agent Goode Nelson the DHIA record that proves this Holstein, Little Bama, gave 15,870 pounds of milk last year.

To Preserve Fresh Flavor

Blanch Vegetables Before Freezing

Jeanne Priester
Extension Food Specialist
Auburn University

TO blanch or not to blanch vegetables for freezing is a choice with which Alabama homemakers are confronted. And many of our vegetable growers follow "over the fence" recommendations of neighbors rather than research methods.

Blanching is simply the boiling of vegetables for a recommended time. And, of course, the time varies with the kind of vegetable.

Research has proved that blanching is a must in preparing vegetables—except bell peppers—for the freezer. This process stops the action of enzymes which would destroy the fresh flavor of the vegetables after a short storage time. It shrinks the product and makes packing easier. Blanching brightens color and helps retain vitamins. And it also cleanses the surface of dirt and organisms and removes raw odors and flavors.

These are recommended rules to follow when blanching vegetables: 1. Use only one pound or one pint of vegetables per gallon of water. 2. Let the water return to a boil before beginning the timing. 3. Change the water frequently to remove foreign particles. 4. Use a top on the container and high heat so the water will return to a boil quickly. 5. Change the water each time a different kind of vegetable is blanched. 6. Use a commercial blancher, a deep fat frying basket, and a two-gallon boiler or a colander and a large boiler.

Homemakers who do not follow this procedure for blanching vegetables may freeze them and then later cook vegetables which their family simply will not eat. Off-flavors just aren't tolerated.

Research recommendations for blanching vegetables—also including specific blanching times—are available at your county home demonstration agent's office. One of the best references she has is a publication of the Auburn University Extension Service called "Food Preservation in Alabama." The cost is 30 cents.

Survey Facts

DID you know the squirrel has passed brer' cottontail as the most popular game in the South? This fact was revealed in the recently completed subscriber survey by the PROGRESSIVE FARMER on hunting and fishing. Following the squirrel in order of popularity are rabbit, quail, dove, deer, waterfowl, and turkey. The average subscriber family buys three and one-half times more rifles and shotguns than the average U. S. household. One family in five owns a pond and a boat with the most popular length of 14 feet. Wooden boats are in the majority, followed by aluminum, and then fiberglass. Most popular type of artificial tackle is the bait casting "rod and reel," followed by spinning tackle and then fly casting outfits.

Electric Motor and Battery Pack

Don't overload your boat with too many horses! Many drownings and accidents are the result of using an outboard motor with too much horsepower. Most skiffs and small boats can take no more than a seven and one-half horsepower engine safely. The electric motor and battery pack with built-in charger is the ideal rig for pond or lake fishing. When you return home, plug the charger cord in a wall outlet and next afternoon you'll have enough "fuel" for fishing.

Protect Guns

Check your rifle and shotgun now for possible rust and mildew. Damp, hot weather can cause damage you won't see until you take out your gun for the next hunting season. If your guns need repair, do it now! Gunsmiths will be swamped by September.

Muddy Flavor

During hot weather, pond fish may take on a muddy flavor, which is usually stored in the skin and bones. Therefore, skin your fish and fillet all bass.

Why Fish Won't Bite

Fishing results during hot weather are usually poorer than in spring months. Basic reason, perhaps, is that waters have now become abundant in fish food that was scarce in late winter and early spring. While your lure had to compete only with a few dozen small bluegills to attract a hungry bass in March, there are now thousands of small fish for every bass to eat.

Game Trees

Oaks, especially those species bearing small acorns, are probably our most important "game trees." Five game birds and mammals feed on acorns: squirrels, turkeys, deer, quail, and ducks. Think twice before clearing that rich stand of good oaks—some may take a hundred years or more to replace!

Pointer or Setter?

Which is the best of our leading gun dogs—pointer or setter? Actually, it boils down to personal choice. The setter takes to the briers more readily. On the other hand the pointer can withstand hot hunting days better than the setter. The setter is said to be a "one-man" dog, while the pointer with fervent hunting instinct will hunt for any shotgunner. The setter may be more affectionate than his rival.

Now Even Georgia Knows That 'Chilton County Peaches Are Tops'!

AT THE National Jaycee Convention held June 20th through 24th the local Junior Chamber of Commerce did a magnificent job of proving to United States Jaycees that "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops".

Attending the Convention from Clanton were: Don Sumrall, Morris Moatts and Buddy Wade who gave out sample "copies" of the Chilton County Peach. Peaches were donated by Chuck Cockwell, A. D. Headley, Gentry Peach Shed, Co-Op Peach Shed, oJhn DeRamus and Bentley Peach Shed.

"Georgia was giving away peaches, too," said Moatts, "but everybody could tell the difference without any trouble and now they all know where the really 'good peaches' come from!"

The Jaycee Convention was held in St. Louis, Missouri.

3 TAPPED FOR ORDER OF THE ARROW IN 57

Last week 12 Boy Scouts from Troop 57 attended Camp Tukabatchee. Their Scoutmaster, Mr. Doyle Ashley was able to attend part of the time.

The following Scouts earned Merit Badges in the Troop:

Mike Johnston, pioneering, Public Health, First Aid, Wood Carving and rowing.

Ricky Wyatt, swimming and life saving; George Tucker, swimming and life-saving.

Dent Williams, rowing, wild life management and forestry.

Joe Hayes, forestry, wild life management, camping, cooking, pioneering and rowing.

Gary Bennett, life-saving and swimming. Earl Monroe, swimming, life-saving and completed requirements for First Class.

The following scouts completed work toward First Class: John Hyde, Harold Lawrence, Charles Moatts, Jerry Sandlin and Douglas Collins.

Scout Charlie Patterson attended 2nd week camp and earned Merit Badges in pioneering, first aid and wood carving. Charlie, Earl Monroe and Gary Bennett are at camp this week.

Many parents and friends visited the Camp Thursday afternoon and attended the Campfire Program that night.

The Scouts were proud to see Scoutmaster Ashley tapped for Order of The Arrow and two Scout's from their Troop tapped for this honor. They were Mike Dennis and Pete Johnson. Joe Hayes received this honor the 2nd week of camp.

Chilton County should be proud of a fine Scouting program and equally fine leaders. Camp Tukabatchee is also one of the best in the Country. Mr. Bill Crane of Selma is Scout Executive for this area.

By using tractors, trucks, cars, building materials and other essential items, the farmer uses almost half as much steel as the total automotive industry.

Growers Asked To Participate

THE CHILTON County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a "Courtesy Stop" of all out-of-state cars next Tuesday, July 12th, to further advertize that "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops!"

With full cooperation of the Highway Patrol, the visitors will be stopped, told what is going on and presented with a card good for a basket of peaches at a peach stand that will be constructed for the purpose on the Berry Association property just south of Thorsby.

Patrolmen and Chamber Representatives—

At the Peach Stand as well as the Patrolman, will be representatives of the Chamber of Commerce to welcome the visitors and present them with peaches.

Baskets for the peaches will be furnished by Cummer-Graham who are represented here by Bill Norton. Half peck baskets will be distributed by the Committee.

Peach Growers Asked To Donate Fruit—

John Sellers asks that any peach grower who will to please bring some of their peaches to the County Agent's office on next Monday to present to the visitors.

It is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce that the expense of this project, to further publicize the peach, not rest too heavy on any one person so if the growers could help by bringing some of their peaches in to help with the project it will be appreciated.

REGARDLESS of the soap ads - there is only one thing that will make you look young — and that is being young!

WE achieved freedom — and like any other achievement it can be lost by indifference.

OUR worst fault today is not being willing to stand up and be counted for what we really believe.

SURE the world is growing wiser—but that doesn't mean we have nothing more to learn.

THINK how many times you must have lost on a sure thing because you were afraid to take a chance.

IF you let others push you around you will soon find yourself in a pretty tight corner.

Ingredients Of An American--

THE intent or purpose of an organization, be it good or bad, cannot overshadow the impression which an active individual in that organization conveys.

In other words an organization cannot possibly be any better or any worse than the individuals who comprise it.

Our American Legion, as an organization has been challenged. We can speak only for what the organization is supposed to believe and what we know of our own local Post. These two areas we know. . . and they are unchallengeable!

The local Post of the American Legion has done more to promote good citizenship and Americanism than any other organization we know of and the leaders in the local Post are Americans all!

> "Recently in the schools of metropolitan New York City, certain leading students, designated for citizenship awards by the American Legion, for outstanding scholastic achievement, and their associate students, expressed a dislike for such receognition by the American Legion, one student declaring: "I refuse to accept an award from an organization whose policies I cannot respect."

It is this newspaper's opinion that anyone who would make a statement like that, has very little true respect for anything. Also we wonder at the wisdom of such an award. Though high scholastic achievement may be a vital part of good citizenship, it does not, in itself, make a good citizen. A good American citizen may indeed attain high scholastic achievement, but we have seen some wonderful Americans who were not even mediocre scholars. On the other hand, we have seen so-called 'scholars' who were unethical, impolite, ungentlemanly, un-American and as far as we could see maintained unnecessary attitudes about a lot of things.

Our American Legion is tops and there is no question about it! Faith, integrity, a defineable creed and Allegiance is what makes an American and an IQ of a genius is not required! We've also seen some folks with high IQ's who struck us as being stupidly ignorant about common sense.

Unnecessary Suffering--

THE John L. Sanders Community Action Award will be presented by the Alabama Commission on Alcoholism at the opening of a third out-patient alcoholism clinic in Decatur this Sunday afternoon at 5:00. The recipient will be disclosed at this meeting.

Commission Administrator, N. T. Frazer states "On the next Monday, July 11, the doors of the clinic will open at 8:00 a.m .to help those with drinking problems and their families."

There is no way of measuring the unnecessary suffering created in our own Chilton County by the use of alcoholic beverages and its effects on the individual and more important, the family unit.

AA does a marvelous job and is active in this County, but that is obviously not enough. A clinic such as the one mentioned here might go a long way toward relieving and even preventing a lot of that unnecessary human suffering.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

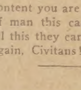
WE always try to find the good points in a person, place or thing and play them up, but a paint we ponder on sometimes is not quite so uplifting. How come there seems to be so many "sophisticated little bums' around Clanton these days, both male and female. We think some parents have gone off the deep end lavishing their kids with luxuries and leisure without making them earn some part of it. Not so much because of necessity, like in the old days, but just so they'll know the value of life and have a respect for the things which are hard to come by. When we were the age of the ones about whom we speak, we were sort of halfway earning our own way, or at least we thought we were helping anyhow. Just how long is a 'child' supposed to look to his parents for support and how will he (or she) fair when parents are no more able to look out for them. Teenagers seem to have too much leisure time and do they appreciate it? On the contrary, they expect it, epen demand it. Is this good for them?

UNDERSTAND there's a new TV series coming on the scene called "The Sweet Smell of Success." It's a bit deceiving, however. "Success" is the name of a pet skunk. Should be interesting anyhow!

SITTING in Church Sunday night with the hymn book in hand and our number one son sitting beside us with hymn book in hand. We asked him were there any songs in the hymnal that he knew (he's five) and he suggested "Jesus Loves Me!" "No," we told him that one's not in there". He hummed to himself for a minute and then brightened and said: "How about 'All Around The Cobblers Bench?"

WHILE visiting an aunt recently the kids were up early (she has five and we have three) the thoughtful sister of ours was letting the wife sleep a little late. One of hers came into the house making quite a commotion and one of ours was naturally right on his heels. "Don't disturb Nell boys," said Aunt Junie. Old innocent Ben says: "Aw that's alright, go ahead and 'sturb her, we've been 'sturbin' her all night!"

THE Civitans gave us a fine sample of their cooking abilities on the Fourth of July when they staged their now annual Bar-B-Q, this year for the benefit of the underprivileged children in Chilton County. We are no longer a member of that very active group (there is your answer "active") but we were a charter member a few years ago and we have a warm spot for 'Civitans'. Regardless of this fact, they are one of the most 'alert to the needs of the community' groups that ye have and we cannot praise them enough. Their usefulness to our community is witnessed by the roll of fine citizens which they boast as members. We know for a fact that these men live, to a great extent, by the Civitans Creed and if you are familiar with its content you are aware of the calibre of man this calls for. On top of all this they can cook, too! Thanks again, Civitans!



FROM MY FRONT PORCH

by CARL HELM

What quality is it that makes a television "personality" a great and lasting favorite to millions of us?

Isn't it the rare ability to project friendship, the feeling and reality of it, into our homes? I believe that Dave Garroway has it. You may know others; I hope you do.

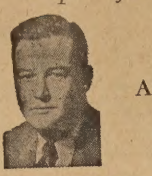
You find yourself calling them by their first names, and half expecting them, from the screen, to call you by yours! They smile, and instinctively you smile back.

They know all this, from the letters we write, and they must be deeply conscious of a moral obligation and a grave responsibility. They really have to feel friendship for us so strongly that it comes through the air.

Sincerity is something that cannot be faked, especially on a close-up televised face. These people must possess it, or they couldn't live long with us, or with themselves.

They are not actors; they offer us only themselves, no more and no less. Isn't that the way it is, with real friends?

Report from Washington



BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Congress last week abandoned its efforts to adjourn before the forthcoming political conventions and recessed until August 15. Members had hoped to be able to complete the pressing legislative business and adjourn until January. In spite of long sessions daily, however, it became apparent last week that it would not be possible to finish work on several pieces of major legislation before the Democratic convention begins on July 11. Consequently, both houses voted to recess and reconvene in August. It is expected that the August session will continue at least until Labor Day.

This is the first instance during the eight years I have served in the House of Representatives that a recess has been taken near the end of the session.

Minimum Wage

Before recessing, the House took aciton last week on several major bills. It passed a moderate minimum wage increase bill that was endorsed by a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition and substituted for a more liberal committee-approved measure introduced by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.)

The measure passed by the House would raise the one-dollar-an-hour minimum wage to $1.15 for the 23.7 million workers now covered by the Fair Labor Standards Law. It would also bring another 1.4 million retail workers under the law's protection, although their minimum would be held to -1.00. The bill offered by Congressman Roosevelt would have raised the minimum to $1.25 in three yearly steys and would have brought an additional 3.5 million workers under the law.

The minimum wage legislation adopted by the House is now pending in the Senate where it wil be taken up after Congress reconvenes in August.

Pay Raise Voted

President Eisenhower exercised his 169th veto since he has been in office when he rejected the federal pay raise bill. Of the previous 168 vetoes, only one had been overridden. However, both the House and Senate last week again voted to override ,thus enacting the salary increase into law without presidential approval. In the House, the vote was 345 to 69, and in the Senate it was 74 to 24.

The approved bill provides an average increase of almost 8.4 per cent for posta l employees and slightly more than 7.5 per cent for other government workers. The increase goes into effect on July 1 for postal workers and at the start of the first pay period in July for all remaining federal employees.

Defense Appropriation—

Both houses gave final approval last week to a 40 billion-dollar defense appropriation bill for fiscal year 1961. The amount approved was $661 mililon more than the Presdent's request. This increase includes additional funds for the Polaris submarine, B-70 bomber, and the Strategic Air Command's airborne alert program.

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

In advance of TV's coming upon the scene, and prior to radio making its bow, there were top funny men in America, of course. One of these, and probably the highest paid was Raymond Hitchcock. Raymond stood out over the stage comedians of his era like a sore thumb.

If a suitable vehicle presented itself he remained in New York and appeared at some Broadway theatre. If such a script was not forthcoming, he would resurrect one of a season or so before and would go on tour. As a consequence he learned all of the better cities of the country and upon occasion played in their best or worst theatres. "Hitchy-Koo" was one such show and was titled in his honor as the star of the piece.

Naturally, Hitchy would use some of his best material from year to year until he would have it threadbare. Likely his favorite yarn of all time had to do with himself and his Aunt Martha, who had helped erar him. Raymond would recite how his Uncle George had died leaving his Aunt Martha a widow. She took him as a lad to the funeral of the deceased relative and as she sat there shedding tears the preacher began eulogizing:

"Deceased was a good man, an honest man, a kindly soul—generous to a fault, always bearing the comfort of others and their needs in mind. He was a truthful, a sober man, a God-fearing person who couldn't bear to see others in pain . . ."

At that point in the narrative Aunt Martha would nudge Raymond, and whisper into his ear: "Son, we better get out of here—ye've come to the wrong funeral."

RUFE Bivens and his spouse lived in a tiny Georgia town shortly after the turn of the Century. They had an amplee crop of children and a small crop of cotton at the edge of town. Mrs. Bivens was nearly always expecting, and invariably Rufe's main occupation was meeting trains that came thru, some of them being kind enough to stop. The couple had named their big group of tykes after Biblical characters. The triplets were Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. The oldest and strongest boy had exhibited his tendency toward strength in infancy, and it was natural that Rufe and his wife had decided to name that particular offspring "Samson".

One late Summer afternoon Rufe had foregathered with the inner circle at the depot, the accomodation train known as The Dude having already blown for the station, and the natives on hand were ready to compare watches with the conductor upon train's arrival to determine if that worthy was carrying the correct time.

Thirteen year old Naomi burst in on the little gathering, yelling: "Pa, Ma says to get home as quick as your feet will take you there!"

"Brat, you should have better manners than to come in on me with The Dude just about here—what's the matter at home, gal?"

"It's awful, Pa. Mary Magdelene tore a scantling off the front porch bannisters, is hitting John the Baptist over the head and is beating the tar-waddin' out of him with it!

YOUR HEALTH

HERNIA

Hernia is fifth among the causes of disability. It causes more deaths in this country than appendicitis, upwards of 5,000 every year. An estimated 800,000 persons in the United States have unrepaired hernias.

A hernia, familiarly known as a rupture, is a protrusion of a loop or knuckle of an organ or a tissue through an abnormal opening. The most common type of hernia is that in which part of the intestines passes through an opening into the groin. In many instances, hernia is present at birth and difficult to recognize. Often a hernia is first diagnosed when a loop of intestine protrudes into the groin or scrotum possibly, after a fit of hard coughing or strain. Operation for hernia in children is simple, with a short stay in the hospital, and recurrence is rare.

A hernia problem in later life is commonly the persistence of hernia from infancy. A wel-known site of hernia is the umbilicus or navel, and this usually appears soon after birth. Sometimes hernia is associated with an abdominal scar after surgery, when the muscles have been strained before the scar was firm. There are also rare cases in which hernia occurs through the diaphragm with part of the stomach pushing its way up into the chest cavity, and this type has been popularly called upside-down stomach.

A hernia in many instances is reducible in that the protruding part slips back into normal position when the person lies down or when it can be pushed back with gentle pressure. While in such cases a truss or bandage worn constantly may control the hernia, surgery is better;; for there is always the possibility of the intestine becoming pinched, thus cutting off blood supply.

Keep the poultry house clean and dry.

COPY OF LETTER TO MR MULLINS

Mr. Burton Mullins
Civil Defense Director
Chilton County

Dear Mr. Mullins:

"I enjoyed your visit with me yesterday and appreciated the opportunity of explaining our water safety program. I also want to congratulate you on the fine event put on by you and your organization at Clanton on Sunday, June 26.

We were glad to have our men and equipment present at your demonstration and hope that they in some minor way added to the occasion. I can understand how the misunderstanding arose about the participation of our patrolmen. Had we been notified of your plans and the extent to which you intended our men to participate, we would have put them through the demonstration several times prior to the event to be sure that the occasion was up to par.

I am sure that you can understand our reluctance to permit our people to participate in dangerous maneuvers when one of the patrolmen involved had only come on the payroll June 22 and reported for duty at Clanton on the 23rd. An accident involving our water patrolmen and the water patrol boats would have been very embarrassing to all concerned.

I understand that your men put on a splendid exhibition and that it far surpassed anything that our new men could have done, being unfamiliar with the operation of their boats.

Please bear with us and at some time in the future we will have well-trained water patrolmen proficient in their duties and the operation of their equipment, at which time we would not hesitate to ask them to paricipate in an event such as yours. It is unfortunate that you did not know the capabilities of our personnel nor did we know what you expected of us far enough in advance for both of us to have anticipated the situation.

You had at your demonstration the two patrolmen and equipment the waters of 14 counties. This was a sacrifice on the part of these which are responsible for patrolling counties in the interest of your program. I am sure that you appreciate their contributions to you.

Enclosed is a clipping from last night's Birmingham News which I thought you might like to have. You are to be commended on the fine publicity you go

Washington Not The Answer ---

KNOW YOUR DOCTOR

(7th In A Series)

But this is no good reason to run to Washington for help. When Uncle Sam starts posing as Santa Claus, M. D., it's just as well for everyone to remember that he hasn't any money except our money. Government control of medical care is bad—whether it is called compulsory health insurance, socialized medicine, or any other name. It's bad for you and your family because it will bring you medical care that is even more expensive, less personal, less efficient, constanlty deteriorating, and politically controlled.

More can be gained by promoting voluntary health insurance which has been doing an increasingly better job, year after year, in helping the people meet their medical expenses; more can be gained by initiating studies of all possible ways to stabilize or reduce the costs of medical care, hospitalization, and health insurance; more can be gained by encouraging the development and increased use of rest homes, nursing homes, rehabilitation centers, chronic illness facilities, home care programs, homemaker services, and other special facilities for patients who do not need complete hospital care.

Insurance For The Elderly—

Great strides have been made by the insurance industry to provide coverage for the elderly. Of the 80 Blue Cross hospitalization plans throughout the nation, 38 are now offering insurance for non-group enrollees over 65; the same goes for 32 of the 66 Blue Shield medical-surgical plans. In addition, more than 60 private insurance companies are now taking in old age subscribers.

The American Medical Association has advocated repeatedly effective leadership in constructive solutions of many of the socio-economic issues which medicine faces.

At its meeting in Minneapolis in December 1958, the A.M.A. approved a proposal for adjusted fees to help stimulate the development sons over 65 with limited resources of health insurance plans for per- or low family income. Already, 09 Blue Shield plans in 13 states are in various stages of developing special health insurance programs for older people.

There is a strong belief in many circles that the medical profession in cooperation with the insurance industry can solve cost problems better and more efficiently than any government agency. By whatever method your medical bill is paid for, you are going to get the bill, and you are going to pay the bill.

If the bill comes to you from Uncle Sam, it will be a tax bill and there will be no escaping it. It will be a stiff bill, too, because it will have added to it all the lost motion, waste and inefficiency that goes with government management of any big business.

Added to your medical costs will be the salaries and maintenance of administrators, accountants, and supervising physicians, as well as the costs of accounting machinery and the necessary buildings to house the records. You will be subject to all the disadvantages of deteriorating medical care at a high price.

In this day and age, anyone who is grown up ought not to have any doubt that there is no such thing as something for nothi applies to medical care everything else worth money.

ABUNDANT LIFE

CHRIST IS A PERSON

There is a great influence from Christ in the world today. His Spirit is present in varied forms all over the universe. Christ is also an idea in the minds of millions of people, but above and beyond all of these is the outstanding fact—Christ is a person.

Christ is the Son of man and the Son of God. He is a person who can be in your heart, who can walk by your side, who can talk with you day by day throughout your human existence. Christ is a person.

He was born a person. God was His father, the Virgin Mary was His mother. He was known as a person to these parents. He was known as a person to the lowly, humble shepherds who came to worship Him. Several days later the wise men came from various parts of the world to worship Him.

They looked upon Him as a person. Later in the temple of God He was known as a person to Simeon, the prophet, and Anna, the prophetess.

King Herod knew Christ as a person and was afraid of Him. The angels knew Him as a person and worshiped Him. The people of Nazareth knew Christ as a person—and rejected Him. As a twelve-year-old boy He was known as a person by the priests and lawyers in the temple of Jerusalem.

Christ preached and healed as a person. Satan ch

July Is Time To Begin Your Fall Gardening

Next Fall's vegetable garden depends largely on work done now!

Many fall gardens do not succeed because they are planted too late, according to Extension Horticulturist John Bagby. He says July is the month to get that garden started because here is usually plenty of rain to get he crop up and off to a good start.

Rutabagas require about 90 days from planting to harvest, cabbage from 65 to 75 days. Unless the seed of these crops are planted in July, they won't make their full growth before cold weather comes.

Miss Collins Is 11 Years Old

Mrs. Sam Collins entertained her daughter, Darlene, with a party last Wednesday, June 29 celebrating her 11th birthday. The guests assembled on the huge porch where the gifts were piled high on a lovely round table beautifully decorated with a bouquet of red roses and various colored balloons. Balloons were also given as favors to each guest. The little girls all dressed up in party hats, had pictures made by the honoree's mother. They then played games for a while. Darlene opened her many lovely gifts.

The birthday cake was a delicious pound cake baked and beautifully decorated by the honoree's mother. It was white, decorated in pink and held 11 pink candles. As the candles were lit the group sang "Happy Birthday".

Cake and drinks were served to: Wanda McCluskey, Dianne Garrett, Gail Campbell, Brenda Jewel Glass, Peggy Puritt, Judy Northcutt, Donna McNeil, Cynthia Vines, Becky Cobb, Kathy Avery, Veronica Harrell, Janelle Lenoir, Kathy Puritt, Shirley Faye Gass, Jane Ellison, Gwen Avery, Geraldine Jones, Valera Pate, Annette Lucas, Sandra Watts, Jasque Martin, Beverly Martin, Penny Satterwhite.

Do you frame your prescription?

When you have a Prescription filled do you take a few pills or a few spoonfuls and then put it on the shelf and forget about it? If you do, you are jeopardizing your health. Follow your Doctor's instructions to the letter—take all of the Prescription. Then go back to your doctor. He'll tell you whether or not to have the Prescription re-filled. There are too many half-filled bottles in medicine chests, mute testimony that YOU PAID for your doctor's advice and didn't follow it. You might as well frame your doctor's Prescription as to take only a part of it. The most important business we have is filling your Doctor's Prescription. Your most important job is taking it.

FEARED MOST BY COTTON FARMERS!

Auburn University says:

1. Control of cotton insects calls for good judgment. You want to use ample insecticides at the right time and in the right way to protect the foliage, squares, and, more important, the bolls.

2. Examine each field of cotton once a week. When pests are numerous enough to cause damage, apply an insecticide at once.

3. When 10 percent of the squares are punctured by boll weevils, start poisoning. Treat fields every 5 days when necessary. To protect bolls during weevil migration, dust or spray every fourth day.

Do not stop treating fields until top bolls are about grown. Boll weevils often destroy more cotton during the last 2 or 3 weeks before harvest than at any other time during the season.

4. Bollworms may be a problem throughout the growing season. Good coverage of all parts of the plant is necessary to control this pest. Don't miss the top of cotton plants—that's where bollworms start.

5. Spider mites are hardest to control because they feed on the underside of leaves. Thorough treatment is essential for good control.

County agents have details on how to fight cotton insects.

REGARDLESS of the soap ads - there is only one thing that will make you look young — and that is being young!

WE achieved freedom — and like any other achievement it can be lost by indifference.

OUR worst fault today is not being willing to stand up and be counted for what we really believe.

SURE the world is growing wiser—but that doesn't mean we have nothing more to learn.

THINK how many times you must have lost on a sure thing because you were afraid to take a chance.

IF you let others push you around you will soon find yourself in a pretty tight corner.

Ingredients Of An American--

THE intent or purpose of an organization, be it good or bad, cannot overshadow the impression which an active individual in that organization conveys.

In other words an organization cannot possibly be any better or any worse than the individuals who comprise it.

Our American Legion, as an organization has been challenged. We can speak only for what the organization is supposed to believe and what we know of our own local Post. These two areas we know. . . and they are unchallengeable!

The local Post of the American Legion has done more to promote good citizenship and Americanism than any other organization we know of and the leaders in the local Post are Americans all!

> "Recently in the schools of metropolitan New York City, certain leading students, designated for citizenship awards by the American Legion, for outstanding scholastic achievement, and their associate students, expressed a dislike for such receognition by the American Legion, one student declaring: "I refuse to accept an award from an organization whose policies I cannot respect."

It is this newspaper's opinion that anyone who would make a statement like that, has very little true respect for anything. Also we wonder at the wisdom of such an award. Though high scholastic achievement may be a vital part of good citizenship, it does not, in itself, make a good citizen. A good American citizen may indeed attain high scholastic achievement, but we have seen some wonderful Americans who were not even mediocre scholars. On the other hand, we have seen so-called 'scholars' who were unethical, impolite, ungentlemanly, un-American and as far as we could see maintained unnecessary attitudes about a lot of things.

Our American Legion is tops and there is no question about it! Faith, integrity, a defineable creed and Allegiance is what makes an American and an IQ of a genius is not required! We've also seen some folks with high IQ's who struck us as being stupidly ignorant about common sense.

Unnecessary Suffering--

THE John L. Sanders Community Action Award will be presented by the Alabama Commission on Alcoholism at the opening of a third out-patient alcoholism clinic in Decatur this Sunday afternoon at 5:00. The recipient will be disclosed at this meeting.

Commission Administrator, N. T. Frazer states "On the next Monday, July 11, the doors of the clinic will open at 8:00 a.m .to help those with drinking problems and their families."

There is no way of measuring the unnecessary suffering created in our own Chilton County by the use of alcoholic beverages and its effects on the individual and more important, the family unit.

AA does a marvelous job and is active in this County, but that is obviously not enough. A clinic such as the one mentioned here might go a long way toward relieving and even preventing a lot of that unnecessary human suffering.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

WE always try to find the good points in a person, place or thing and play them up, but a paint we ponder on sometimes is not quite so uplifting. How come there seems to be so many 'sophisticated little bums' around Clanton these days, both male and female. We think some parents have gone off the deep end lavishing their kids with luxuries and leisure without making them earn some part of it. Not so much because of necessity, like in the old days, but just so they'll know the value of life and have a respect for the things which are hard to come by. When we were the age of the ones about whom we speak, we were sort of halfway earning our own way, or at least we thought we were helping anyhow. Just how long is a 'child' supposed to look to his parents for support and how will he (or she) fair when parents are no more able to look out for them. Teenagers seem to have too much leisure time and do they appreciate it? On the contrary, they expect it, epen demand it. Is this good for them?

UNDERSTAND there's a new TV series coming on the scene called "The Sweet Smell of Success." It's a bit deceiving, however. "Success" is the name of a pet skunk. Should be interesting anyhow!

SITTING in Church Sunday night with the hymn book in hand and our number one son sitting beside us with hymn book in hand. We asked him were there any songs in the hymnal that he knew (he's five) and he suggested "Jesus Loves Me!" "No," we told him that one's not in there". He hummed to himself for a minute and then brightened and said: "How about 'All Around The Cobblers Bench?"

WHILE visiting an aunt recently the kids were up early (she has five and we have three) the thoughtful sister of ours was letting the wife sleep a little late. One of hers came into the house making quite a commotion and one of ours was naturally right on his heels. "Don't disturb Nell boys," said Aunt Junie. Old innocent Ben says: "Aw that's alright, go ahead and 'sturb her, we've been 'sturbin' her all night!"

THE Civitans gave us a fine sample of their cooking abilities on the Fourth of July when they staged their now annual Bar-B-Q, this year for the benefit of the underprivileged children in Chilton County. We are no longer a member of that very active group (there is your answer "active") but we were a charter member a few years ago and we have a warm spot for 'Civitans'. Regardless of this fact, they are one of the most 'alert to the needs of the community' groups that ye have and we cannot praise them enough. Their usefulness to our community is witnessed by the roll of fine citizens which they boast as members. We know for a fact that these men live, to a great extent, by the Civitans Creed and if you are familiar with its content you are aware of the calibre of man this calls for. On top of all this they can cook, too! Thanks again, Civitans!

FROM MY FRONT PORCH

by CARL HELM

What quality is it that makes a television "personality" a great and lasting favorite to millions of us?

Isn't it the rare ability to project friendship, the feeling and reality of it, into our homes? I believe that Dave Garroway has it. You may know others; I hope you do.

You find yourself calling them by their first names, and half expecting them, from the screen, to call you by yours! They smile, and instinctively you smile back.

They know all this, from the letters we write, and they must be deeply conscious of a moral obligation and a grave responsibility. They really have to feel friendship for us so strongly that it comes through the air.

Sincerity is something that cannot be faked, especially on a close-up televised face. These people must possess it, or they couldn't live long with us, or with themselves.

They are not actors; they offer us only themselves, no more and no less. Isn't that the way it is, with real friends?

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Congress last week abandoned its efforts to adjourn before the fortncoming political conventions and recessed until August 15. Members had hoped to be able to complete the pressing legislative business and adjourn until January. In spite of long sessions daily, however, it became apparent last week that it would not be possible to finisn work on several pieces of major legislation before the Democratic convention begins on July 11. Consequently, both houses voted to recess and reconvene in August. It is expected that the August session will continue at least until Labor Day.

This is the first instance during the eight years I have served in the House of Representatives that a recess has been taken near the end of the session.

Minimum Wage

Before recessing, the House took aciton last week on several major bills. It passed a moderate minimum wage increase bill that was endorsed by a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition and substituted for a more liberal committee-approved measure introduced by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.)

The measure passed by the House would raise the one-dollar-an-hour minimum wage to $1.15 for the 23.7 million workers now covered by the Fair Labor Standards Law. It would also bring another 1.4 million retail workers under the law's protection, although their minimum would be held to -1.00. The bill offered by Congressman Roosevelt would have raised the minimum to $1.25 in three yearly steys and would have brought an additional 3.5 million workers under the law.

The minimum wage legislation adopted by the House is now pending in the Senate where it wil be taken up after Congress reconvenes in August.

Pay Raise Voted

President Eisenhower exercised his 169th veto since he has been in office when he rejected the federal pay raise bill. Of the previous 168 vetoes, only one had been overridden. However, both the House and Senate last week again voted to override ,thus enacting the salary increase into law without presidential approval. In the House, the vote was 345 to 69, and in the Senate it was 74 to 24.

The approved bill provides an average increase of almost 8.4 per cent for posta l employees and slightly more than 7.5 per cent for other government workers. The increase goes into effect on July 1 for postal workers and at the start of the first pay period in July for all remaining federal employees.

Defense Appropriation—

Both houses gave final approval last week to a 40 billion-dollar defense appropriation bill for fiscal year 1961. The amount approved was $661 mililon more than the Presdent's request. This increase includes additional funds for the Polaris submarine, B-70 bomber, and the Strategic Air Command's airborne alert program.

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

In advance of TV's coming upon the scene, and prior to radio making its bow, there were top funny men in America, of course. One of these, and probably the highest paid was Raymond Hitchcock. Raymond stood out over the stage comedians of his era like a sore thumb.

If a suitable vehicle presented itself he remained in New York and appeared at some Broadway theatre. If such a script was not forthcoming, he would resurrect one of a season or so before and would go on tour. As a consequence he learned all of the better cities of the country and upon occasion played in their best or worst theatres. "Hitchy-Koo" was one such show and was titled in his honor as the star of the piece.

Naturally, Hitchy would use some of his best material from year to year until he would have it threadbare. Likely his favorite yarn of all time had to do with himself and his Aunt Martha, who had helped erar him. Raymond would recite how his Uncle George had died leaving his Aunt Martha a widow. She took him as a lad to the funeral of the deceased relative and as she sat there shedding tears the preacher began eulogizing:

"Deceased was a good man, an honest man, a kindly soul—generous to a fault, always bearing the comfort of others and their needs in mind. He was a truthful, a sober man, a God-fearing person who couldn't bear to see others in pain . . ."

At that point in the narrative Aunt Martha would nudge Raymond, and whisper into his ear: "Son, we better get out of here—ye've come to the wrong funeral."

RUFE Bivens and his spouse lived in a tiny Georgia town shortly after the turn of the Century. They had an amplee crop of children and a small crop of cotton at the edge of town. Mrs. Bivens was nearly always expecting, and invariably Rufe's main occupation was meeting trains that came thru, some of them being kind enough to stop. The couple had named their big group of tykes after Biblical characters. The triplets were Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. The oldest and strongest boy had exhibited his tendency toward strength in infancy, and it was natural that Rufe and his wife had decided to name that particular offspring "Samson".

One late Summer afternoon Rufe had foregathered with the inner circle at the depot, the accomodation train known as The Dude having already blown for the station, and the natives on hand were ready to compare watches with the conductor upon train's arrival to determine if that worthy was carrying the correct time.

Thirteen year old Naomi burst in on the little gathering, yelling: "Pa, Ma says to get home as quick as your feet will take you there!"

"Brat, you should have better manners than to come in on me with The Dude just about here—what's the matter at home, gal?"

"It's awful, Pa. Mary Magdelene tore a scantling off the front porch bannisters, is hitting John the Baptist over the head and is beating the tar-waddin' out of him with it!

YOUR HEALTH

HERNIA

Hernia is fifth among the causes of disability. It causes more deaths in this country than appendicitis, upwards of 5,000 every year. An estimated 800,000 persons in the United States have unrepaired hernias.

A hernia, familiarly known as a rupture, is a protrusion of a loop or knuckle of an organ or a tissue through an abnormal opening. The most common type of hernia is that in which part of the intestines passes through an opening into the groin. In many instances, hernia is present at birth and difficult to recognize. Often a hernia is first diagnosed when a loop of intestine protrudes into the groin or scrotum possibly, after a fit of hard coughing or strain. Operation for hernia in children is simple, with a short stay in the hospital, and recurrence is rare.

A hernia problem in later life is commonly the persistence of hernia from infancy. A wel-known site of hernia is the umbilicus or navel, and this usually appears soon after birth. Sometimes hernia is associated with an abdomnal scar after surgery, when the muscles have been strained before the scar was firm. There are also rare cases in which hernia occurs through the diaphragm with part of the stomach pushing its way up into the chest cavity, and this type has been popularly called upside-down stomach.

A hernia in many instances is reducible in that the protruding part slips back into normal position when the person lies down or when it can be pushed back with gentle pressure. While in such cases a truss or bandage worn constantly may control the hernia, surgery is better;; for there is always the possibility of the intestine becoming pinched, thus cutting off blood supply.

Keep the poultry house clean and dry.

COPY OF LETTER TO MR MULLINS

Mr. Burton Mullins
Civil Defense Director
Chilton County

Dear Mr. Mullins:

"I enjoyed your visit with me yesterday and appreciated the opportunity of explaining our water safety program. I also want to congratulate you on the fine event put on by you and your organization at Clanton on Sunday, June 26.

We were glad to have our men and equipment present at your demonstration and hope that they in some minor way added to the occasion. I can understand how the misunderstanding arose about the participation of our patrolmen. Had we been notified of your plans and the extent to which you intended our men to participate, we would have put them through the demonstration several times prior to the event to be sure that the occasion was up to par.

I am sure that you can understand our reluctance to permit our people to participate in dangerous maneuvers when one of the patrolmen involved had only come on the payroll June 22 and reported for duty at Clanton on the 23rd. An accident involving our water patrolmen and the water patrol boats would have been very embarrassing to all concerned.

I understand that your men put on a splendid exhibition and that it far surpassed anything that our new men could have done, being unfamiliar with the operation of their boats.

Please bear with us and at some time in the future we will have well-trained water patrolmen proficient in their duties and the operation of their equipment, at which time we would not hesitate to ask them to paricipate in an event such as yours. It is unfortunate that you did not know the capabilities of our personnel nor did we know what you expected of us far enough in advance for both of us to have anticipated the situation.

You had at your demonstration the two patrolmen and equipment the waters of 14 counties. This was a sacrifice on the part of these which are responsible for patrolling counties in the interest of your program. I am sure that you appreciate their contributions to you.

Washington Not The Answer ---

KNOW YOUR DOCTOR

(7th In A Series)

But this is no good reason to run to Washington for help. When Uncle Sam starts posing as Santa Claus, M. D., it's just as well for everyone to remember that he hasn't any money except our money. Government control of medical care is bad—whether it is called compulsory health insurance, socialized medicine, or any other name. It's bad for you and your family because it will bring you medical care that is even more expensive, less personal, less efficient, constanlty deteriorating, and politically controlled.

More can be gained by promoting voluntary health insurance which has been doing an increasingly better job, year after year, in helping the people meet their medical expenses; more can be gained by initiating studies of all possible ways to stabilize or reduce the costs of medical care, hospitalization, and health insurance; more can be gained by encouraging the development and increased use of rest homes, nursing homes, rehabilitation centers, chronic illness facilities, home care programs, homemaker services, and other special facilities for patients who do not need complete hospital care.

Insurance For The Elderly—

Great strides have been made by the insurance industry to provide coverage for the elderly. Of the 80 Blue Cross hospitalization plans throughout the nation, 38 are now offering insurance for non-group enrollees over 65; the same goes for 32 of the 66 Blue Shield medical-surgical plans. In addition, more than 60 private insurance companies are now taking in old age subscribers.

The American Medical Association has advocated repeatedly effective leadership in constructive solutions of many of the socio-economic issues which medicine faces.

At its meeting in Minneapolis in December 1958, the A.M.A. approved a proposal for adjusted fees to help stimulate the development sons over 65 with limited resources of health insurance plans for per- or low family income. Already, 19 Blue Shield plans in 13 states are in various stages of developing special health insurance programs for older people.

There is a strong belief in many circles that the medical profession in cooperation with the insurance industry can solve cost problems better and more efficiently than any government agency. By whatever method your medical bill is paid for, you are going to get the bill, and you are going to pay the bill.

If the bill comes to you from Uncle Sam, it will be a tax bill and there will be no escaping it. It will be a stiff bill, too, because it will have added to it all the lost motion, waste and inefficiency that goes with government management of any big business.

Added to your medical costs will be the salaries and maintenance of administrators, accountants, and supervising physicians, as well as the costs of accounting machinery and the necessary buildings to house the records. You will be subject to all the disadvantages of deteriorating medical care at a high price.

In this day and age, anyone who is grown up ought not to have any doubt that there is no such thing as something for nothi... applies to medical care... everything else worth... money.

CHRIST IS A PERSON

There is a great influence from Christ in the world today. His Spirit is present in varied forms all over the universe. Christ is also an idea in the minds of millions of people, but above and beyond all of these is the outstanding fact—Christ is a person.

Christ is the Son of man and the Son of God. He is a person who can be in your heart, who can walk by your side, who can talk with you day by day throughout your human existence. Christ is a person.

He was born a person. God was His father, the Virgin Mary was His mother. He was known as a person to these parents. He was known as a person to the lowly, humble shepherds who came to worship Him. Several days later the wise men came from various parts of the world to worship Him.

They looked upon Him as a person. Later in the temple of God He was known as a person to Simeon, the prophet, and Anna, the prophetess.

King Herod knew Christ as a person and was afraid of Him. The angels knew Him as a person and worshiped Him. The people of Nazareth knew Christ as a person—and rejected Him. As a twelve-year-old boy He was known as a person by the priests and lawyers in the temple of Jerusalem.

Home Can Tomato Juice

When red-ripe tomatoes are flooding the market and heavy on the vines in home gardens, then it is time to bring out the canning jars and the food mill. Can whole tomatoes if you like, but don't overlook tomato juice. It is not only superb as a beverage, but is handy for use all winter long in making soups and aspics and for cooking stews and pot roasts. In preparing tomatoes for juice, there is none of the bother of peeling the tomatoes. The same household food mill you use all year around for mashing, ricing and straining can do the chore for you. If you don't own a food mill, then here is the perfect excuse to get one.

Home Canned Tomato Juice

For each quart of tomato juice, you will need 3 to 3½ pounds of tomatoes. A bushel of tomatoes will be enough to make 12 to 16 quarts of juice. Select firm, red-ripe tomatoes avoiding those with cracks or decayed spots. Prepare only enough for one canner load at a time. Wash and rinse the tomatoes; quarter and cut out white core and stems. Place in a kettle and simmer over low heat, stirring occasionally, until soft. Put tomatoes through the food mill into a bowl or into another kettle. Add 1 teaspoon salt for each quart of juice. Reheat juice just to the point of boiling. Pour the hot juice into hot scalded jars to within ¼ inch of the top. Remove air bubbles. Wipe around top of jar. Cap and screw the band tight, or cover following jar manufacturer's directions. Process 15 minutes (pints and quarts) in boiling water bath. Take jars from bath and set two or three inches apart on several thicknesses of cloth and let cool, about 12 hours. Remove bands; if dome is down or stays down when pressed, jar is sealed. Or test for seal, following jar manufacturer's directions.

To Prepare Boiling Water Bath

If you don't have a boiling water bath canner, an ordinary kettle with a cover and a rack in the bottom may be used. The rack should hold the jars about ½ inch above the bottom of the canner and the kettle should be deep enough for water to cover the jars at least one inch over the top without boiling over.

Before beginning the preparation of the tomatoes, fill the canner about half full of water and heat the water over low heat. The water should be hot but not boiling when you put in the jars for processing. After the jars are in the canner, add boiling water to cover. Cover kettle and when water comes to a fast rolling boil, start counting the time.

PORTRAIT OF A BOATING ACCIDENT

A male 20-44 years of age— just when he's getting the most out of life. The actual operator of the boat, probably.

On a fishing trip!

Cause of the accident:

Failure to use common sense.

"America is literally a nation going — in droves — down to the sea in ships," says the National Safety Council. "It's falling head-over-heels in love with boating."

According to the Council, a non-governmental agency concerned with all forms of safety, 40 million persons take part regularly in recreational boating.

About 1,300 persons die each year in boating accidents.

"And most of the deaths shouldn't happen," declared Ralph Kuhli, the Councils directors of public safety.

He said a study showed that more than half the pleasure boat fatalities result from capsizing and operator negligence — falling overboard, reckless operation, making too sharp a turn, standing in a boat, and overloading a boat.

"Every one of these kinds of operator negligence could be eliminated if the rules of safe boating were observed," Kuhli said.

He cited these facts about recreational boating:

One of every five-boat-owning families has two boats.

By 1970, 60 million boaters (20 million more than today) will be taking part in the fun.

The eight million recreational boats in use today (200,000 more than last year) come in all sizes and shapes — outboard boats, rowboats, canoes, dinghies, sailboats and motorboats, for example.

Today's six million outboard motors will double by 1970.

Almost two million boat trailers are used today.

The nation spends 2½ billion dollars a year on boating. By 1970, the figure will be tripled.

Kuhli said that of the eight million recreational boats, nearly half are used for fishing, about 3 out of 10 for cruising and 1 out of 5 for water skiing.

He gave these suggestions on how to help prevent boating accidents:

1. Check the condition of your boat before leaving shore. take along a bailing can and an extra oar. Carry tools for minor repairs.
2. Take along life preservers. Make sure everyone wears one — including the children.
3. Don't overload the boat. And no standing up or horseplay.

Above all, Kuhli said, use common sense in operating a boat.

GROWERS MUST OBSERVE LABOR LAWS

BE CAREFUL HIRING PERSONS IN THEIR TEENS

BIRMINGHAM—The U. S. Labor Department has brought a civil action here to enjoin the hiring of minors by Olen E. Gagwell and Harold H. Hollis, cotton and peach farm operators of Warrior.

The complaint alleges that the defendants had employed children under 16 in the growing, picking and selling of the farm produce.

H. J. Hunter, field office supervisor of the Labor Department's Birmingham office, said the employment of children under 16 years of age is prohibited during school hours in the district where the minor lives.

The court is also asked to require the defendants to maintain proper records of employees in the future. The complaint alleged they had not kept the name, address, and date of birth of minors under 19. This information is required by Federal regulation.

Farmer Gets Small Cut Of Government Spending

Very little of the government's spending in agriculture winds up in the farmer's pocket.

More than half of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's 1961 budget of over six billion dollars is taken up by activities which have multiple benefits, according to Extension Marketing Specialist A. W. Jones.

This category includes foreign relations and defense aspects, food distribution, research and education, meat and food inspection, forestry services, soil conservation, market reporting, and regulatory programs. Jones says this spending has increased 200 percent since 1953.

And the Auburn University specialist adds that even in the price support field, more than half of the budgeted expenditures are taken up by outlays for storage, handling, transportation, interest and operating expenses.

Minnie and Marie spent Saturday night at Winslow, Ariz. Sunday morning they left Winslow and made stops Sunday at Albuquerque, New Mexico: Amarillo, Texas: Ft Smith, Ark.: and remained overnight Sunday night at Memphis, Tenn. Total distance from California to Delaware is something over 2500 miles and Sunday night they were within approximately 800 miles of their goal. Monday night was spent at Chattanooga, Tenn. and the two young ladies flew into Wilmington, Delaware Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Finish 26th At Wilmington—

They left number 81 at Torrence and landed 26th at Wilmington. This does not have any bearing on the outcome of the race, as it is judged according to how well the pilot and co-pilot handle their plane and the performance, range, etc.

FROM MY FRONT PORCH
by CARL HELM

No matter how expertly cooked any food may be, it lacks relish to me if it's served by a waiter instead of a waitress.

Any ex-GI will go along with this: a military mess could be prepared by a blue ribbon chef and still be just grub, in a chow line.

The serving of food, from a sandwich on up, needs a woman's touch — the savory seasoning of feminine charm and daintiness. A smiling waitress is the best aid to digestion I've ever encountered.

The most expensive high-toned restaurants, it seems to me, invariably have the stoniest faced waiters, and they're decked out fancily to make them look even snootier. They can ruin my appetite with one chilly look.

For eating pleasure and my stomach's sake, I'll take a hamburger served by a beaming waitress, and pass up an eight course banquet served by the Waldorf-Astoria's gentlemen flunkeys. It isn't that I don't like elegant food — I just want to enjoy it!

IT'S AMAZING!

IF our newspapers are anywhere near accurate in reporting the character of N. Krushchev, then we are prepared to predict that about 99 percent of the citizens of Chilton County are ready to take him on! We do not want war, of course, but we still have a certain respect for humanity—this is one virtue that N.K. obviously lacks.

IF you don't believe that there is a decided lack of appreciation for the things we have — take a look at the kids with what you give them and see if you aren't looking in a mirror!

THE American Revolution was brought about by unreasonable demands. . . the Federal government is getting too demanding on the individual and we are losing our freedoms! You know, of course, that the difference is—the Federal government is you!

WE can hardly stand still while all these folks are gayly passing us by on the way to their vacation. Wee're not against it—we want in on it!

Watch That Shootin' Iron--

FIREARMS are dangerous when safety measures are observed to the letter. When individuals with guns start shooting in any and every direction with little or no concern as to where the bullet will wind up, chances are very good that someone is going to get hurt—or worse!

It brings to mind the tragic accidents that have taken place on the river recently. Just this past week end a "missile" struck the wall right above the head of Mrs. Earl Marcus. She was in her home at the time. Reports were that someone was shooting at a squirrel.

Please, if you're going to 'play' with guns, first learn to respect their power to kill or maim and then use the safety measures set up, not only by the County or State but by the instruction of your own common sense! Let's not have any senseless, fatal accidents!

The Powerful Hand--

ANY meeting which is actively in support of a church or religious group or which that church or group supports owes a certain amount of allegiance to the beliefs of that church or group.

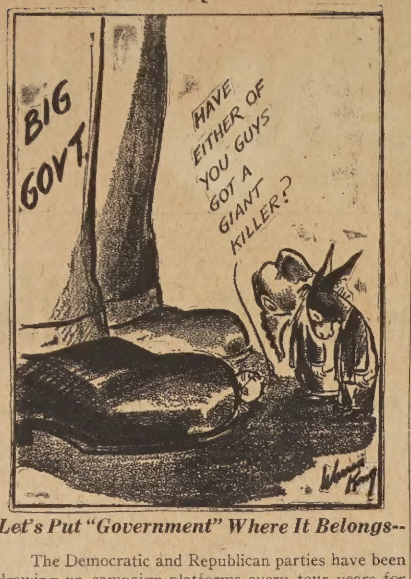
Take the Methodist Church for example with a meeting of, let's say, the WSCS. There is not a single member of this group who does not know that a Christian meeting is conducted in a Christian manner and all members act accordingly. These women are fully aware of their responsibilities as Christian ladies and mothers and act accordingly. They know that a meeting of a church group—regardless of where it is—should be conducted as if it were the church building itself.

The WSCS is a wonderful organization and it is held together—in usefulness to the church—by the faith and willingness to do, of its members. These ladies know their job, know what is expected of them by God and the Church and are always ready and able.

There are groups who use church inspired meetings as "melting pots". They take all the raw materials of hate, greed, envy, sarcasm, exaggeration, and gossip and thus sacrilege the meeting by bringing evil where it does not belong. People who know the least bit about the Bible, know that one of the most condemned practices of mankind by Bible figures, including the Lord himself, is that practice of slandering your neighbor and speaking falsely of your brother—in other words, spreading ill will and bad feelings. This is the exact opposite of the Church's and Christianity's purpose here on earth!

We used the WSCS as an example of a church group. We know practically all these Christian ladies well, and know that they would not take part in such "small" endeavors! It takes a lot of goodness to be a member of the Women's Society of Christian Service and as the name implies—they are Christians all. Some of us cannot live up to the high standards which they set up for themselves. We are the ones who do not deserve to belong to such an organization as the WSCS or the RA's or theBTU or the MYF or the Men's Fellowship. Remember the hymn "I am weak, but Thou art mighty, hold me with Thy powerful hand." If we could remember this phrase, we would more readily accept His help and in so doing become better stewards of Christ.

THE BIG QUESTION



BIG GOVT.
HAVE EITHER OF YOU GUYS GOT A GIANT KILLER?

Let's Put "Government" Where It Belongs--

The Democratic and Republican parties have been drawing up campaign platforms every tour years for a hundred years or better. Every one of those platforms has been "in the best interest of the people"—but just what that phrase means has changed a good deal over the years.

When many of today's political thinkers refer to "the people", what they have in mind is the whole of society. They think of people as a group—a concept indistinguishable from the Marxist idea of "the masses".

In contrast, the American political tradition has always conceived of "the people" as individuals, each endowed with supreme and equal worth by God. This revolutionary idea that each person has certain rights derived from an Authority higher than any government was proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence and written into the Constitution. On it Amercans founded a nation in which government was to be the servant of the people rather than their master.

A close look at the platforms coming from the political conventions this month will show how the party leaders interpret the word "people". If they make large promises of more federal duties, powers and programs, watch out. Collectivization of power in a big central government is in the Marxist manner. Political leaders who want to protect the American heritage of personal rights and freedoms will advocate keeping as much government as possible at the local levels where each individual can keep an eye on it and make his voice heard.

TIME CHANGES MANY THINGS SAYS MR. VANDERVEER

Mr. Ben Tucker
CHILTON COUNTY NEWS
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Ben:

A new jail, a new courthouse — and now a new Masonic Hall — time has changed many things.

How well I recall, as a boy, watching trials in the old courthouse and perhaps some of the senior residents recall my Granddad and his Masonic activities.

My congratulations to all concerned.

Cordially yours,
Joe Van Derveer

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

For He is not a God of the dead, but of the living; for all live unto Him

—(St. Luke 20:38)

God, love, wisdom, mercy, an ever-present help, is all around us each minute of our lives as is the very air we breathe, made a living, wonderful reality attainable by each of us through His Son, our Savior, Christ Jesus. When we neglect the daily opportunity to live within His love, we are but merely existing.

How Medical Science Helps You--

Know Your Doctor

(8th In A Series)

The march of medical science during the last 50 years has been awe-inspiring, with the result that people today are living longer and healthier lives than any of their ancestors.

The cold fact is that during the last half century more progress has been made in the conquest of disease and the prolongation of life than had been accomplished in the entire 999 centuries of man's previous existence on earth.

The most eloquent summation of what has been achieved can be expressed in terms of life's expectancy. In 1960 a girl born in the United States can expect to live to nearly 75 years of age, a boy to 70. And, of course, most of the increase in life expectancy has come as a result of new discoveries in medicine whch have overcome the tremendous rates of infant mortalty that prevailed in the past.

Many Diseases Eliminated

At the turn of the century, of every 1,000 babies that survived birth, 162 died within the first year, whereas today less than 26 succumb. And of the 20 million babies born in the last 5 years, 80,000 are destined to live to be a hundred.

Looking at it from another angle, doctors have seen the almost complete elimination of such killers as cholera, yellow fever, smallpox and the plague.

Diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, typhus, tetanus, rickets, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, pernicious anemia, Addisons disease, meningitis and other diseases have lost their deadly sting.

TB, Pneumonia

Tuberculosis was responsible for 194 deaths per 100,000 population in 1900, but less than 9.5 today. In half a century the greatest reaper of them all—pneumonia—has been all but defeated as witnessed by the fact that the death rate has declined from 152 per 100,000 to 12. Even among the survivors, at the beginning of the century it took an average of three months wages to pay the hospital bills resulting from a case of pneumonia.

Today the disease is often cured at home at an average cost of only five hours wages for the "miracle" drugs.

Only Forty Years Ago

Only 40 years ago, one of every four persons subjected to a major operation met his doom, whereas today only one in a hundred succumbs, and if that still seems high, let's remember that surgeons can now operate where the risk is great, whereas a few years ago they would not have dared touch many cases that now have been given at least a fighting chance to live.

Forty-five years ago the existence of coronary thrombosis was not even recognized. Today it is diagnosed with certainty and measures are available to save the lives of many who would otherwise have succumbed.

Insulin—A Medical Milestone

The discovery of insluin in 1922 is rightfully marked as one of the great milestones along the road of medical progress. The identification and extraction of a new medicinal principle is always an event of historical importance. But it is of an achevement. A test tube only the beginning and not the end miracle is one thing. Its beatification into thousands of gallons is sometimes a second miracle without which the first has no significance in terms of human betterment. And it is not until hundreds of thousands of small vials and ampuls or tablets pour out of some pharmaceutical plant, that the co'rse of history is really changed. Before insulin, two of every three diabetic patients died of diabetic coma. Today death from coma is so rare that a certificate with this diagnosis would attract the attention of the medical examiner.

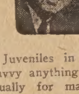
Some time ago Senator Lister Hill stated that one billion six hundred million life years had been saved in the United States from 1900 through 1956 as a result of medical and phartioned maceutical progress.

To illustrate the point furhter, he mentioned that if the infant mortality rate of 1900 had been applied in 1955, 586,000 children would have died at birth instead of the actual figure of 106,000. Thus the lives of 480,000 infants were saved by the advance of science.

Fleming and Penicillin

In the late twenties Sir Alexander Fleming observed that for some unknown reason bacteria failed to grow here and there in his Petri dishes. The inquiring mind of a scientist prompted him to find out why. He discovered htat a simple mold, penicillum notatum, had accidentally contaminated his bacterial cultures and wherever the mold took hold the bacteria failed to flourish. The logical next step dictated by scientific curiosity was to find out what it was in the mold that was responble for this curious phenomenon and, having found it, whether or not this substance, now called penicillin, could be safely introduced into the human body with the same results. This experiment was performed by clinicians, Florey and Chain. As everyone now knows, the experiment was successful, However, up to this point we had nothing more than intriguing academic scientific observations. The sixty-four million dollar question was: Could this antbacterial substance, penicillin, be produced on a large scale and at a cost low enough to make it practical and available for the treatment of the millions who had infections susceptible to the action of penicillin?

Despite the fact that penicillin was discovered in England, it was no accident that it was first produced on a large scale by the American pharmaceutical industry.



HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

Juveniles in my audience won't savvy anything about this, but annually for many years travelling minstrel shows were quite the vogue. Oldsters, who witnessed the annual coming of the minstrel will know exactly what I'm talking about, and many of them will likely remember the burnt-cork antics of Al G. Field, Neil O'Brien, Lasses White, Eddie Ross and others who went on tour regularly until a couple of decades ago. It was then that the vogue died completely, and after almost a century of entertaining the American public, a time-honored custom faded.

Billy Beard, my good friend and end man par excellence, had a frazzled favorite. I heard it on television recently when Ernie Ford, the pea-picker, was talking to Adolph Menjou. Thee Beau Brummel of the cinema asked the boy from Bristol how much milk his cow gave, and Ern gave the century-old stock answer: "She don't give any — we have to take it away from her!"

And that brought to mind that my friend Lasses White never left out of his repertoire a certain gag. Mr. Interlocutor would say to Lasses: "If your wife and Mother-In Law were out in a boat, and the craft should hit a snag in the river overturning it, which would you save - your wife? or your mother in-law?"

Lasses invariable answer: "I wouldn't do either. I'd just throw my arms around that snag and I'd try to get it in the boat!" The Middle Man, horrified, would exclaim: "What in the world. . . what do you mean, man?" Lasses would answer: "I could get me another wife, and could get me a new Ma-In-Law - but where in the world would I ever be able to find another kind and loving snag?"

THINGS We see and hear

by

OUR good friend Kenneth Weldon around at Weldon Paint And Hardware Co. has done his good turn for the week, or two or three. So have Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Freeman; they were in on it too. It seems Kenneth donated eight bushels of luscious Chilton County peaches to the Masonic Home in Montgomery and the Freeman's obligingly delivered them. That's what we call real teamwork; and for a topknotch cause, too!

A FELLOW whom we like very much, came in the other day and wanted us to print an article titled "Catholic Church Called One of 3 Greatest Foes of U.S." and we told him if we could use any of it, that we would do so. After reading it, we found we could not use the article because it did not agree with the policy which we try to maintain. If it were a proven fact that his was true of Caholicism or any other organization then we would print it—without question. Everybody and his proverbial broher are lambasting the Catholic Church because of John Kennedy. The reason is obvious and therefore all the lambasting is not justified. Kennedy may deserve it, the church does not. We cannot contribute to the detriment of others—organization or individual—unless it is fact that they are deserving of such opinion. The friend we mentioned above is interested only in the good of his Country and we appreciate his feeling and his trouble very much. Perhaps we helped his point after all!

FELLOW was showing off his ignorance down at the Exchange Barber Shop the other morning and teasing Joe Powell about what his job was. Well, we've got the information straight—after considerable research on the subject—and we have uncovered the fact that Joe is the "sucker superpisor". Now we talked with several sucker 'addicts' (in fact we've got three of them at home) and there's no doubt about it: if the fellow mentioned above were a little better behaved he might know what Joe's job is. According to some of his preferred customers they' just about have to close down the joint if they lost the Sucker Supervisor! And that's a fact because we checked.

WE now hear rumblings that the word is going around for the unions to start working for a four day week! This is not entirely rumor of course and we don't doubt any of it. It seems like the more we hear of unions and their intentions the less we like their goingson. In our opinion they have gone completely haywire on this "all for us and none for you" wagon of

JESUS HELPS THE NEEDY

Once Jesus was traveling on His way to Jericho with a great crowd following Him. Suddenly a pleading voice cried out: "Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me."

That cry attracted the attention of the crowd milling about the Master. Some of the people tried to stop the man and said, "Hold your peace."

The man realized Christ might walk out of his life, that he might never have another opportunity for help. He had been blind from birth, and he knew that only Jesus could help him. So, the Bible says, he cried that much louder, "Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me!"

This time Jesus heard the cry. He stopped the whole procession. The sweetest music in all the world to God is a sinner's prayer or the cry of a sick person who cannot get well. Jesus heard the blind man and said, "Bring that man to me." Then He asked the man, "What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?"

The poor blind man answered, "Lord, that I might receive my sight."

Jesus said, "Go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole." And the scales came off the man's eyes and he was healed of blindness! This act shows our Saviour in action—the Christ the Bible gives us!

There are those who say Jesus was a good man, a wonderful teacher or a fine social worker. But let me

Telephone Talk
W. R. Waters
Your Telephone Manager

HAVE YOU EVER saved and planned for a trip, driven to that special vacation spot, and then— found no hotel or motel room available? Sleeping in the car isn't much fun, is it? After your family has spent an uncomfortable night in a cramped automobile, you realize how important it is to phone ahead for reservations. The cost of a Long Distance call is small and the reassurance of having a place to stay is very comforting.

OF COURSE Long Distance is very helpful on many occasions this time of year. It's good to phone before visiting people out of town—for one reason, they might be on the way to visit you. If you can't get together with the folks, it's very satisfying to have a nice phone chat. On the road, it's a lot of fun to call friends at home and report some of your vacation happenings. Just look for the nearest booth, walk-up or drive-up telephone—they're easy to spot.

Incidentally, your telephone can be connected with about 97 per cent of the world's telephones. These stations are located in over 130 countries and territories in all parts of the globe. The week-day rates for 3 minute overseas calls range from $4.50 to $15.00. Instead of a trip this summer perhaps you would prefer to call a friend in Tokyo or Copenhagen.

Something For The Youngsters

"TOBY TYLER" and Monk, with the Circus, will thrill and entertain you and the entire family with its warm humor and exciting background. It shows at Clanton Drive-In Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 24th, 25th and 26th.

To The Voters Of Clanton

IN the City election in September you will have an opportunity to vote on the pool room. The subject is a sore spot in Clanton.

Twenty years ago when there were poolrooms it was a bad element. But that was 20 years ago and people change.

When you think of playing pool you think of drinking, gambling and a teen-age hangout. I assure you that none of the preceding will be if you will give me the chance to prove it so.

What's wrong with playing pool? Is there any difference from bowling, skating, golf, baseball, football or any other sport or recreation? No, it can be a clean and wholesome recreation as well as any other sport.

8 out of 10 people seee no harm in a pool room if it is run right. If you will give me the opportunity I will prove to you it can be run right as it is being done all over the country. I will do everything in my power to prohibit gambling, drinking and the use of profanity and to make this establishment a place of clean recreation only. There will be no MINORS allowed.

Discuss this with your friends and neighbors. In discussing this with an open nine, I believe you will find that a Pool Room can be run properly and be a place of recreation, not a hangout for teen-agers and drunks.

Sincerely,
RAYMOND POPWELL

Church At Jemison Burns Mortgage

Following the regular morning services at the Baptist Church the Congregation assembled on the steps of the Church where the chairman of the Board of Deacons with other deacons burned the mortgage on the Church property.

The Church building was begun May 1957 and completed June 1960 at an approximate cost of $26,000 dollars. Plans are going forward to purchase pews and installing an air-conditioning system.

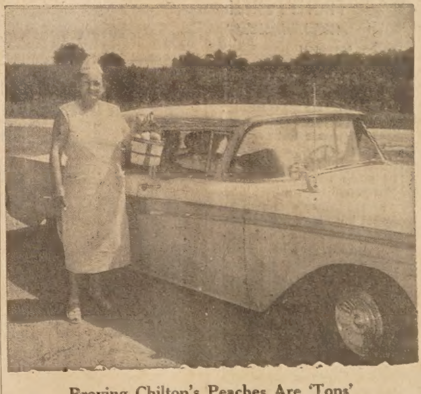
Peach Courtesy Stop Puts Chilton County "On Map"



Proving Chilton's Peaches Are 'Tops'

Some of the enthusiastic volunteer workers not yet mentioned are: Mr. Ed Yeargan, Mr. Wright, Mrs. Sam Bentley, Mrs. J. P. Payne, Mrs. Clyde Wood, Mrs. A. O. Littleton, Mrs. E. R. Yeargan, Mrs. James Kincaid, Mr John Sellers and Mrs. Jeff Cleckler who engineered the manufacture of some homemade, handcranked ice cream—Peach naturally!

THE Chilton County Chamber of Commerce's sponsoring of the Peach Promotion Day last week was no doubt the greatest thing ever done in promoting Chitlon County. It was planned to promote Chilton Couny peaches and stimulate sales to out-of-state consumers.

Not only was this accomplished, but also the hospitality of the State of Alabama (County of Chilton) was extended to over 900 people from 32 different states.

The program began promptly at 8:00 a.m., as scheduled, just south of Thorsby on Highway 31 at the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers' Association. The State Highway Patrolmen, Chilton County Sheriff's representative, Thorsby Police, accompanied by P. F. Singley, representing the County Chamber of Commerce, and Thorsby's new Methodist preacher, began a courtesy check of all out-of-state cars.

How The Courtesy Stop Was Planned—

During the Peach Courtesy Stop those traveling north were presented a card by Mr. Singley and those traveling south, a card by Rev. Tommy Dapis. They were asked to fill out the card.

The visitors were presented with a small basket of attractively displayed Chilton County peaches with a brochure on the Chilton peach industry, market outlets, ripening data and reminders to buy Chilton County peaches which are "Tops"!

Some Comments—

"I've never encountered anything quite as nice as this."

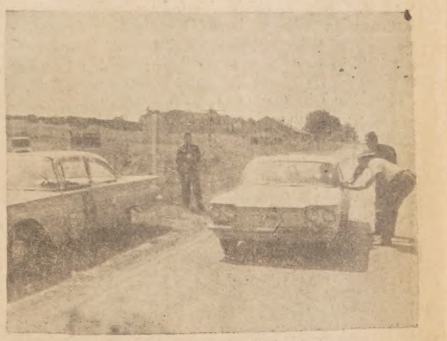
"I'll never forget how nice you people in Alabama were to us."

"Im sure going to tell our Chamber of Commerce about this, it's a magnificent way to promote your County".

"I'm sure glad we came through Alabama. We originally planned to go through North Carolina and Georgia."

Many more nice comments were made agout the project.

Suffice it to repeat that this was a very good way to publicize Chilton County and her peaches.



Highway Patrol Helps Halt Visitors

State Highway Patrolmen assist in stopping the 900 travelers who were given Chilton County's best peaches. According to official reports 1000 more travelers could have been reached if enough peaches had been available. It was a very good and effective promotion for a 'first time'. NEWS photos by SCOTT

WHAT with all the pretty women brought into the National Conventions nowadays, we expect to be a delegate next year.

AND speaking of Delegates-At-Large — Brother, we'll be a delegate-at-large!

THE pinnacle of success is no place for a person who likes lots of company.

RESPECT cannot be borrowed or inherited—it must be earned.

YOU may fool yourself into thinking you are killing time—but in the end, time will come out the winner.

YOU cannot sidestep responsibility. If you do too often you find yourself sidestepped onto the sideline.

Once Honored--

THE once honored Southland took a beating at the Convention in Los Angeles last week. It caused a nausea in the pit of our stomach to hear the "boos" and the "catcalls" in a feeble attempt to frustrate our Southern speakers.

Mark our word; the 140 some-odd electoral college votes that are in the South will be sorely needed before the curtain is rung down in November.

Too Many 'Rovers' Roving--

WHY is the "dog" ordinance of Clanton not being enforced, or has it been repealed while we weren't looking. When the City passed the ordinance to the effect that all dogs must be kept "up" we dutifully tied old Mutt up and he has been "up" ever since.

The obvious fact is that most of us are ignoring this ordinance. Saturday afternoon (and Sunday morning we had to run them off) a pack of about 11 mongrels of various degrees roamed the area where we live. They ranged in size from a half foot tall to three and a half and included everything froma little German Shepherd to a lot of hound! They were not doing any damage other than to each other, but the fact is, we have small children playing and dogs, whether vicious individuals or not, usually are easily provoked and itching for fight when running with a pack. They seem to have reason to quarrel quite a bit! It is not safe for dogs to travel in packs.

Although it is against the ordinance, one dog running loose, providing he has been vaccinated properly, does not provide much of a menace. With ten or twelve traveling together it is definitely dangerous for passersby and residents as well. They should either go home or to the dog pound since they serve no constructive purpose that we can see by running loose and in packs at that. We wouldn't hesitate a minute to kill a few dogs, if it meant the safety of ours or our neighbors children—and it wouldn't matter what the pedigree of he or his owner was.

We have no reservations in believing that packs of dogs are dangerous and should be "disassembled" if it means a trip to the pound and a fee from the owner to reclaim Rover!

--Strength In Unity--

ARGUMENTS against the Democratic Party to the extent that it is the man and not the Party who makes the decisions and the policy are unfounded arguments because the theory that you can vote "Independent' and still do any good is false.

Our system of government requires that an organization is necessary for the proper functioning of all the various offices and branches. Independents are, by their name, not organized. The strength of America lies within the strength of her people and their intelligent choice of leaders. It is an important task.

Voting the Democratic Ticket in November assures the people of the nation an ample supply of good leaders and not a dictatorship. The Democratic Party now has in its ranks some of the most intelligent men of our time and unity prevails.

The beginning of any progress for our people must obviously come from a unity within. We will not regain our lost prestige and influence in Africa or the Middle East or even in Cuba until we show the entire world that Americans are for Americans first and standing together, are for the rest of the world and progressive peace.

The incidents of the past several months frighten us indeed and makes us wonder if the Congo is so much different from ourselves! Our leaders are not leading and the people are becoming more and more restless.

It seems to us that there is something at stake here which is more important than the argument over Civil Rights; that is more important than how much money we get on this or that subsidy and yes, more important than any of our petty differences, which we so strongly prize and cherish. The togetherness, the unity, the collective love of God by our nation is at stake. We are bickering and accusing one another when we should unite all the more strongly against the agressors of Communism, starvation and misunderstanding. Our Country is a noble one. But not because you and I belong here. It took diligence, planning and above all honesty and integrity to bring into being 'America'. Will you --as a blessed receiver of this gift-- let your Country and fellowman down because you believe that you disagree with him? Does America mean so little to Americans that in our haste and zeal to prove we are right, we trample our own Flag into the dirt of mediocrity and selfish name-calling which can only mean our undoing.

Yes, America's strength as a nation has always been in the unity of her people. History shows us that when unity failed us—or rather we failed to unify ourselves—war and desolation was upon u

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

OUT of the hundreds who possibly disagreed with us last week on our opinion of the effect "unionism" is having on the ideals of the individual American, the first one to arch his back was one of the "exceptions" rather than the rule. If anyone does a full days work and earns his pay it's George Houston Fulmer (who climbs poles for a living) and we are more than willing to agree that he is always, or nearly always, up a pole! There are other exceptions to the rule, however, we were speaking in terms of values, or the lack of them.

The only way to teach most folks the value of what they have, materially speaking, is to put them throuh a few days of hard work to see what earning it is like. We have no doubts that Mr. Fulmer learned to appreciate things in just such a manner. What of the new generation coming on, who, after serving a so-called 'apprenticeship' can join a union and call themselves skilled and draw top wages. Some, through some flaw in the system, don't even serve an apprenticeship and are drawing what we consider to be substantial salaries for doing a job which, in reality, they do not know the least bit about. The result is more men required for a job and those who ARE skilled carry the mainload of work while the others draw the same paycheck. There's no question about the unfairness of such a situation. No it isn't true of all unions, bht it is a growing stigma on the face of Amerca and the next generation will be floundering indeed if they do not even know how to appreciate their own labors and know their true value! 'The increasing number of 'pushover' jobs is no better than a 'crip' course in college and serves no purpose either. It is making it more and more difficult to train a man for a task, the right way, when he's ihamping at the bit to get after one of those high paying 'positions'. Ability is not necessary anymore. Qualifications are primarily who recommended you and love of a skill is fading and love of leisure and money is pushing everything else aside.

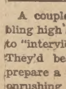
As we said before, unionism was founded on an extremely healthy principal, but it is high past time that members and leaders took a healthy look at the economy and at their own 'taking ways' and set about to rertify a situation that is, to say the least, not good for us!

ACCORDING to Mrs. Gordon Robertson, drivers shouldn't try to pass her on the overhead bridge. Especially at quarter to seven a.m.

MORRIS Moatts conveys the happy news that the newspaper coverage of Jaycee activities last year (by the Chilton County News) was extremely instrumental in their winning of four first place awards in the recent State Contest of Jaycee activities. Understand that a scrapbook of the clippings was made and presented and it won. . . four times. We might add that Mr. Moatts influence and tenacity had something to do with the Jaycees success in Clanton last year! More power to such organizations in our community.

YOU know, that's not the first time the News has enjoyed a part in a community success. We do stand behind our communities and their endeavors and the way for you to stand behind your community is to support "Your Community Newspaper". It's a fact, and you can't deny it. . . that's is the only way your newspaper exists; is thru your active support — plainly subscribe!!

WE didn't hear many outstanding speakers at the Democratic National Convention, but then there weren't many outstanding speakers present. The picture of unity at the end of the Convention with John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Adlai Stevenson, Stuart Symington, Hubert Humphrey and old-timer Sam Rayburn apparently in complete harmony is a very good sign for the Democratic Party in the South and everywhere. These good men along with work horses like Harry S. Truman should pave the way for a Democratic victory in November. There is of course much speculation by the daily press, but unity is a valuable asset in any undertaking. It seems to us that before we have unity out in the 'grassroots' we must first have the helmsmen unified! This we have!



FROM MY FRONT PORCH

by CARL HELM

A couple of bright and bubbling high school freshmen came to "interview" me the other day. They'd been class-assigned to prepare a "career book" for the onrushing future, and asking questions of their supposedly wise elders was part of it.

The young lady, a pert miss with stars in her eyes and the stage in her heart, thought she wanted to become a drama critic. I was one, for a newspaper, in my checkered past and thus well-heeled, in her opinion, to give with the answers.

"What are the necessary qualifications to be a drama critic?" (Well, there are many, or few — it all depends on how lucky you are, and how forbearing your publisher!) "Does being a drama critic lead up to a higher position?" (There isn't any 'higher position' than that, my dear!)

"Do you have to pay for your tickets to shows?" (Heavens no! You are implored to accept, for free, the best seats in the house for all the opening nights!) "Is it a rewarding career?" (Sure is, if you like Broadway glamour, cocktail parties, actors, bright lights, and being a 'celebrity' yourself.)

"What are your office hours?" (You don't have any; your time is your own.) "What is the pay?" It's comparatively good — but I was a bit surprised that she should ask, as if it were very important. But then came the real shocker: "Do you get sick benefits, and a pension?" . . .

What's with this terrible preoccupation our kids seem to have these days with sick benefits, pensions, "fringe benefits"? I'm somewhat puzzled, and I'm alarmed.

TO THE VOTING CITIZENS OF CLANTON

Dear Citizens of Clanton:

1960 is an election year in our City. Qualifying deadline date is August 20, 1960. The election will be held on September 19th from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at Clanton's City Hall.

The elected Mayor and five (5) Councilmen will take office on October 3, 1960. The elected officials will serve a term of four (4) years.

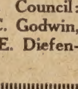
Before August 20th a list of qualified voters as best as can be determined, will be published in one of the local papers. If you have lived in Clanton's City limits since June 19th and are a qualified voter your name should be on this list. If not please call 51 or 511 and ask that your name be added. A correct list is hard to make up since so many people are registered by full names, duplicate names or similar names. You can readily understand why your name may accidentally be omitted.

As of to date the candidates qualifying are: Mayor: J. Hollis Jackson. Council: S. A. Jones, A. L. Kemp, M. C. Godwin, R. W. (Bob) Powers and L. E. Diefenderfer.

MAYBE a little belated, but congratulations to the Methodist Braves of the Little League Organization for 'winning the pennant'. They came out tops in Little League competition for the 1960 season. You'll find a picture of them elsewhere in this issue.

Out of 51 million homes serviced with electricly, 98 percent have refrigerators, 91 percent have electric washing machines, 89 percent have television sets, 89 percent have standard electric irons, 80 percent have toasters, 71 percent have vacuum cleaners and 50 percent have mixers.

ABUNDANT LIFE



by ORAL ROBERTS

EVERY WHIT WHOLE

A man stood silently on one of the hills of Judea. Standing below and gathered around him was a large group of people. They had come from all walks of life—the rich, the desperately poor, the elite and the lowest dregs of human society. This strange assortment of humanity was drawn together by a common bond, a terrible and desperate need.

The man stood quietly, tall and straight, clean and strong, towering above the throng that jostled about him. As he looked about, his gentle eyes took in the panorama below.

A child, weak, wasted, emaciated, was held by its father while its tearful mother stood close by. An, old, crippled, white-haired man muttered meaninglessly to himself while his grandson tried uneasily to quiet him. Some of the people had been in deep sin; some were criminals. Young wives were there whose husbands had become wild and wicked in their ways.

All kinds of people were gathered around the man. Some were cynical and hard; some were proud and doubting; some believed and respected him—but all were desperate in their misery.

The man said to himself as he looked, "These people don't have what I have; they are sick, filled with mental stress, frustration and fear; they are burdened down with sin; they need a touch from God." And the Bible says that as Christ saw the multitude's need, he was moved with compassion and he healed them.

I can see him as, suddenly, he strides purposely down the mountain to the child and says, "The Lord doth make thee whole."

Then he turns to the old man, who is still muttering to himself as he waits for the touch of the Master's hand. "Sir, thy faith hath made thee whole."

Soon the entire multitude is rejoicing as the old man throws away his crutches and begins hopping and leaping away. Mothers and fathers clasp each other in their arms and give glory to God. Christ has made them "every whit whole."

Jesus Christ is standing today over the battlements of heaven looking down into this narrow valley of the earth and sees you and me. He sees through us and sees the need for strength, health and spiritual life in us.

Standing there he says, "They don't have what I have." And he is moved with compassion. He strides among us today reaching out his hand to heal, to give health, speaking with a triumphant voice of abundant life and eternal life saying, "Be in health; be made every whit whole."

YOUR HEALTH

ALCOHOLIC PATIENT

The alcoholic patient is now being treated in general hospitals just like any other sick person. Contrary to belief that alcoholics are a management problem in a general hospital without segregation, it has been found that as a group they are easier to handle than many other groups. The objective of the short-term hospitalization of alcoholic patients is not expectation of cure but treatment of the acute stage of alcoholism and attempt to interrupt the drinking cycle.

The alcoholic patient in the general hospital can be sedated and watched carefully and his depleted physical resources built up. Hospitalization of alcoholic patients is proving a significant factor in long range rehabilitation. The patient often benefits from soc

THE NAVY'S WAVES 'COME OF AGE'

CHARLESTON, S.C.—The Navy Waves will celebrate their 18th anniversary with a "Coming-of-age" reunion to be held July 28, 29 and 30, in Dallas, Texas.

Just as a young lady is recognized as being "of age" upon her eighteenth birthday, the Waves will be celebrating 18 years of naval service which started shortly after the outbreak of World War II.

Rear Admiral K. M. McManes, USN, Commandant of the Sixth Naval District says: "During the 18 years since Congress authorized the appointment of women officers and enlistment of women in the Navy you have come far, and are an Integral part of the Naval service - which the Navy would be hard pressed to do without."

Lemon Torte—Refreshing Dessert

The tangy lemon and the crunchy graham cracker were meant for each other. And a delicate cake, which includes graham crackers and nuts in the batter and is frosted with a new fluffy lemon frosting, is simple to make on a summer day.

A frosting mix quickly whips into a delicate, airy, pale yellow fluff which spreads easily for a professional decorating look. Your torte is lovely to look at and delightful to eat.

Lemon Graham Torte

3 eggs, separated
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
¾ cup sifted enriched flour
3 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
2 cups finely crushed graham crackers (about 24)
1 cup milk
⅓ cup butter
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup finely chopped nuts
1 pkg. Lemon Fluff Frosting Mix

Heat oven to 350° (mod.). Grease and flour two 8 or 9" round layer pans. Beat egg whites in small mixer bowl until frothy. Gradually beat in half of the brown sugar and continue beating until very firm. Set aside. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together into large mixer bowl. Stir graham cracker crumbs and remaining brown sugar into flour mixture. Add half of milk, butter and vanilla. Blend ingredients well. Beat 1 min., med. speed on mixer or 150 strokes by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl constantly. Batter will be very thick. Add rest of milk and egg yolks. Blend well and beat 1 min. more, scraping sides of bowl often. Fold in nuts and meringue. Pour into prepared pans. Bake 30 to 40 min., until toothpick stuck into center of cake comes out clean and cake begins to leave sides of pans. Cool 10 min. before removing from pan. Handle cake gently as it is delicate and tender.

When completely cool, split each layer in half. Prepare frosting mix as directed on pkg. Spread between layers and on top of cake. Sprinkle top and sides of cake with graham cracker crumbs. The cracker crumbs will stick to frosting and make an attractive garnish.

Cool Tea Party Suits Teen Agers For Warm Weather Entertaining

Summer calls for a cool tea party for the teen-age crowd—and to teen-agers "cool" has a special meaning. It is a word that suggests the highest praise, describing something that has really made it.

Obviously, a cool tea party calls for a cooling drink. There is nothing cooler, in either the conventional or the teen-age sense of the word, than a tall glass of iced tea. When you make it with Nestea, the 100% pure instant tea, it's even cooler—still in both senses of the word.

In terms of temperature, this tea is the coolest of all possible teas because it dissolves instantly in cold tap water. You can make instant iced tea anywhere there's a water supply in just 15 seconds—on the porch or at the picnic grounds—without ever going near a stove. And you can regulate its strength exactly to your taste: a rounded teaspoon to a glass of water makes average strength instant tea, but just add a little more or a little less if you like your tea some other way.

In terms of teen-agers, Nestea is cool because it's an easy, do-it-yourself drink that pleases the whole gang and fits in with a cooperative party. Somebody brings the rolls, somebody else brings the hamburger meat, somebody brings the cake, and so on—and the hostess provides a big pitcher of tea. That lets the hostess off with an easy assignment, because she can make a pitcher of instant tea in seconds.

Besides the refreshments, what else does it take to make a cool tea party? Records, of course. And, like the refreshments, the records should be provided cooperatively. Let every guest bring a few favorites. That way, each member of the party will get a chance to hear what he likes best. If the group feels like dancing, so much the better. As a teen-ager might put it, the joint will be jumping.

Clanton Bursting at Seams; C of C Urges Your Assistance

THE Chilton County Chamber of Commerce is making a concerted effort to find suitable rooms for 50 employees of the Latex Construction Company. This Company is moving into Chilton County to lay a pipeline for Pantation Pipeline Company from Montgomery to Helena and will have Thorsby as its base of operations for the next three months.

All local facilities are full and there are few if any vacancies.

This is mainly due to the fact that many of the people employed on the new highway are still with us and there are many transient turists this time of year.

The local housing situation is expected to worsen as more new people arrive in Chilton County to work on the new courthouse, housing development, and the new E-Z Pak pasteboard box plant at Maplesville.

Mayor Jackson has graciously offered the facilities of Clanton City Hall as a "clearing house" to help bring landlords and room seekers together.

Persons who have rooms for single men, apartments for married couples, or vacant houses to rent, are urged to contact the clerk at City Hall, phone 51.

People in the Thorsby-Jemison Area can call Mr. DeWitt Lamboid who is office manager for Latex Constructin Company at NI 6-3380.

The Chamber of Commerce, in helping to place these people in Chilton County is not only proving a good community spirit, but is also substantially encouraging local retail trade.

Chairman Raymond Hamilton, in commenting, stated that "this will be the largest sale of light bulbs yet undertaken by the local Lions".

The enire City of Clanton has been divided into areas and teams of Lions who will call house to house.

The purpose of the project, of course, is to raise money to purchase glasses and furnish eye care to the indigent children of Chilton County.

Instead of asking for donations, the Lions will sell light bulbs—all profits to go for sight care!

You can help! Leave your porch light on as a signal that you wish to join this charitable effort.

For your convenience, Chairman Hamilton has a display at Campbell Auto Parts, 315 North 6th St. You may, if you wish, pick up your supply of bulbs before the sale.

Many school children may be able to see better this fall because of your efforts, and the Lions. . . Well, they're "roarin' " to go!

Rural CD Active 'In the Field'

Residents of rural America's ,000,000 farms are being urged y civil defense officials to plan ow for their safety from nuclear ttack as they consider ordinary azards during Farm Safety Veek, July 24-30.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of the ffice of Civil and Defense Mobil-zation, points out that "the safe-y of the nation depends upon our armers being prepared not only o reduce their human and prop-rty losses through accidents. hey also should take the neces-ary steps to insure that if an enemy ever attacks us with nuclear, biological, or chemical weapons, our farmers would know how to survive, recover, and produce the food and other products upon which victory would depend."

A broad rural public information program is now underway in 3,000 counties. It stresses the relatively simple methods by which people can develop their own self-protection against the fallout hazard of a nuclear attack—the principal threat to people who live in rural areas.

Family fallout shelters are urged as the least expensive and most effective means of saving the greatest number of people from a nuclear attack. Shelters would be highly effective to protect families against tornadoes. All shelters should be equipped with a two-week supply of food and water, a battery radio, first aid kit, flashlights, bedding and other survival items, according to OCDM.

Family fallout shelters cost as little as $150.00 when constructed on a do-it-yourself basis. When built by contractors, the cost ranges from $500.00 upwards.

Precautionary reinforcement of barns and outbuildings can lessen the hazards of fallout on livestock. The more massive the materials between livestock and fallout, the less radiation will come through to injure or kill the animals. Steel and concrete are good shielding materials from fallout. Earth costs nothing and also is effective for shielding. Even bales of straw or wood, if thick enough, can keep out most radiation.

Detailed information on shelters, treatment of fallout-contaminated soils, what fallout-contaminated foods could be eaten and how they should be prepared, and other survival information is now available to rural Americans through public meetings sponsored by county civil defense directors. Printed material also is available from county directors or by writing to the OCDM Rural Activities Office, Battle Creek, Mich.

Shelter for livestock for protection against fallout was improvised in this barn by using bales of straw as a shield against potentially deadly "post-attack" radiation. Heavy concrete walls, with straw shielding windows, would protect livestock in pens on the barn's lower floor. Barn's upper floor (right) would be covered four bales deep directly above the pens. A shielded room for caretakers, and tractor-powered feed grinder and automatic feeder complete the shelter. (OCDM Photo)

LOCAL MERCHANTS ARE WELL REPRESENTED IN CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

Rally Round The Relish Tray!

WHAT a quick and good supper you have when you serve individual frozen meat pies with appetizing relishes. From those "keepers on the shelf" . . . canned corn and pimiento . . . to the packages of frozen vegetables in the freezer, you can make a variety of spicy accompaniments.

No doubt you've served 8-ounce flaky-crusted pies . . . beef, chicken and turkey . . . many times, so you know they need only 40 minutes in the oven. Serve them piping hot with one or with all three of these chilled, crisp vegetable relishes:

Artichoke Hearts Vinaigrette

Cool 1 package (10 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts according to label directions. Drain; cool; place in shallow dish. Combine ⅓ cup bottled thin French dressing with 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper; pour over artichokes and chill several hours. Makes 3 or 4 servings.

Quick-Corn Relish

1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons diced green pepper
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
1 tablespoon bottled thin French dressing
½ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in medium-size bowl; cover. Chill several hours to blend flavors. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Bean and Onion Relish

1 package (1 ounces) frozen French-style green beans
3 small white onions, sliced and separated into rings
⅓ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon mustard seed
⅛ teaspoon black pepper

Cook beans according to label directions until just tender. Drain; cool. Add onion rings. Combine all other ingredients; stir. Pour enough over beans to coat. Chill several hours. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Make Your Chicken Chicken-y

Nothing quite expresses our national character . . . in food . . . as a well prepared chicken dish. To make it extra chicken-y, try baking it in cream of chicken soup like this: Thaw 1 package (1 pound) frozen chicken breasts as directed on package; arrange pieces in a shallow baking pan. Pour 1 can (10½-ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup over chicken. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 1 hour or until tender. Sprinkle ½ cup shredded process cheese over chicken during last 10 minutes of baking. Makes 3 or 4 servings.

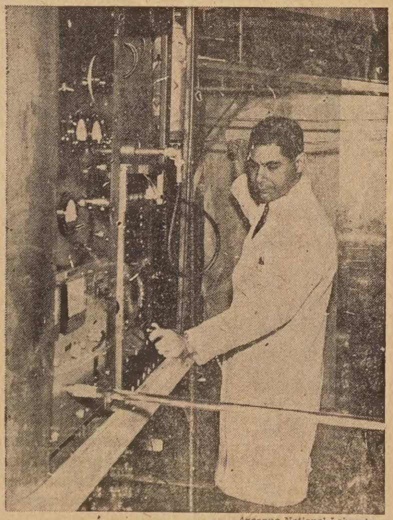
Arab Nuclear Engineer Advances Atomic Research



Argonne National Laboratory

Man's search for knowledge about the atom was advanced another step recently when an Egyptian scientist working at the Argonne National Laboratories in Lamont, Illinois, developed a revolutionary new device to speed up the flow of protons into atom smashers.

Intended primarily to improve methods of classifying unidentified atomic particles, the new device, designed by Dr. Mohammed Izzat Abdel-Aziz, a 30-year-old professor of engineering on leave from Heliopolis University in Cairo, is an injector for a synchrotron—an apparatus which combines high speed protons and other charged electric particles with electrical fields to split atoms.

The Arab engineer, who started his one-man project at Argonne last October when he was granted a fellowship by the International Agency for Atomic Energy, is conducting the research in cooperation with the laboratory's Linear Accelerator group. The new injector, which promises to be much more effective than previous types, now makes it possible for a beam of 50 million electron volts to be forced into the synchrotron.

Speaking of the project, Dr. Aziz, who studied electrical sciences at Durham University in England, will only admit modestly that he has enjoyed "some success" in his work.

Refresh With Iced Instant Coffee

In warm weather enjoy the refreshment of iced instant coffee. No need to put the kettle on; just dissolve instant coffee in tap water, and add ice. Enjoy it between meals and with a summer favorite, such as cantaloupe a la mode served with delicious cookies, easily made from a cake mix.

To make iced coffee just measure the instant coffee into glasses or a pitcher allowing about one heaping teaspoon of coffee and about ¾ cup of tap water for each serving. Add a little of the water, stirring to dissolve, then add remaining water gradually. Add ice cubes or pour the coffee over ice cubes or cracked ice. To make the cookies just follow these simple directions.

Sugar Maple Refrigerator Cookies

1 package sugar maple cake mix
2 tablespoons finely chopped candied ginger or
2 tablespoons finely chopped nuts
1 egg
½ cup butter (at room temperature)

Empty half of cake mix into a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients and blend well. Then add rest of cake mix gradually, blending thoroughly. Form into 2 rolls, 1 inch thick. Chill about an hour. Cut ⅛ inch thick with sharp knife. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 18 to 20 minutes. Makes 8 dozen cookies.

LeCroy-Calfee Pilot Forrest Toured July 27th

Last year the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association in cooperation with the South's paper industry initiated the plan of establishing 92 pilot forests throughout the South to be examples of the income and security possible for the small timberland owner who would raise trees as a crop.

In April of last year the Lecroy-Calfee farm was chosen as the actual example to show interested landowners how to bring their available acreage into peak production. The owners of the farm, E.C. Lecroy and L. S. Calfee, consented to be a part of the plan.

The Lecroy-Calfee farm is located on State Highway 22, six miles from Maplesville and nine miles from Clanton.

To cover dresses in the clothes closet, make a slit in the closed end of an old pillow case and pull it over the garment on the hanger.

Because the fireplace is a major center of interest, choose your accessories for th mantle with special care.

New Polio Vaccine Requires No Needle

A Public Health Nurse of Costa Rica's National Health Service administers oral vaccine against poliomyelitis to a child of one of the houses in her district. These new vaccines are made with attenuated or "tamed" strains of live rather than killed poliovirus and are taken by mouth and not by injection. They are usually given in the form of pills or in fruit-flavored syrups. Costa Rica is only one of several Latin American nations now using oral vaccine in campaigns against polio.

The Pan American Sanitary Bureau, operating arm of the Pan American Health Organization and Regional Office for the Americas of the World Health Organization, assists the countries in combating this crippling disease.

The Community Aided By Soil Conservation

This past week soil and water Conservation farm plans were prevared on the following farms:

Harry U. Purnall, Jemison, Rt. 1; J. T. O'Neill, Jr., Jemison, Rt. 1; and W. H. Chandler, Calera, Rt. 1.

All of the above landowners will sod the entire farm except the rough woodland.

Would you invest approximately $5.00 per acre to increase your annual growth of quality trees 100%?

Everyone in Chilton County owning timberland that has a stand of young pine seedlings that are overtopped with worthless hardwood, can increase the quality of timber if he will remove these hardwoods by poisoning or otherwise. This is good business and good conservation.

A pond was staked out on S. A. Joneses place and when built will be used for livestock water and recreation.

R. E. Waldrop of Macedonia Community, has an approval for clearing 10 acres of swampland to be seeded to fescue. This will be done under the ASC vrogram.

C. R. Childress stated: "For dry weather, you can't beat Bahia grass for grazing."

Conservation farm plans were made on H. N. Parker. His conservation farm plan calls for Bahia grass and clover on the upland, fescue on the bottom land.

Kenneth Cobb of Jemison, has asked the district for help in developing a soil and water conservation plan.

Lamar Collins is spreading lime and fertilizer on 15 acres of swampland, which he has clearde with a dozer. This land will be seeded to fescue in September.

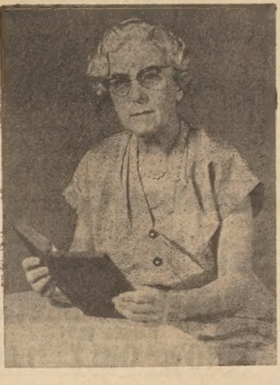
A Great Humanitarian



THE Thorsby Home Demonstration Club sponsored a reception on Monday, July 11, at the home of Thorsby's beloved Miss Helen Charlotte Jenkins. Miss Jenkins was born July 11, 1885 in Connecticutt to the Rev. Dr. Frank E. Jenkins and Mrs. Sarah Stanley Jenkins. She has a long line of educators as her ancestors and her education is extensive.

She received her AB from Mt. Holyoke College in Massachusetts, her Masters from The University of Chicago and studied and became a fluent speaker and splendid teacher of foreign languages and specialized in Latin which she taught for many years.

She came to Thorsby in 1907 and taught in the Thorsby Institute, a school of high standards of scholarship and ideals. Only cultured, Christian teachers, who were actipe as church members were accepted.

TI, as it was commonly referred to, was old fashioned enough to have Chapel every morning of each school day. Every pupil was required to take at least one semester of Bible.

Until it closed its doors as a private school and the State and County took over the school which was deeded to the State to be used as a Senior High School in 1957, it was on the accredited list of Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

One of Miss Jenkins' graduates, Mr. H. R. Maddox, who also holds a Masters degreee, is now principal of Thorsby High School. Miss Jenkins still lives in the cottage on the school property which she has occupied for many years.

The Home Demonstration Club of Thorsby in a very impressive ceremony placed a hand-painted portrait of Miss Jenkins in Helen Jenkins Hall of Thorsby High.

Mr. Maddox hung the picture to live for all time in recognition of the outstanding achievement of Miss Jenkins and her complete devotion to duty.

Bookmobile In Chilton To Show Usefulness

Chilton County is the first county in the State of Alabama to take advantage of a new exhibition program which was offered to the Clanton Junior Chamber of Commerce by the Alabama Public Library Service Division.

This program was made possible by the State so that the people might see just what a bookmobile would look like and get a better understanding of how it operates.

Local Library Chairman, Jon Will Pitts is very enthusiastic about the proposed establishment of a Regional Library which would join with Shelby and St. Clair counties.

Morris Moatts, Jaycee Past President and State Jaycee Chairman of "Operation Library" will be showing this exhibit to clubs and organizations which meet during the next three weeks. Anyone desirous of having the Bookmobile meet with them should contact Jon Will Pitts at phone 20 or Morris Moatts at phone 461-W3. It is available to all communities in the County.

The Bookmobile has been in Clanton the past Saturday and will be on display in Thorsby this Saturday, July 30th.

"Your Community Newspaper" is at work seven days a week in the interests of Chilton Countians.

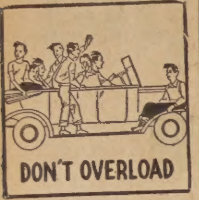
FARM SAFETY WEEK—

ENJOY FARM LIFE· PRACTICE SAFETY DAILY

Safety, like liberty, requires constant watchfulness.

If you feel drowsy while driving pull off the road and rest or let someone else take the wheel.



About three out of four farm families in the U. S. enjoy an accident-free year. But that one family in four suffers deaths and serious injuries from farm, home and highway accidents.

In 1958, there were 2700 people killed and 400,000 injured in accidents occurring in farm homes. In a recent survey made by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, it was found that in the southeastern states, machinery, drownings, and firearms take a greater toll of lives. And in Alabama, firearms, blows, burns, and lightning cause more deaths and accidents.

However, the USDA reports that during the last decade farm families have reduced their accidental death rate from 63.3 deaths per 100,000 farm residents in 1950 to 54.3 in 1958.

This week is Farm Safety Week throughout the nation. And following the advice of the theme "Enjoy Farm Life—Practice Safety" can bring its erwards for thousands of farm families.

Pardon Me Lady, But...

ALMOST PINCHED—a Chrysler rolled into Detroit from Chicago on three wheels and almost earned a ticket from Patrolman Raymond Brewington. But the lady pointed out that it was only an engineering test to prove that unibody construction makes cars so strong that they don't sag even when you take off a front wheel for 300 miles. Note to motorists—don't try this unless you have a ton of weight in the trunk as this engineering test car does.

Public Bible Talk, Kingdom

"What does it mean to be a Christian?" is the subject of the public Bible talk to be given at the Kingdom Hall, Highway 31, Lomax, Sunday, July 31 at 3:00 p.m. by Frank W. Spear, circuit supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, who is spending this week with Clanton Witnesses.

He told the group that "only those who closely follow Jesus' footsteps as Christians will gain everlasting life in this time of Armageddon-climax to the old world."

He said that all meetings are free and are open to the public.

A native of Ohio, Mr. Spear has done missionary work for the past 20 years. He has served congregations in Florida and Alabama since 1956 and received his present assignment as circuit minister of east central Alabama in 1959.

PEACH PPRECIATION WEEK

TO THOSE WHO ASSOCIATE WITH PEACHES:

And we mean the kind that grow on trees! We here at BIG FOUR thoroughly appreciate the business we have done with you during the past year. It has been our privilege to deal with most of you Peach Men and we have tried to serve your needs efficiently.

As it stands today, the farmers connected with Chilton's Peach Crop are a strong economic force in ur community. That is why we feel it doubly important that this economy be channeled into the community and its needs by keeping trade at home.

If there is anyone in the Community who believes in Trading at Home, it is the peach farmers, because that is where they receive a royal welcome & service with a smile.

Yessir; we here in Chilton County, where "Peaches Are Tops", know the value of the crop we raise and we know that we need each other to raise it -- the Merchant must have the farmer and the farmer depends on his local merchant. It's a very fair exchange.

We, as Merchants of this Community take pride in saluting the Peach Farmer and Industry of Chilton County and we sincerely hope to serve these fine folks again in the coming year.

Whats New In Chilton County Chamber Of Commerce

NEW PLANT AT MAPLESVILLE; JOBS OPEN

The E-Z Pak Corporation, a subsidiary of Gulf States Paper Corp. will soon open its new plant at Maplesville, having recently acquired part of the old Stremming property east of the railroad.

Mr. Charles Everett, operatons manager at Maplesville, is now commuting several times per week from Tuscaloosa. Pilot operation will begin about November 1st of this year, Mr. Everett reports. The new plant is presently being renovated and machinery is being installed to manufacture and process the cardboard boxes and paper containers the plant will produce.

About 40 men with their families will move to Chilton County from the Tuscaloosa area to fill the key jobs requiring great skill and experience. The balance of the 150-175 employees will be recruited locally.

Applications for jobs may be obtained at the Maplesville plant after August 15, reports Mr. Everett. Persons interested are urged not to apply before that date as application forms are not yet available.

The company will invest $750,000.00 in its new Maplesville plant and hopes to be in full production before June, 1961.

COMMITTEE ON COOSA RIVER DEVELOPMENT

Our Chamber recognizes that our lakes and rivers are, even in their present state of development, one of our most valuable natural resources.

Recently letters were sent out to all the local operators and owners of public fishing camps on the river, and other persons connected with and interested in the development of that area. They were asked to become members of the Chamber's Coosa River Development Committee. The response has been most favorable so far. Minnows, boats, cabins and fishing tackle are now big business in Chilton County in total volume of dollars spent. Most of this money is new money, which has never before seen Chilton County.

Hundreds of Birmingham, Selma and Montgomery people come, often with their families, for all-day outings or week-ends. All businesses in the County profit by this trade. Food stores, drug stores, gas stations, etc. In fact, so many different kinds of business profit by these sportsmen, it is almost impossible to realize the full value, dollar-wise, that this attraction means to us.

When the committee is fully organized, the Chamber will co-operate with it in making our River a better-known resort and water sports area.

H. Gaines Burnett, Houston C. Leigh and Millard A. Inman are actively participating in the project and have joined the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Burnett is contacting other businessmen on the river and soliciting their support.

NEWS BRIEFS

At the regular monthly Board meeting, the Chamber recommended to the City of Clanton that some action be taken to alleviate the hazards and congestion at the intersections of 6th and 7th Streets with Second Avenue on Saturdays. It was recommended that the Council consider either making these intersections "No Turn" or otherwise post a traffic officer in the intersection.

VALUABLE MINERAL RESOURCES

The Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, reports in its July Bulletin that a new industry is under construction in Autauga County. It Presently, the Chilton County Chamber is trying to interest the president of the Corporation, Mr. August E. B. Brooks in the possibilities of obtaining his marble from Chilton County. Chilton County has several fine deposits of black, green and pink marble which would be very desirable for this type tile. In the past these marble beds have not been developed because of the great expense of quarrying the materials in blocks, and getting them to the rail heads. If the material is used in terrazzo, all that will have to be done is to blast out boulders, carry them to the aggrigate plant at Pelhem or Calera and have the boulders reduced to chips.

READ IT IN THE 'NEWS' WEEKLY

DURING the next few weeks, there will appear in "Your Community Newspaper" a series of articles concerning the work that has been done in the immediate future in the schools of Chilton County. In order to explain in more detail the work that will be carried on in the schools of the County, there will be an article on one or two schools each week. It is hoped that the patrons and interested citizens will read the forthcoming articles and that they will offer any suggestions and any ideas they wish to for improving the schools.

As work has been done to improve the physical facilities, there has also been work done to improve many other phases of the school program.

The Chilton County Board of Education and the Superintendent of Education appreciate the fine cooperation which has made it possible for the improvements to be made for the boys and girls of the County.

At all times it must be remembered that the schools belong to the people and now that the improvements are being made, reports will be made from time to time of the progress.

And, you can count on Chilton County News, "Your Community Newspaper" to bring you a full account of what's taking place with regards to public education in Chilton County.

RESOURCE CONFERENCE

Explore Resources And Opportunities

State Delegates Attend Fontana Event

ALABAMA delegates to the recent 4-H Regional Resource Development Conference at Fontana Village, North Carolina, came home with a better understanding and appreciation of the natural and human resources of the Tennessee Valley area.

There were 48 in the Alabama group (46 of them shown above) among the 300 4-H'ers who represented seven states. This number included adult volunteer leaders, Extension workers, and TVA personnel.

The theme of the conference during the four-day event was "Exploring Our Resources and Opportunities." The program was designed to supplement the work of the various states in the development of leadership and to help young people recognize and understand the physical and human resources and the opportunities for their development.

In addition to the 48-member Alabama delegation, 4-H'ers from Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia were in attendance.

The heart of the conference program was in resource study groups, which included the study of atmosphere, soils, minerals, wildlife, forestry, water, and human resources. Each state was in charge of one of these study groups, but delegates from all the states participated in all groups. Club member representatives of the seven groups reported their findings at a general session panel moderated by Alabama Assistant Director of Extension, Dr. Fred Robertson.

A trip to the huge Fontana Dam and powerhouse aroused keen interest among the group. Other recreational activities enjoyed by the boys and girls included square dancing, hikes, swimming, horseback riding, games, and miniature golf.

One feature of the program was that the general sessions were handled by the 4-H'ers themselves. And several of the main addresses were by 4-H delegates. One of Alabama's group, Susan Berry of Troy, gave an address entitled "You are your own limit."

Know The Difference

ONE of the differences between bullheads and channel and blue catfish is the shape of the end of the tail fin. The edge of the tail fin of bullheads is almost straight while that of the channel and the blue is well notched or forked. So what, you say? To my palate, the channel and the blue are tastier than the bullheads. Whenever I go to a cafe that specializes in catfish plates and the waitress doesn't know the "kind" of catfish offered, I asked to see a dressed fish. If it has a forked tail, I eat catfish. If not—well, there's always chicken!

For Best Summer Fishing

Fish the pond edges from a boat for the best catches in ponds during the summer. I usually get best results fishing from dawn to 7:00 or 7:30 a. m. and in the afternoon from 3:30 to good darkness. Remind me to tell you about the ten-pounder I tied to and lost several years ago when I couldn't see the fish or the lure!

Don't Get Stung

As a youngster I landed many fine bluegills using wasp grubs for bait when everyone else had no luck with earthworms and crickets. Apparently fish go for the unusual or rare bait! But a word of caution! Many persons are allergic to insect stings, and reportedly 50 to 60 persons die annually in the U. S. as the result of stings by wasps, bees, etc. Yet, it's rather unusual I never was stung by a wasp, and I knocked down thousands of nests. I simply eased the tip of a strong canepole against the stem of the paper nest and with one shove dropped the nest. At the same instant I fell flat and didn't move for three or four minutes. Wasps buzzed around the back of my head, but finally I was able to ease over and get the nest and crawl slowly away. Nowadays I bundle up with gloves and a bee veil before I collect my wasp bait.

Check Shotgun Barrel

"Leading" in a shotgun barrel can usually be detected as thin stripes just beyond the chamber. If a bristle brush won't take out the lead, coat the barrel inside with blue ointment for a day or so. You can then usually clean out the material with the bore brush and with tight patches. Always oil and grease the barrel afterwards.

Shotgun Gauges Defined

By the way, do you know the real description of shotgun gauges? In the 12-gauge, a round ball of lead that will fit snugly and roll in the barrel will weigh just one-twelfth of a pound. A ball weighing one-twentieth of a pound will fit the 20-gauge barrel, and so on. The big difference is the .410, which means that the inside diameter is .410 inch. Incidentally, in Europe I saw 14 and 24-gauge shotguns!

More Uses For Road Maps

There is one piece of paper that could prove valuable for hunting and fishing trips. No—I'm talking about the county map that has all the pig trails, roads, churches, creeks, etc., accurately defined. With my own home county map I've been able to find excellent shortcuts to good fishing holes. General highway maps are available from the Planning Survey, State Highway Department, Montgomery, Ala. The one-inch scale maps are 60 cents per county map; one-half inch scale (equals one mile on the ground) are 18 cents each.

IT'S time the hog producer and packer got together.

Why? Because producers are of the opinion that markets prefer slaughter hogs that weigh between 220 and 240 pounds. And the fact that most markets pay top prices for hogs up to 240 pounds greatly contributes to such thinking.

Some people on the market say that 220- to 240-pound slaughter hogs cut out the size pork cuts that consumers want and that it costs no more to handle and slaughter a 240-pound hog than one weighing 180 to 200 pounds. Yet, observations made on many markets clearly point up that a majority of the hogs which classify as lardy and overdone fall in the 220- to 240-pound group.

Besides, few producers realize there are additional costs involved when carrying hogs from 200 to 240 pounds. Not only does the pig require more feed per hundred pounds of gain but the extra fat makes the pork cuts less appealing to consumers.

Effects On Industry

No doubt there are many in the business who realize the ill effects such as production and marketing practices have on the health of the industry. There are no secrets, so let's see what legs these practices have to stand on. Studies show that pork cuts from 180- to 200-pound hogs are readily accepted by consumers. And why not, they're usually leaner and that's what counts. Generally, homemakers prefer to buy the amount of meat the family will consume at one meal. This makes the smaller size roast more attractive.

CAVENDER

Increase in fat is almost twice that of lean during the period of finishing from 200 to 240 pounds. Therefore, the increase in size of the pork cut is due largely to fat which is deposited as interseam fat, outside fat, and marbling. Most everyone, particularly the pork processor, knows that pork fat is a cheap product to handle. And on today's retail markets, over-finished pork cuts have a rough time finding their way into homeward-bound shopping baskets. So why continue to irritate friends of pork with fatty cuts from heavy slaughter hogs?

Research Studies Show

A number of research studies have shown—from the standpoint of production—that hog prices must be high and feed cheap before it's profitable to feed hogs past 200 pounds. The following study should be of interest to both producers and processors.

The United States Department of Agriculture butchered hogs at 175 and 275 pounds and separated the lean and fat. From the 175 pounders they got 51 pounds of lean and 64 pounds of fat. The hogs carried on to 100 pounds more (275 pounds) yielded 86 pounds of lean and 121 pounds of fat. So the last 100 pounds of gain yielded 57 pounds of fat and only 25 pounds of lean meat. Not only was the quality of the product lowered but costs of production increased as a result of carrying them to the heavier weight.

The hogs butchered at 175 pounds produced approximately 15 pounds of lean for each 100 pounds of feed needed to get them to this weight. Those slaughtered at 275 pounds produced only five and one-half pounds of lean for each 100 pounds of feed needed to put on the additional 100 pounds of pork.

Research has also shown that hogs of meat-type breeding will become over-fat if fed to heavy weights. There is some misunderstanding that better quality, well-muscled hogs must be carried to 220 to 240 pounds weight for desirable finish. The truth is that they should be finished and ready for market at 180 to 200 pounds. Watch those that need 240 pounds to be finished. To begin with they are probably the meatless type and if so, that extra 30 or 40 pounds will be fat—not muscle.

Packer's Comment

One packer had this to say about lighter-weight slaughter hogs. "We geared our plant to handle hogs that weigh 170 to 195 pounds. Pork from pigs this size is what the consumer wants today. It's tender, juicy, and just as firm as that from heavier hogs. You hear a lot about meat-type hogs, and I know there is a big difference. I want the big muscled kind, not the fatty kind. But I can tell you this—either of the two is better if slaughtered young.

"It may take more labor to butcher the lighter hogs for each ton of pork produced, but I have a lot less cheap lard to get rid of than if I butchered hogs at 225 or more pounds. Outlets for pork fats are limited, and I am happy to say that as a result of our program of slaughtering hogs at lighter weights, the acceptance of fresh and cured pork from our plant has increased. And we have not had to lower the quality of our sausage products by burdening them with surplus fat."

Marketing hogs at lighter weights is one solution to the fat problem. Consumers get leaner pork and, in general, they don't object to the lighter weight cuts.

Retailers are watching the development of the meat-type hog, too. They can't push pork as hard when the cuts are loaded with too much fat. Fat cuts move very slowly or not at all. A rejected cut must be rewrapped and sold at a reduced price.

A majority of the problems now facing the industry will vanish completely when producers and processors get together and focus their sights on the primary target—John Q. Public.

FLY PROBLEM CAUSED BY LAYERS IN CAGES

WHERE there are chickens, there are usually flies. When layers are in cages, fly control is a big problem. The accumulation of droppings under the cages makes breeding places for the flies. And it may not be practical to clean the cages every day.

However, wise poultrymen are using long-residual phosphate sprays, according to Extension Poultryman J. R. Hubbard, Jr. These are applied with a sprinkling can or sprayer, and special care is taken not to get any spray or mist on the birds.

Adult flies are killed by lightly sprinkling dry bait containing the phosphate material on the walks between cages or on window sills or other flat surfaces.

And Hubbard adds that it is highly important that sprays be used according to all recommendations.

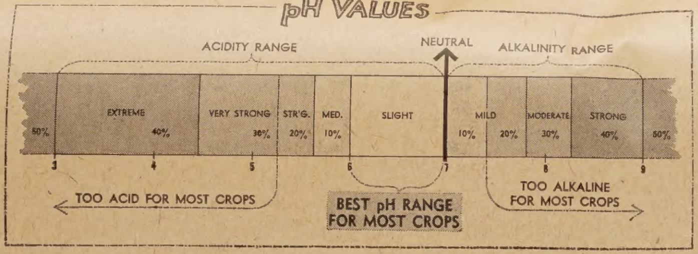
NEXT DECADE WILL BRING MORE MILK THAN BEFORE

PROSPERITY follows the dairy cow.

Enough milk is produced every year in America to fill a river 3,021 miles long, 40 feet wide and three feet deep, according to Extension Dairyman John Parrish. And if all of the milk produced last year had been put in square quart containers side by side, these containers would extend more than 132 times around the earth.

That is a lot of milk, but during the next decade it is predicted that dairy cows will produce even more milk than ever. Dairy farmers should see a 20 billion pound growth in the milk market, says the Auburn specialist. However, the use of this milk does not agree with the production. The per capita consumption for the year 1959 was 689 pounds compared to 692 pounds for the year 1958 and 741 pounds in 1950.

Dr. Walter Sowell
Extension Soil Specialist
Auburn University



THE pH value is the soil scientists's "yardstick" for measuring the degree of acidity (sometimes referred to as sourness) of a soil or its alkalinity (often called sweetness).

On the pH scale the neutral point is 7.0. Soils with a pH reading less than 7.0 are called acid soils, and those with a pH reading greater than 7.0 are known as alkaline soils.

In Alabama we must work toward a soil pH of 6.5—slightly acid. At 6.5 the major crops of our state will produce greater returns per acre than they will on soils of pH levels below or above this level.

A soil with a pH of 5.6 or less is in the critical range for cotton. And unless lime is added to bring the pH level closer to the neutral point, yields will not be increased. In experiments at Brewton, lime applied in proper amounts increased seed cotton yield from 1,431 pounds per acre to 1,754 pounds per acre. And an increase in seed cotton from 1,556 pounds per acre to 1,809 pounds was obtained at Monroeville by applying proper amounts of lime. These yields were reached by applying lime to soils with pH values of 5.8 and 5.6 and represent an average of seven years tests.

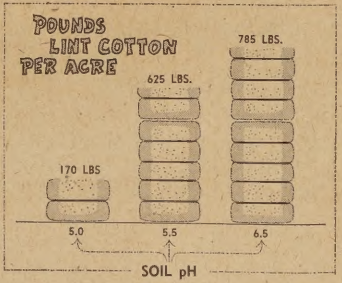
SOWELL

Research work at Auburn showed that a stand of young cotton plants was hard to maintain in an acid soil or low pH. Cotton came up in soils with pH levels of 5.0 and 5.5 just as well as it did in soil with a 6.5. But, growth was slower and a higher percentage of the seedlings died in the lower pH levels. Yield of cotton on the 5.0 pH soil was only 170 pounds of lint; at 5.5, 625 pounds; and at 6.5, 785 pounds per acre.

From the soil test data gathered to date, it is plainly evident that the greatest percentage of our soil is in critical need of lime. Our soils are inherently acid. That is, the parent material is of an origin that produces an acid soil. Too, our row crop system of farming has added to the widespread necessity of soil testing and the proper application of lime.

For an example, many of our fertilizer materials—particularly some of the nitrogen materials—are acid forming when applied to the soil. Also, leaching losses and crop removal of plant nutrients such as calcium and magnesium leave the soil in a more acid condition.

Conservative estimates show that over one million tons of limestone are needed on Alabama soils to compensate for the acidity effect that occurs annually. Unfortunately, only about one quarter of a million tons of lime are applied each year. This means that an excessively acid condition is creeping into our soils like a "thief in the night," robbing the farmer of high yields and, in many cases, profits.



The pH of a soil can be raised to the level best suited for plant growth by applying lime. However, have the soil tested before applying lime as too much of this material can be damaging. And remember, a soil test is the only accurate method available for determining soil pH.

Do you know the pH level of your soils?

Studies Show Farmer's Source of Information

THERE has been much concern about the farmer's attitude toward fertilizer and lime.

What is he thinking? Where does he get his fertilizer and lime information? What influences his decisions? These are just some of the questions in the minds of agriculture workers and business leaders.

And to throw some light on the picture, says Extension Agronomist J. C. Lowery, the National Plant Food Institute directed a study of fertilizer practices and other things that influence farmers in making decisions.

Information Sources

Farmers get their information about fertilizer from numerous sources, he says. According to the survey, farmers receive their information on fertilizer from the following sources: Soil tests rate first; farmer experience and knowledge, second; demonstration plots, third; county agents and other specialists, fourth; other farmers, fifth; and written materials, sixth.

The study also showed that the persons with whom the farmer discusses his fertilizer needs are local dealers, county agents, relatives, soil conservation workers, and neighbors. Fertilizer dealers and county agents were the ones most often consulted. But farmers believe that the most practical, unbiased information is that which they get from their county agents, according to the study. They were asked which of several sources of information they considered to be the most practical and dependable in terms of good fertilizer information. They were, in the order of their relative importance, county agents, agricultural college publications, local dealers, neighbors, local farm magazines, national farm magazines, and manufacturers' salesmen.

Soil Test Study

A study was made by Assistant County Agent M. D. Bond to determine the influence of the soil testing program in Houston County. He compiled the following facts.

Before soil testing 77.5 percent of the cotton group studied used 4-10-7 and 18 percent used 4-12-12. After soil testing was started, 88 percent used 4-12-12 and less than 10 percent used 4-10-7. Over 86 percent said their cotton yields had increased after they adopted the soil test method. About 11 percent reported no change in yield, and only one farmer reported a decrease in cotton yield after adopting the soil test program.

Looking at a corn group study, 84 percent used 4-10-7 before soil tests were used and about 13 percent were using 4-12-12. After soil testing, 80 percent switched to 4-12-12 and nearly 84 percent said corn yields increased.

Of those farmers surveyed, 50 percent said the soil testing service is excellent and 48 percent said it is good.

Other surveys throughout the state have shown similar results. Thus, soil testing ranks first among sources of information relative to accurate fertilizer use. The county agent has supplies for taking soil samples, and in many counties he has placed supplies with other agencies for the convenience of the farmer.

Check your sources of information and follow through with recommendations if you want to pocket more profits.

Food For The Future

Should consumers be concerned about their food supply in the future? Dr. Roy Hansberry of Shell Development asked this question in a Farm-City Week talk.

There are 120 billion acres on the earth's surface and 2.4 billion people on earth. In the gross there are 50 acres per person.

But, 70 percent of the earth's surface is under water which leaves only 15 acres of dry land per person. Of the dry land, 4.5 acres are in forest land, 4.5 in rocky or swampy land, 2.5 in sand and desert with little or no rainfall, and 2 acres are covered by snow and eternal ice.

The final subtraction leaves only 1.5 acres of good cropland per individual. And about one-third of the food grown is stolen by pests, weeds, and insects.

And that is the crux of the world's food problem reduced to its simplest terms.

Agricultural Exports

Farmers individually and through their organizations need to be constantly aware of the size and value of farm exports and to sponsor any action needed to expand markets through increasing exports. Last year the output of 41 million acres—one out of every eight acres of cropland—moved abroad. Foreign customers bought 27 percent of our cotton, 30 percent of our wheat, and 40 percent of our output of tallow and greases, along with a great many other products.

It is important that we educate foreign buyers about our farm products. During and since World War II, we have shipped farm commodities to a large part of the world.

Unfortunately, because we were either dumping surpluses or filling an emergency need, we have not paid enough attention to quality and to foreign buyer needs. As a result, we have not developed as large a farm export demand as we could have.

One of our greatest needs is for study and development of these foreign markets. Also, we should sponsor programs to educate farmers and middlemen at home to produce for the export market. Our quality and methods of handling must be tailored to foreign buyers' needs. Otherwise, they will buy from farmers in other countries who do tailor their products.

$130 Million Cotton Crop

Value of lint and seed from Alabama's 1959 cotton crop was placed at $130 million by the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Lint contributed $119.8 million with cottonseed adding $10.3 million. Sales of lint from last year's production through April 1, 1960, averaged 33.4 cents per pound—down from 35.59 cents a year earlier. Prices received for cottonseed at $35.40 were off $9.40 per ton from a year earlier.

Alabama producers harvested 718,000 bales averaging 500 pounds gross weight from 835,000 acres—less than two-thirds of the 1948-57 acreage. This outturn was up sharply from the abnormally small crop of 439,000 bales produced in 1958 when much acreage was placed in the acreage reserve of the Soil Bank Program. Despite this increase, production was off sharply from the 844,000-bale average for 1948-57. Alabama's record large cotton crops of 1,748,000 bales was harvested in 1914.

Yield per harvested acre of 412 pounds last year has been exceeded only by the record yield of 478 pounds in 1955.

India to Purchase Surplus U. S. Grain

In the largest surplus food deal ever entered into by this country, the U. S. and India signed an agreement under which India will receive 17 million tons of surplus U. S. wheat and rice over the next four years . . . a part of the "Food for Peace" program.

The agreement calls for the U. S. to sell India 587 million bushels of wheat and 22 million bags of rice during the four-year period beginning July 1. Last year's wheat production amounted to 1,128 million bushels, and rice production totaled 53 million bags.

India will pay the U. S. a total of $1,276,000,000 in Indian currency for the grain and some ocean transportation costs. Most of this will be loaned to the Indian Government to finance its economic development program. Some will be used to pay U. S. obligations in that country, and a small percentage will be used for loans to private business concerns for economic development.

The agreement will make it possible for India to accumulate some four million tons of wheat and a million tons of rice by 1964 for emergency use and to stabilize its food marketing and price structure. The shipments demonstrate U. S. willingness to assist India in its program of economic development.

Fewer Farmers, But More Food Processors

With fewer farmers producing more food, more workers are involved in its marketing. In 30 years the number of workers has increased by 50 percent, according to the USDA. Labor costs have shown a jump of more than 10 percent in the last four years.

Restaurants and other eating places have taken the largest increase in food marketing workers during the last 30 years and now account for about 25 percent of the total. Retail stores employ about 35 percent. Food manufacturing plants have about 25 percent on their payrolls, and the remaining 15 percent is divided among local assembly, wholesaling, and transportation.

Several factors contribute to the long-range rise in marketing workers . . . the increased number of processing operations—more grading, refrigeration, packaging, etc.; the shorter work week; and increased advertising and product promotion.

Auburn University Extension Service

WE have been extremely gratified over the response to the theme and objectives of our State Extension Conference held recently in Auburn. Leaders in all phases of agriculture, home economics, and agriculturally related business and industry met with us, endorsed the concept of "Counseling Together—Working Together"—the theme of our conference, and pledged their support to such a cooperative effort.

Need For Close Cooperation

Several program participants emphasized the need for close cooperation in attempting to solve some of agriculture's most pressing problems. Here are portions of a few such statements:

"The farmer looks to a number of agencies for assistance and advice. To avoid confusion it is essential that these agencies pull together and that each supplement the other's program."

"There can be but one right program of agriculture and homemaking. Therefore, all agencies concerned with the leadership in developing such programs should be active and vitally concerned and should participate in the formulation of these programs."

"As I view the agricultural situation in Alabama, there exists an abundance of personnel to carry out any and all programs that might be needed to improve the farmer's position if this personnel has the information and will coordinate its efforts."

Many speakers endorsed the idea of forming a state-wide agri-business council which could provide a meeting place and an opportunity for all concerned with agriculture to work together. This was expressed like this by one participant: "In my opinion the organization of a council composed of representatives from agricultural agencies, organizations, and business related to agriculture would be a worthwhile effort. Such a council could do much toward bringing about a cooperative attitude in dealing with all problems related to agriculture."

Opportunities

Most significantly, many emphasized the opportunities for further growth and development of agriculture and business in the state. Let me again quote from one or two statements:

"Alabama is the land of opporunity. We in industry believe that in the years to come, the people of Alabama can reach a level of prosperity such as we have never before thought possible. Given the many natural advantages which are ours, and with a public aggressively working for industrial and agricultural growth, nothing can stop us."

"By wholehearted cooperation between all groups in the state, we can look forward to the brightest future we have ever known. We have the opportunity through cooperative work to raise our standards of living, wipe out disease, and improve our educational system. A richer, healthier, brighter, and better educated Alabama is ours—if we will work for it."

These statements reflect the general attitudes and sentiments expressed at our conference. The obvious question now is where

Local Scout At Jamboree in Colorado

LOOK MA, NO CAVITIES !

FIRST Class Scout from Clanton, Alec Jones, has been taking an active part in activities during the Scout Jamboree in Colorado Springs, Colo., celebrating the 50th anniversary of Scouting in theUnited States. A complete tented city has sprung up at Colorado Springs, where over 55,000 Boy Scouts and Explorers have gathered from every corner of the U. S. to hold Scouting's 5th National Jamboree.

Here Scouts use all the skills they have learned, camping, cooking, living and working together. Not forgotten either are good grooming habits and Eagle Scout Joe Tate of Camden, Ala. takes a minute to whisk off his whiskers just before participating in one of the gigantic Jamboree pageants. Life Scout Jim Neely, Marion, Ala., combs his hair. Watching the proceedings is Eagle Scout, John Faulkenberry of Selma while First Class Scout Alec Jones brushes his teeth.

Fair Will Be Old-Fashioned Event, Biggest

THE various Committees of the annual Chilton County Fair, which begins the latter part of this month are quite busy making the necessary preparation toward the exciting event.

Plans are in the making for a "Sure 'nuff old-fashioned type County Fair this year with cattle show, display of best corn (ears that is), home-canned products and even a corn shucking contest. These are just a few of the many ideas which are expected to turn to reality during the fair week August 29 through September 3rd.

Named general chairman was Fred Thompson. Vice Chairman was John Sellers, County Agent. Agriculture Exhibits, will be handled by Bobby Futral. Beef cattle will be taken care of by Dan Mims, J. Reed Thompson and other Vo-Ag teachers in the county. The free program of entertainment will be under the direction of George Smith and Morris Moatts. Home Demonstration Exhibits will be headed by Mrs. Johnnie Lane.

The fair give-a-way, Eddie Edward Chairman, announces that a number of merchants have been contacted about participating. These merchants will be announced through means of advertisement in local papers beginning August 11th.

CD Rescue Squad Out Sun, P. M.

Have we forgotten what winter legumes can do for the land, the crop yields, and, finally, the thickness of the pocketbook?

You may ask, "Do I need legumes on my farm?" Certainly—winter legumes have an important place on most all Alabama farms, and here is what they have to offer:

They add nitrogen to the soil.

They slow down or prevent erosion and reduce leaching of plant nutrients.

On the other hand, they do not require cultivation.

They do not interfere with the production of cotton, corn, grain sorghum, or other summer crops—they occupy the land in winter and are turned in the spring when other farm work is slack.

A Green Manure Crop, Land Builder, And Yield Booster

Winter Legumes Are Farmer's Best Friend

J. C. Lowery
Extension Agronomist
Auburn University

A winter legume crop is the "work horse" for the wise farmer.

It builds the land, prevents erosion, increases yields, and yes, even provides grazing for the beef and dairy cattle producer.

Research shows—and this is the farmer's fact finder—that winter legumes serve the farmer well in better crop production, including meat and milk. And to remove doubt, let's look at some research studies.

The "old rotation" at Auburn is one of the best known experiments anywhere. Begun in 1896, it is the oldest cotton rotation in the United States—perhaps in the world.

LOWERY

Crops in the rotation are cotton - vetch - corn - vetch. Four hundred pounds of superphosphate and 100 pounds of muriate of potash per acre are applied each year. In 1958, the 62nd year of the experiment, the "old rotation" yielded 110 bushels of corn per acre and 2.1 bales of cotton per acre, according to Dr. D. G. Sturkie, Experiment Station agronomist.

Impressive as these results are they are not the only example of the value of winter legumes in a cropping system.

In 1958 the "Cullars" rotation, a corn-vetch-cotton cycle, yielded over 100 bushels of corn per acre and two bales of cotton per acre. Another experimental corn-vetch rotation produced 116 bushels of corn per acre. Compare such a yield with the harvest from an adjoining plot which received no vetch and made only 10.4 bushels per acre.

In a three-year rotation at Auburn, consisting of cotton-peanuts-winter legumes-corn, the total yield was a sumptuous 124 bushels of corn, 1.9 bales of cotton, and 2,126 pounds of shelled peanuts per acre. In this rotation no fertilizer was added to the corn.

Following are results from three experiment fields:

Corn after hairy vetch averaged 50.6 bushels at Brewton, 45.4 at Monroeville, and 37.3 at Aliceville—an average of 44.4 for the three fields.

Vetch has a residual effect. That is, you get results from winter legumes up to three years after they are planted. The following experiment shows the residual effect of vetch over a three-year period.

Old Vetch Residue Experiment

Legume and Year Planted	Average Corn Yield Bushels Per Acre
Vetch every year	63
Vetch every second year	51
Vetch every third year	45
No vetch	13

This experiment was begun in 1934. The corn yields are per acre averages over a 12-year period.

In recent years winter legumes have become a very important crop in the winter grazing program. These crops can be grazed until late February or early March, and then they can be allowed to make a top growth in plenty of time to turn as a green manure crop for corn or other crops.

In the grazing program legumes are handled as annuals such as mixtures of crimson clover and rye grass or coastal bermuda and common bermuda.

Be a wise farmer. In addition to modern practices, which are very good, hang onto those old ones that will still make profits. Use legumes as a "work horse" on your farm.

Head County Agents Association

Owen Reeder of Crenshaw County was named president of the Alabama Association of County Agents at the group's annual convention in Montgomery.

C. J. Brockway of Mobile became vice president and C. H. Johns of Jefferson was elected secretary and treasurer.

Special awards were presented at the meeting to outstanding 4-H leaders in each of the state's four districts. Receiving the honor were Everett Chandler of Cullman, Glenn Handley of Crenshaw, Ralph Thompson of Butler, and Allen Mathews of Greene.

County agents from each district also were nominated for the distinguished service award from the National Association of Agricultural Agents. They were D. S. Loyd of Blount, George D. H. McMillan of Houston, Mabry Huggins of Conecuh, and H. L. Eubanks of St. Clair.

Jones Named On National Committee

Sam Jones was recently appointed to the National Dairy Records committee. The announcement came during the annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Association in Logan, Utah.

Jones, who is dairyman with the Auburn University Extension Service, is the second southerner ever to be appointed to this important, nationwide dairy committee. His job, along with other members of the group, is to write the rules and regulations of all dairy production programs.

The committee's next meeting will be in Chicago November 25 and 26.

J. C. Bryant Views Pre-emergence Demonstration

Sumter Farmer Tries Experiment

Broadcast Pre-emergence On Corn

HOW would you like to lay-by your corn at the same time you planted it?

With the shortage of labor these days, most folks would jump at the chance—a chance which would give them more time for other farm chores or fishing.

J. C. Bryant of Sumter County is feeling out the situation this year with a few acres, says Assistant County Agent B. B. Williamson, Jr.

Bryant, a Farm and Home Development demonstrator and a progressive one at that, set up a three-acre demonstration on corn broadcasting pre-emergence chemical to control weeds. Grass and weeds plus short labor got him interested in the trial experiment, points out Williamson.

The farmer of 22 years set aside the three acres of his 128-acre corn crop for the demonstration. A recommended variety of corn was planted in May on a well-prepared piece of land fertilized with 400 pounds of 4-12-12. Immediately following the corn planter, Bryant used a 20-foot broadcast boom and spray rig to apply two pounds of a pre-emergence chemical in 20 gallons of water per acre. "It took just 26 minutes to lay-by this field of corn after it was planted," says Williamson.

Two rows in the middle of the three-acre field were left as check rows.

Bryant applied a side-dressing of nitrate early in June to both the treated area and the check rows. His neighbors kidded him about not plowing the field because they felt that corn had to have soil plowed to it if it was to do well, but Bryant stood pat on his decision not to plow or hoe the demonstration area.

The above picture was taken June 9—35 days after planting. And today the treated area is still as clean as it was when the picture was taken. However, grass and weeds are taking over the check rows, sapping up the water and fertilizer.

Agent Williamson says the corn will be gathered separately on the two check rows and on two treated rows to compare yields at harvest. These comparative yields—from results so far—should be very interesting and revealing, says the agent.

Bryant is telling his neighbors now that he has seen enough results from the demonstration to know that he will never plant another row of corn without the broadcast pre-emergence treatment. Too, he plans to put down enough nitrogen at planting next year to eliminate the need for side-dressing.

Band treatment—that is, a 12-inch band of chemical directly on the row—was used on 40 acres of cotton and the other 125 acres of corn, explains Williamson. And Bryant has had excellent weed and grass control in the band from this method.

According to Agent Williamson, Bryant has gone all the way on chemical farming this year and results are showing the way to many other farmers in the area.

prices for them. Feeders, on the other hand, intend to put on that finish by marketing their grain through these calves. In turn, they market a heavier, finished animal—the kind that moves well at the meat counter. A feeder often has two margins on which to play—one margin on the weight added during the feeding period and an increase in the value of the weight purchased. To capture this feeder market, the keys must be relied upon.

Information from states with production systems similar to ours indicates that a marketing program for feeder calves which places emphasis on the marketing keys pays dividends. Are we using these marketing keys to the best advantage in Alabama? We can make good use of them and still use our present marketing facilities and agencies. In fact, use of the keys will make better use of our markets.

Poultry Scramble

ALABAMA Poultry Industry Association members put the shell on their annual meeting in grand style this year, attracting some 800 poultrymen and other farm and business leaders.

Poultry-minded folks looked forward to the panel discussion on condemnation losses, but little information turned up on why the percentage of birds condemned by the Federal Inspection Service has been running at such a high level in the Southeast during the past several months.

The criteria used by the Inspection Service to determine wholesomeness and the qualifications of the veterinarians and lay inspectors employed by the Inspection Service were questioned by the industry group. The experts conceded that training in poultry work required by veterinary schools was generally inadequate; that the criteria for defining wholesomeness was based on research done only from a poultry health standpoint; and that more research is needed to definitely establish what conditions render a bird unwholesome for human consumption.

BYRD

Dr. S. A. Edgar, Auburn poultry pathologist, said a study, being conducted by his staff, has a three-fold purpose; to determine whether there are variations among inspectors in applying the criteria for wholesomeness; whether some processing plants are more efficient than others; and the causes of condemnations back at the growers and hatcheries.

Among other things, the panel agreed that about half of the condemnations appeared to be due to bad management practices at the grower level.

Cotton Change Expected

Another change in the cotton support-control program beginning in 1961 now seems like a possibility. Unless the law is changed, the current program will revert to the one in effect before last year.

The Choice A and Choice B options now in effect are to be dropped under present law. After that, without a change by Congress, there again will be just a national allotment and one level of price support, ranging between 70 percent and 90 percent of parity.

For Tasty Milk Drink

For refreshing summertime drinks, try double milk drinks—using both dry and fluid milk. The drinks can be flavored to suit the family and topped with ice cream or whipped cream. Either is an instant hit with youngsters and adults alike.

$12 Billion Spent Eating Out

Restaurants account for $12 billion in annual sales with the average family spending $10.97 per week eating out, according to a recent survey reported by the National Restaurant Association.

Only 11 percent of the people eat breakfast away from home, but 61 percent use restaurants at noon and 28 percent in the evening. Sunday meals are least eaten out. Customers spend an average of 78 cents for breakfast, $1.16 for lunch, and $2.19 for dinner. Women pay more for breakfast, less for dinner. Only 28 percent were reported to believe that prices were too high.

FALLOUT SHELTER built by Louis Severance adjacent to his home near Akron, Mich., includes a special ventilation and escape hatch (right), an entrance to his basement, tiny kitchen, running water, sanitary facilities, and a sleeping and living area (inset) for the family of four. The shelter cost about $1,000. It has a 10-inch reinforced concrete ceiling with thick earth cover, and concrete walls. Severance says, "Ever since I was convinced what damage H-bombs can do, I've wanted to build the shelter. Just as with my chicken farm, when there's a need I build it." (OCDM Photo)

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible

They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint.—(Isaiah 40:13)

To wait upon God is to seek, through prayer and righteous living, to be one with Him in all things at all times all our days, in the sure knowledge that without His love within us, we can achieve little that is truly good and lasting.

CHILTON peach farmers have put in six months work in the past six weeks. They deserve a little vacation to catch up on some much needed "snooze"!

DON'T fret when your dreams don't come true—just thank your lucky stars that your nightmares don't.

THE trouble with highway conditions is, there are too many fool drivers in circulation.

IT'S odd — a man is thrown on his own resources when he hasn't any!

DID you notice how college students think being broke is something to write home about?

IN spite of the speed of modern living you need to stop and find enough time to plan your next move.

OPPORTUNITY never knocks on the door of a loafer.

THE modern generation is wrong . . . the only way to get what you want is to work for it!

The 'Turn Left' Blues--

WE believe that the traffic conditions in Clanton are generally good, due to the alertness of our City fathers, but some of our corners—such as the one at 4th Avenue and 7th Street North—need delayed green lights or either the "turn right on red" signs taken down. Something is causing quite a conglommeration!

Carpenters and Blacksmiths--

OUR colleague in the field, Mr. Earl Tucker says the fellow praying at the Democratic National Convention got his "plowshares" and "pruning hooks" so mixed up that he had to get out of the "blacksmithing business altogether". A bunch of blacksmith's could have done a much better job on those platforms in either party—so could a bunch of carpenters!

County C of C On The GrOw--

DID you ever see anything 'sprout out' like the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce has in the past few months? Those folks are really on the ball for the good of Chilton County! Keep an eye on them, or better still—join 'em!

New Scout Troop--

ACCORDING to Clanton's Mayor Jackson, "The Boy Scout program is better than it has ever been in this County and we certainly want to keep it that way"! A new Boy Scout Troop—157—is being organized in Clanton. Scoutmasters E. W. (Shorty) Walker and B. D. (Bazzell) Doss would like all Den Mothers and other interested parties to contact the City Hall and Mayor Jackson for further details.

Your Voice Has Pull -- Use It--

If you are writing to your Congressman, Rep. Lee Metcalf of Montana has a word of advice apropos in this election year or any other, for that matter: "Laws have been passed or killed on the basis of a single well-written letter.. One thoughtful, factual, well-reasoned letter carries more weight than 100 form letters or printed post cards."

FROM now until November both Democratic and Republican legislators will be trying to build a campaign record during the closing part of the 86th Congress. They will vote for the bills they think will win votes. Both parties will be anxious to "give the people what they want". And since so many people want so many things, we may find ourselves overwhelmed by Congressional generosity.

Unfortunately, more Congressional spending—no matter what it is for—will add to the inflation that already has cut so much purchasing power out of the dollar.

Some very expensive proposals remain to be acted on by Congress. Each of them would benefit some special group of voters. But their total effect would be to hurt all citizens through inflation.

Our Congressmen are under strong pressure to vote for these bills. They may do so unless they receive some indication from us that we believe it is more important to stop inflation than to obtain government handouts for ourselves or for any special groups—however worthy those groups may be.

It is not impossible for our government to gradually decrease taxes if we first decrease our demand for government funds and aid.

NEW GYMNASIUM AT VERBENA

HERE you see the artists conception of the new gymnasium soon to be constructed at Verbena High School in Chilton County. The above facility will enrich the school program in that community as well as in the surrounding communities of Cooper and Enterprise which Verbena serves.

There have been many improvements made in the physical facilities at Verbena school during this summer. An additional site has been purchased. Through the fine cooperation of the Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control, the site has been graded, thereby making available space for an enlarged football field, baseball diamond and an area for elementary physical education. More ample parking space has been provided by the additional acreage.

The complete renovation of the building has included re-roofing a portion of the building, painting the interior and refinishing the floors. New furniture has replaced the delapidated and outmoded furniture. In the science department, improvements have been made by adding laboratory and science equipment.

The improvements, equipment and addition as planned make Verbena School one which is adequately equipped for meeting all requirements for full accreditment by the State Department of Education. (Photo courtesy Chilton Board of Edu.)

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

The alte W. C. Fields, remembered as one of America's greatest comedians of al ltime, loved booze—but didn't wear himself out caring for childreh. It wasn't that Bill Fields had anything against kids—they just anniyed him, and broke into his train of thought—even when the latter was made up wholly of an engine and caboose.

The writer had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Fields personally on the movie lot in California while Bill was engaged in the assignment if making "Mississippi", a movie that also featured Gail Patrick, a very young (at the time) Bing Crosby and Joan Bennett. It was just prior to the time that the late Frank Thomas's Crimson Tide wrecked Stanford in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day in 1935. The introduction ti Fields was made by Miss Patrick, long a personal friend of mine.

O. B. Keeler, sports writer and narrator of wonderful yarns told me the following on the movie lot—something which I have heard many times since: Fields was at home with his bottle and a script which he was attempting to learn. Bill's sister had dropped by to visit with Fields' wife and had brought her three small tykes along. The kids were just about to run the funny man crazy with their noise, and his nerves were beginning to be rubbed raw. Finally fishing three quarters out of his pocket, and giving one to each juvenile, he told them:

"Sweet little children, Uncle Bill dearly loves you. Please take this money and get some ice cream from the Good Humor Man—then run out into the traffic and play!"

YOUR HEALTH

MONDAY MORNING ABSENTEEISM

Monday morning absenteeism costs industry millions of dollars a year. There is not much secrecy as to the main reason for this common type of absenteeism. It is the result of excessive drinking of alcoholic beverages over the week-end which produces a great big hangover. Industry is doing what it can to meet the problem of excessive drinking among employees. Two million industrial workers are alcoholics according to estimate.

The average alcoholic worker loses two days employment per year more than the average worker, and throughout the country this means a loss of 44 million working days. This equals 352 million working hours lost each year to industry and those working in it. The cost to the country has been estimated as one billion dollars annually. Half of this amount is charged to lost time, lower productivity, accidents and inefficiency. The other half goes into custodial care in institutions, correctional or otherwise, and care for families of alcoholics by voluntary and public agencies.

Then there is the bill for off-the-job accidents due to alcoholism and the cost of hospitalization for alcoholics. Alcoholism is being handled by industry with a more understanding and realistic approach than ever before. Industry is accepting the dicta of the American Medical Association and the American Hospital Association that alcoholism is a disease that should be treated as any other sickness.

Many industries now maintain clinics completely staffed for the care and treatment of their alcoholic employees. One such industrial company reduced its rate of discharging alcoholics from 95 per cent to 8 per cent through its program of helping these patients. The alcoholic is a sick person and as such needs treatment that includes medical care.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

God's free gift is the Life of the Ages, bestowed upon us in Christ Jesus our Lord. —(Acts 6:23)

As He promised in the days when He walked among men, Christ Jesus is with us today, when we open our hearts to Him in faith and devotion, when we love Him as He loved us, sacrificing our self-will and self-indulgence as tiny tokens of the sacrifice He made for us on the Cross.

August 1, 1960—President Truman signed the bill granting U. S. Citizenship and limited self-government to residents of Guam.

August 3, 1858—The first communications cable across the Atlantic was completed.

August 14, 1932—President Roosevelt signed into law the Social Security Act.

August 19, 1856—Gail Borden obtained a patent on a process for producing condensed milk.

August 22, 1851—The "America" won the first international yacht race.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

THERE IS A SCIENCE IN FAITH

There is a science in faith. There is a definite way to approach it. Faith is not something you ask for, not something you try to get; it is something you already have.

In Romans 12:3 the Bible says, ". . . God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith." God deals to every individual a measure—a measure of faith. Everyone comes into this world with it. You have it; I have it. Some may not use their measure of faith; some may lose it; some may misuse it; some may learn how to use it well, but each of us starts life with a measure of faith.

However, the faith that is given us is deposited in seed form. It is planted within us. We have the innate capacity for faith—the potential power to believe. But, there is a difference in faith as such and faith as an act of positive believing.

When someone approaches me and says, "Brother Roberts, I have all the faith in the world," immediately a question comes into my mind: If you have, why has it taken so long for you to put it into practice? You can have all the faith in the world but until it becomes action, until it becomes a strong, positive, motivating attitude, your faith is powerless.

Jesus said to Thomas, who had doubted his Saviour's resurrection from the dead: "Thomas, see the evidence. Look upon me and see my nail-pierced hands." And when Thomas saw that it was the real Christ, Jesus said, "Be not faithless, but believing."

Jesus made a difference between the word faith and the act of believing. He meant this: "You may have the capacity for faith, the power to believe, but I want you to start believing."

You may be seeking divine healing from God; you already have the faith (God gave each of us a measure of faith), but are you using the faith you have? Has your faith become a living, dynamic thing? Do you feel your faith? Are you aroused to action by it? Does it push outward, striking a blow for deliverance? Does your faith bring you to a point of decision? Do you act upon your faith?

When faith is alive in you, you feel it. It is something which causes you to believe in a stronger, more positive manner.

There is a science in faith. You must learn how to use it to get what you want from God.

Faith is the very heart of the Bible's teaching. Your faith can become a living force. When it does it becomes a weapon, an instrument of deliverance, a mighty power that brings you to God and what He has promised you.

THINGS We see and hear

by BO

TALK about brainwashed: The average American seems to have forgotten—or never knew—the difference between a luxury and a necessity!

WE say stick with your party! Why? Because it's the only way we in the South can hope to have a voice in anything to do with our government. What practical good is an Independent ticket except to further show our weakness of number. Standing up for your rights within your own party is by far better than swinging in every direction and influencing no one.

Some of you have decided to go against Kennedy and the Democrats because of the NAACP shine on their suits. Here's a quotation concerning the competition which doesn't help the cloth they wear too much either: Charles K. McWhorter, legislative assistant to the vice president (Nixon) said: "In 1946 the vice president was given an honorary membership by the Monrovia, Calif., branch of the NAACP. However, he is not a member of the organization at this time; and he is not now, nor has he ever been, an officer of the organization." This statement was published in the Charleston News and Courier. The only possible good a membership—honorary or otherwise— in such an organization could do for a man like Nixon is purely personal. We see no way in which that affiliation can help the needs of America. The man who said the South would have to forget the Civil Rights business in the election was right—we cannot win there, so we must take our cause to Congress, where we still have representatives of ALL the people. That is where the final word is reached and the people of the South must go to Congress fir satisfaction and intelligent action on the Civil Rights situation. Other matters should be considered in the coming election and since your Party is strong, use your influence to increase its strength and its stature. Quitting and going fishing is for the weak-willed and the thin-spined! We, as Democratic Americans will stand and voice our convictions and let the world know that we believe in equal rights for every man and that we also subscribe to the belief that every man, worthy of rights, will stand up for them—and moreover, will work to deserve them! Otherwise they are useless words anyway!

OUR friend Emmett Hayes, formerly of Clanton and now of York, Alabama paid us a visit last Saturday morning. Emmett and ourself were buddies and Charter Members of the now terrific Civitan Club of Clanton. No, we didn't have much to do with making it terrific, but we had our two cents worth there most of the time. That's why we didn't last long, the dues, it seems, were considerably more than what our "two cents" worth was—if you follow along! Mighty glad to have him visit. He was actually visiting relatives in Stanton, but that was close enough ti make a call and we sure enjoyed his 'pop' call.

Emmett, by the way, was connected with Spigener Funeral Home while in Clanton.

WE sincerely hope that no one ever takes advantage of our CD Rescue Squad here in Chilton County. There is a possibility that the organization could be called out on a "false alarm" and we don't believe that the person who would do this intentionally really understands

Higher Learning Calls For Better Facilities

TIMES HAVE CHANGED; SO HAVE OUR NEEDS

Dear Editor,

"Last Saturday the State of Alabama lent to Chilton County a Bookmobile. This is called by some a "library on wheels" and it is easily that for the bus filled with books can go throughout Chilton County and afford the people books to read and use to help them learn things of interest.

Saturday when children came into the Bookmobile and asked, "When can I check out a book?" "Can I keep it for a while?", all got the same answer: "This Bookmobile can lend no books today." And the children asked the question, "Why not?" There is an answer to this question.

Years ago when Chilton County was beginning the proressive move toward more financial success and a place within the scope of Alabama many things were sufficient. The schools in the one-room frame were enough, the dirt roads with the deep ruts were not too difficult for a horse and buggy. But the one-room buildings and the dirt roads are not sufficient now. There are many new buildings to house the children and there are paved roads to accomodate the cars speeding by. It is a world different from the one Chilton County knew a while back.

The whole world is now so different that it demands knowledge and knowing and learning much more advanced than once before. Just as the dirt roads with the deep ruts are not very useful to the high powered cars nor the one-room frame buildings sufficient to accomodate all the children, neither is a community complete and fully useful without a library system.

The children here and the adults who have shown interest in the Bookmobile and in all involved in joining of Chilton County with the Regional Library Service provided by the State of Alabama seem to realize the growing need for greated learning and knowing of today.

Still there are many unanswered questions. We can only trust and hope that answers to the questions of acquiring a library and becoming a part of the Regional Library Service with Bookmobile Service will be found for the children and the whole of Chilton County."

Raspberry-Rhubarb Cobble.

How your family will love the home-baked flavor of this rosy cobbler made with raspberries and rhubarb.

Quick desserts like Raspberry-Rhubarb Cobbler are ready for the oven in minutes when you make them with self-rising flour.

In just a short time, you can mix the golden cobbler dough and spoon it on top of the fruit. At dessert-time, top servings of the freshly-baked cobbler with plain or whipped cream.

Learning—to Live

Schools of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization recently graduated their 20,000th student at courses designed to train individuals for emergency leadership to assure national survival in event of enemy attack.

In the past nine years students have attended courses of the OCDM Staff College or Chemical-Biological-Radiological Defense School at Battle Creek, Mich., and the Eastern and Western Instructor Training Centers at Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn, N. Y., and at Alameda, Calif., respectively.

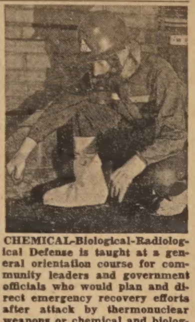
SUBJECTS INCLUDE radiological monitoring (to detect and measure fallout); basic civil defense; civil defense planning, operations, communications, rescue and care of the homeless or injured; emergency information; the civil defense role in natural disasters; emergency management of resources and production, and courses designed for special groups such as clergymen, medical personnel, industrialists, and the like.

Those attending the week-long, tuition-free instructor training courses teach others upon return to their home areas. Rooms are available at $1.50 a night at all training schools, and food at nominal prices. Many students also are able to qualify through their State civil defense offices for one-half payment of their travel expenses.

Further information is available by writing to the schools.



CHEMICAL-Biological-Radiological Defense is taught at a general orientation course for community leaders and government officials who would plan and direct emergency recovery efforts after attack by thermonuclear weapons or chemical and biological warfare agents. The C-B-R Defense School course at Battle Creek, Mich. includes work with toxic agents. (OCDM Photo)

SPECIALIZED COURSES in fields related to non-military defense frequently are scheduled by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization's Staff College in cooperation with private or public organizations. This photo shows the use of moulages to train medical personnel in a Health Mobilization course on casualty care conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service, using the Staff College's Battle Creek, Mich., facilities. Among other groups for which courses have been conducted are clergymen, educators, welfare workers and industrialists. (Photo courtesy Battle Creek Enquirer and News)

MOST FREQUENTLY taught of all non-military defense courses is Radiological Monitoring for Instructors. It is designed to teach technically-qualified adults how to instruct others to detect and measure radioactive fallout which would be spread by wind after a nuclear attack. The training course is stressed because, unlike most other fields, the radiological expert has few counterparts in ordinary civilian life who could be called upon in an emergency. Classes are taught at the Western Instructor Training Center (shown here) in Alameda, Calif.; the Eastern Instructor Training Center at Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Chemical-Biological-Radiological Defense School in Battle Creek, Mich. (OCDM Photo)

Delightful Main Dish Is Made With Washington State Russet Potatoes

For a flavor treat that will please guests and family as well, try this Washington State Russet potato casserole, spiced with Gruyére cheese, onion and chicken broth. Washington State Russets are excellent for casseroles because of their fine flavor, even texture and important nutrients. Washington State potato growers tell us the rich, lava soil, sunny days and cool nights in the areas of the state where potatoes are grown produce the qualities that make Washington Russets so outstanding. The Russet-Cheese Bake is rich and nutritious. Serve it with a green salad, crusty bread and frozen dessert to complete the menu.

Tunisian Waters Yield Precious Catch

The waters near the little-known Tu sian town of Mahdia, one of the m ancient seats of archaeological discove have yielded enough treasures to fill rooms at the famous Bardo Museum.

More than 2,000 years ago, when C thage was the center of Mediterran maritime commerce, Tunisia had de oped a thriving sponge and coral fish industry. As the 900-mile Tunisian co line, which varies greatly in form depth, began to take its toll of heavy-la merchant vessels, Tunisian underwa fishermen found their waters becom even more profitable.

Perhaps the most important discov made off the coast of Mahdia in re times was an ancient ship which sponge fishermen found three miles and at a depth of 19 fathoms. This sparked organized expeditions in sea of sunken treasures. Five such expediti were launched between 1908 and 1913.

One of the ancient vessels which discovered in this area contained numer pieces of Greek art which probably c from the pillage of Athens by Sylla du the 2nd century B.C. This find has b described by archaeological scholars second only to the discoveries made Pompeii.

CHILTON UNIT—

STATE GUARD EARNS PRAISE OF POWELL

Alabama National Guard troops of the Dixie Division have won the praise of top U. S. officials.

Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, who is Third Army commander, wrote Gov. John Patterson:

"I was very much impressed by the splendid progress your National Guard units are making and the obvious enthusiasm and competence of the officers and men."

Both Gen. Powell and Gov. Patterson have reviewed the non-divisional units of the Alabama National Guard commanded by Maj. Gen. W. J. (Crack) Hanna and the Dixie Division commanded by Maj. Gen. John D. Sides. Summer encampments for both outfits were held at Fort McClellan.

"While we have a long way to go in securing modern equipment and proper specialist training, I can say the Alabama National Guard is making a splendid contribution to our national defense," Gen. Powell said.

Replied Gov. Patterson: "Alabama is honored that our National Guard units should be so impressive."

Check Carefully For That Ole Boll Worm

Don't let boll worms get a head start in your cotton. Check your fields three times weekly in top of cotton stalks to determine if boll worms are present. They always appear first in the tip of the cotton stalk and move down to mature bolls. If they are not controlled while the worms are small, very little control is possible when worms mature. Contact your County Agent's office for further information on boll worm and weevil control.

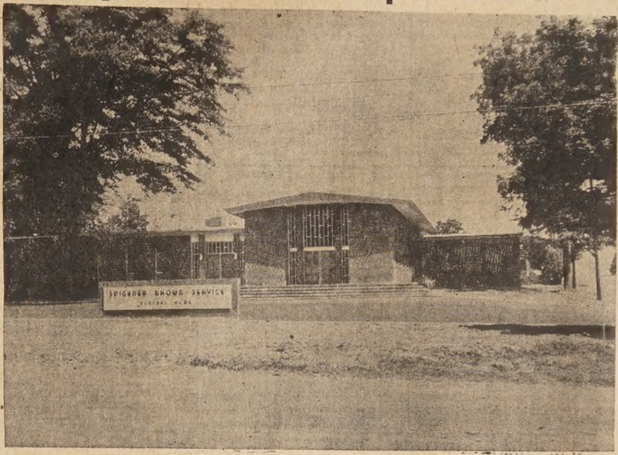
Spigener to have Open House



PICTURED above is the entirely new and modern Spigener Brown-Service Funeral Home in Clanton, built on the site of the old building with many obvous improvements. The building sits on the back of the lot with an ample amount of parking space out front. The striking apearance of the building, both day and night, has caused quite a bit of comment already and those who have been shown through the Chapel have expressed wonder at the beauty and reverence of this particular section of the building. Please refer to the advertisements in this issue and find out just who had a hand in the erection and furnishing of this structure. You'll also find an invitation to the Open House to be held Sunday, the 14th.

Washington White Rose Potatoes Are Ideal For Summer Salads

Are you looking for a potato salad that is new and different? Try this recipe with a spicy, tarragon vinegar and Romano cheese dressing. It will add variety to picnics and patio needs. Be sure to choose Washington State White Rose potatoes, grown in the green valleys of Washington State, where the soil is rich in minerals. Their texture and flavor are ideal for salads and they hold moisture and shape after cooking, qualities so essential to a good potato salad. According to home economists for the Washington State potato growers, the method of cooking is also important. Because Washington White Rose are so clean and fresh, they are easy to cook. Rinse under the faucet, cook with jackets on for easy peeling, then cool with a cover on the pan after draining off the liquid. To save time when using this recipe, you may stir the dressing into the peeled, diced potatoes while they are still warm.

WESTERN POTATO SALAD

- 4 medium Washington State White Rose potatoes
- 1 can consommé
- 1 clove garlic
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 3 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
- 1/3 cup grated Romano cheese
- 1 small onion, chopped
- few sprigs parsley, chopped
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- greens for garnish

Cook Washington White Rose potatoes in consommé and garlic until tender. Drain off liquid and garlic; cool potatoes. Mix remaining ingredients to make salad dressing. Peel and dice potatoes. Place in bowl and pour over dressing. Stir gently until potatoes are coated with dressing. Chill for several hours or over night. Place in serving dish and garnish with salad greens or parsley. Serves four.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

HOW YOU CAN HAVE PERFECT SOUNDNESS

Perfect soundness is the desire and goal of every one of us. We want perfect soundness in soul, mind and body. And thanks to God, this perfect soundness is within the reach of all—if we will only use our faith and believe.

The New Testament cites many instances in which Jesus Christ of Nazareth made people perfectly sound. A good example of Christ's complete healing power was the lame man outside the temple gate (Acts 3:7, 8): "And immediately, his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God."

A miracle of healing—then as today—was something that was seen and felt. A modern-day healing from God opens up a person's heart showing him just how powerful faith can be.

Just as in Bible times when certain men doubted, today some doubt the power of God to heal when no evidence is apparent. People want to see what faith can do. A miracle of healing is something people can see and feel. They want evidence and they have a right to know that Jesus is alive and real. Every healing wrought in the name of Jesus, every miracle, every sign and wonder is evidence which convinces people of the reality of Jesus.

Faith makes direct contact with God and through this contact faith gives perfect soundness in soul, mind and body. If you want perfect soundness and you feel faith rising in your heart, look up to God right now and believe. Remember, it is through faith in the name of Jesus of Nazareth that you will receive perfect soundness.

Thousands of people are being healed and given perfect soundness today. Testimonies pour in every day from people all over the world telling what their faith has done for them.

God loves you. He wants to deliver you and give you perfect soundness. God is a good God. Turn your attention to Him and to what He can do for you. Develop a sense of expectancy. Expect God to heal you. Your hour of deliverance will come, and when it comes, act upon the evidence and believe.

Always hang rayon clothing in the shade on the clothesline and use no hangers or clothespins.

A little experience will teach you how disagreeable other people can be.

People who are too proud to ask for favors don't get many.

Talk doesn't seem very cheap when you have to take some of it back.

Good intentions are "no good" unless they are carefully nursed.

Drive carefully! An accident could make your vacation permanent.

People who always insist on getting their rights — seldom stop with their own!

No Time To 'Take A Walk'--

SINCE we are a nation of idealists, it is evident that such a document as a Party Platform is a goal we set for ourselves and should be taken with a grain of salt.

This is not to infer that it should be taken lightly, but that it should be considered for what it is worth.

Both platforms inaugurated into the present political campaign have "actions to be taken" in them with which we are not entirely in agreement. Rather than consider taking a walk because they are not playing the game the way we call the signals, we, as good Americans should do all that is in our power and influence to point out discrepancies and unfair proposals written into these platforms.

It would be phenomenal indeed should any platform, or any like proposal, be 100% agreeable to anyone—let alone everyone! We are all supposed to think for ourselves, so the need seems evident.

The disheartening thing facing us, is not the platform we will choose, but how we will conduct ourselves in efforts to right wrongs and to work out obvious problems of disagreement.

We are still a nation—under God. As such, it is our solemn duty to strive for understanding with our fellowman. We cannot succeed in this area if we "take a walk". Anyone who would ignore his responsibilities during these times is a coward! The thing we must do is make ourselves heard; and more important, understood. . . not through bigotry, prejudice and hatred, but through the mutual understanding of need and effective solution.

And we do not mean, make yourself heard on the street corners in private conversations and over a cup of coffee with a crony. Seriously tackle the problem which we as Americans face, and speak for yourself through the newspapers, through your affiliations with organizations and by voting!

Whining will not gain us recognition as a people nor as an equal force; but if we stand erect for principles which we believe to be true, then we will be heard, loud and clear!

A Little Fun -- But. . .--

REALIZING the importance of the fact that kids will be kids and boys will be boys and usually the older generation, either privately or publicly, looks back on such things with nostalgia, it is nevertheless ridiculous to let a child, boy or girl, take his life into his own hands by wantonly disregarding all safety rules and regulations set up through the experience of the older folks. A little fun and a little carelessness are not necessarily synonymous.

Of late, we have observed cyclists on our roadways completely unaware of the dangers lurking at every turn of the handlebar. They act as though they are out on a lark and the highway is their tree limb. Such is not the case.

Parents of children of bicycle age should do all that is necessary to teach same youngster the value of common good sense and good judgement such as: not riding at night without adequate lighting. Not riding on the wrong side of the highway and especially not weaving back and forth across the flow of traffic. Some of these rules and safety measures the parents do not likely know themselves, but it would most assuredly pay them to find out.

Boys will be boys alright. . . we just don't want them to be 'dead boys' and we know that their parents do not want it either!

What's Become of Independence--

WE are fast becoming a people who cannot see beyond our nose! All the Bureaucratic red tape, regulations and poppycock connected with our ready attitude of "I'll accept anything" has created a dependence on our government which we — as the Government — can ill afford!

It boils down to the fact that, if we just had a mind to (including guts and ambition) we could handle our own money and our own affairs better than any fat bureaucrat or bunch of bureaucrats in Washington! Some of us seem to think "they get it in taxes, we'll get it back in subsidies and handouts! If that's not wearing your shoes on the wrong feet we'd sure like to know what you call it. Our lot is not going to improve a heck of a lot until we quit trying to live without working and bring our own affairs back home to the people. First the people must be willing to accept that responsibility.

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT
50 YEARS OF HUMOR

The late Great Profile, John Barrymore, had a male cousin, who was also an actor. It seems that the Barrymores and Drews actually had no profession except that of actor or actress.

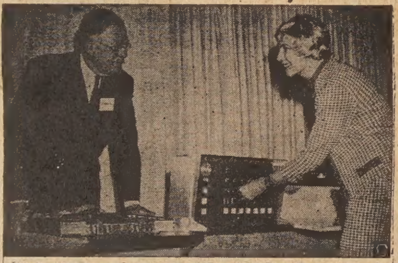
Jerome Cowan, of the movies and TV, relayed this one to me: It happened that John's young kinsman was away on a tour of India when the absentee's father died. Naturally, with transportation being what it was then there was no way for him to get hime to the funeral on time, the fastest thing being a ship on the high seas.

So, the bereaved family went ahead and had the funeral, wherein The Profile took a big part in helping make the arrangements and in attending the obsesuies.

What transpired later only went to show that once an actor, always an actor. Upon getting back to America and the hometown, the youthful thespian went to Barrymore and got him to fill him in on details of the funeral and burial.

This, Barrymore did with flourishes, eclat and eloquence. "It's too bad that you had to miss it, George," he said. "It was truly a great funeral. And it is awful that Uncle Ben, though there, couldn't open his eyes and see what was going on — the flowers, the music and the people. Ah, you would have enjoyed it, and Uncle Ben would have eaten it up — he packed them in!"

New Million Memory



Philip M. Zenner, president of Royal McBee Corporation, discusses operation of the company's new RPC-9000 electronic computer and data processor with Mrs. Lydia Heller, director of the Royal McBee computer programming school. Mrs. Heller is one of a growing number of women who have begun careers in the programming of electronic computers. The RPC-9000 computer memory consists of endless loops of magnetic tape, each of which can "remember" as many as one million characters.

THINGS We see and hear
by BOB

LADY brought in a tomato the other day weighing 1 lb. and 6 ozs. and told us to "let Mr. Ben have it!" We couldn't do that, of course. He's the boss you know! Wouldn't you like t take that one to a Republican rally of some sort? Boy, what an impression that would make!

SO you think you've got troubles! We talked to a little lady the other day who has lost 13 close relatives within the past eight years—enough sorrow and heartbreak for any one life. But do you know that she is sunshine in a world of complaining and bickering! We don't know why the Lord makes fools like us, but thank goodness He makes human beings who can transform tragedy and woe into happiness and joy and thank goodness too—it rubs off on us fools, too!

THANKS to the gentleman from Shiloh who brings in the Community news each Tuesday morning bright and early. We don't know his name, but we sure do appreciate his tenacity—we're sure the Misuss who writes the news does also!

YOU know, it's fairly obvious why the fairer sex is coming to the fore more and more in political circles these days. It isn't because they are so necessarily competent. . . it's just that we "boys" are manipulating things just like boys and we seem to mess up most everything we take ahold of—politically speaking! If the women take over politics, we can't say things will be any better—but we deserve our fate!

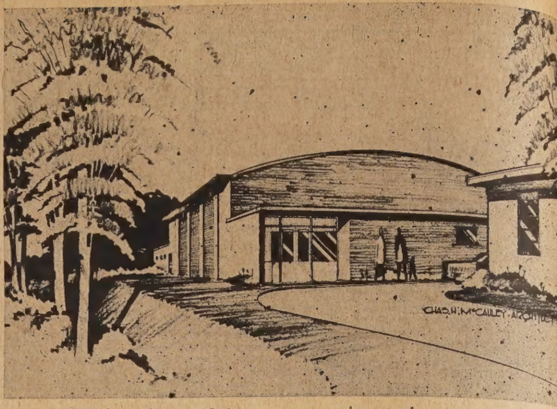
A gentleman whose advertisement came to a total of $2.24 would have us conform to fit our competition who gave him the same ad for a buck! If we were to try and conform every time in such a situation it would require a mind of Einstein and a bookkeeping system to shame the compters. We don't know what our competition will charge or has charged—that's their business. We have a standard rate on all advertising and if you like you can figure it yourself using that rate. We must have a standard rate in order to be fair. If it does not compare with our competition we are sorry, but we can't always guess what theeir price is going to be! We don't blame him for getting the cheapest thing he could find—but we do good to make a profit at the standard rate and we surely can't cut it in half—we think ours is a fair price for the service received!

WE didn't tell ya did we? Aunt Mollie is back home and broke!

KNOWING our City Council as we do, we know there must be a good reason, but we can't see why some means couldn't be devised to keep double alleys double—looking ahead a few years. Some of the alleys in Clanton, were of course, built in horse and buggy days and haven't been modernized because of property rights or buildings. Whether it had to be condemned, begged, borrowed or what-not, double alleys should be created where there are no buildings built right up to the line. The ten feet which used to suffice no longer does and if nobody else did, we know the truck drivers would appreciate it!

MR. and Mrs. O. D. Campbell, newcomers of about three weeks to Route One, Jemison are good folks indeed, if our judgement isn't too far astray and the kind of people we need here in Chilton County. We like a fellow with a good sense of humor and Mr. Campbell has that. Anyway, he subscribed to the News for two years—that in itself, makes him a pretty intelligent gentleman. We wish the newcomers well and we think you folns might drop by and see them and welcome them to our fine County!

A fellow doesn't know how many good friends he has until he needs them—guess that's the best way to find out, too — come to think of it.



ABOVE is a picture of the new gymnasium to be constructed at the County Training School. During the summer there have been many ments made in this school. The interior of the building has been pain ditional science equipment has been purchased as well as some new des The improvements made to date and the improvements that have b ned to be made will make the Chilton County Training School a well educational facility for the children of Chilton County.

Chilton's Clay Carroll---

The "Lilly Hill Special" Going Professional

by Wayne Atcheson

"I've been wanting to play Big League baseball ever since I could hold a bat in my hand." These were the words of Clay Carroll, hopeful baseball player.

After two years of high school baseball Clay wasn't dreaming when Dixie Walker, a Milwaukee Braves Scout, called him out of the dressing rdom after pitching in the State East-West game in Birmingham.

Right then and there, Mr. Walker signed Clay to a professional beseball contract, on the night of June 3, 1960 at Rickwood Field in Birmingham.

His contract will not be made public until after he graduates.

A baseball ruling prohibits a high school boy from signing until he has graduated, but Clay's original graduating class had just graduated and that's the reason he could sign. Clay still has one more year in high school, but he cannot participate in any sports.

Clay will attend school until March when he will report to the Braves training camp. Although he won't graduate he plans to do so in the near future.

Clay was sought after by five other Major League Clubs which included the Washington Senators, Los Angeles Dodgers, Cincinnatti Redlegs, Detroit Tigers and the Pittsburg Pirates.

Exciting Record—

Clay has had an exciting high school career. In his tenth grade year his record was 3 and 2. He worked 43 innings and struck out 65. This past year Clay's record was 9 and 1 pitching 66 innings and fanning 114.

His batting average his first year was below .200 but the next year it was .405.

Questions and Answers—

I asked Clay some questions about his career and here are some of his answers:

What was your most exciting game?

"You will never guess it. The game I pitched in at Selma that we lost in fourteen innings 4 to 3." In case you've forgotten, he pitched a perfect game the day before!

What game did you want to win the most?

"Demopolis, because if we had beaten them, we would have been in the playoffs."

What was the best game you ever pitched?

He didn't hesitate on this one. "When I pitched that perfect game I guess." This game was for the County Championship against Jemison in 1959.

When the question arose about his greatest thrill in baseball so far, Clay said,

"I've had a lot of them, but the East-West game I pitched at Birmingham was the greatest; I wanted to pitch more, but they wouldn't let me."

How did it feel pitching before a large crowd and more than 15 scouts?

Clay said: " I just felt like I was pitching down here (Clanton). I didn't even think about the fans and scouts. I just looked at my target and tried to pitch there!"

What do you consider your best pitch?

"Fastball!" he said without any hesitation. "I also like to throw my drop." He has also struck out many batters with his curve ball which his teammates always called the "Lilly Hill Special" referring to the hill he lives on.

Highlights In Clay's Career—

May 7, 1959—

Clay pitched against Jemison for the County Championship and retired 21 batters in a row for a perfect game. He struck out the last six batters.

May 8, 1959—

The next day Clay did the impossible. His rubber arm pitched fourteen innings against Selma in defeat. He had pitched twenty-eight scoreless innings until Selma tallied in the seventh. Clay gave up five hits and fanned 18.

April 21, 1960—

Hurled his second no-hitter in high school against Jemison for the County Championship.

May 13, 1960—

With two out in the seventh, Clay had a no-hitter against Lanier until a bloop single spoiled it.

May 15, 1960—

Clay was voted to play in the East-West game in Birmingham.

May 17, 1960—

Clay struck out fifteen and threw a one-hitter at Selma for the District Crown.

May 20, 1960—

Clay lost his first game of the season against Demopolis, but fanned fourteen hitters. He also broke up a no-hitter in the last inning.

While pitching for Jemison's independent team this summer, Clay has pitched a no-hitter and a one-hitter.

Clay has a good build for a pitcher standing 6'1" and weighing 175 pounds. Recently he was confined to the bed for two weeks with the mumps and lost twenty pounds, but he says he's going to gain it back, pronto!

Member All-County Squad—

His performances as an All-County center on the football team, playing on the varsity basketball team, and don't forget the baseball team, will be missed this year and next.

What kind of ballplayer will Clay Carroll be? Well, htat's up to him now, but he's a pro anyway!

Sergeant Jeffries, local Air Force Recruiter for this area said today that there i sno waiting period for Navigators. The United States Air Force has opened wide the door for young men to enlist for the Navigator Program.

Sergeant Jeffries stated that the Navigator Cadet will be sent to Harlingen Air Force Base, Texas for three months of intensive officer training, orientation, and physical conditioning. After pre-flight the Navigator Cadet receives 35 weeks of prmary-basic training. This course equips the student with all the navigational skills. It also covers the fundamentals and techniques which enable the graduates to go on to an advanced training school and acquire additional aeronautical training and 20 hours of radar training in the air aboard the Air Force's T-29, the Flying Classroom. This actual flying training is given in conjunction with intensive ground training.

Upon completion of the primary-basic course, a graduate will receive a commission as a second lieutenant and be awarded the silver wings and aeronautical rating of Navigator with earnings of more than $5,000 a year.

Department Of Agriculture Announces Change In Farm Lo

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today a change in regulations governing farm housing loans made under Title V of the Housing Act of 1949.

Who Gets It—

Effective immediately a farmer who owns a farm that will annually procude for sale for home use at least $400 worth of commodities based on 1944 prices, if he meets other eligibility requiremnts, may be able to obtain a farm housing loan.

Who Needs It—

Previously to be eligible an applicant had to own a farm that would produce a substantial amount of the operator's income.

Farm housing loans are made by USDA's Farmers Home Administration and are used to construct and repair needed farm houses and farm service buildings. USDA said its experience demonstrates that there are farmers who can properly use and repay this type of credit, but whose income from farming operations does not constitute a substantial part of their total income.

Other Requirements—

Other eligibility requirements for farm housing loans remain unchanged. These requirements are that the applicant lacks the resources needed to obtain credit elsewhere, be a citizen of the United States, and have sufficient income from farm and other sources to pay farm operating and family living expenses and meet payments when due, on his debts.

Farm housing loans with a repayment per years. Anyone intere tain additional inform County Farmers Home tion office located in Building, Clanton, Ala

To Serve Farmers--

Clanton Fertilizer To Be Farmer Owned Co-op

FARMERS Marketing and Exchange fertilizer manufacturing plant in North Clantin, and connecting farm supply wholesale and retail warehouse facilities, are in the process of being re-organized into a Clanton Area farmer-owned cooperative.

Mid-State Farmers—

The new cooperative is being chartered as "Mid-State Farmers' Cooperative, Inc."

Re-organization of Clanton Fertilizer plant and farm supply business is a result of statewide reorganization of Alabama Farmers' Marketing and Exchange, and is being patterned by the highly successful, long-time experiences of Centrala Farmers' Cooperative of Selma, Ala. and Tennessee Valley Cooperatives, Dcatur, Ala.

To Serve Farmers At Cost—

R-organization facilities are to serve Central Alabama farmers plant food, service and supplies at cost. Under the new type of ownership and management profits taken from manufacture and sale of plant food materials, spreader service, farm supply sales, etc, will be returned to patrons in the form of active rebates.

Two Basic Ideas—

Two basic ideas are foremost in the planning of "Mid-State Farmers' Cioperative, Inc." they are:

1. Expanded service to farmers of the Central Alabama area.
2. Supplies and service at cost, under efficient management, with profits returned to member patrons.

All Commercial Farmers—

Additional details of plans for reorganizing Clanton Fertilizer can be secured at the plant office in North Clanton.

All cimmercial farmers of the Chilton County area are encouraged to carefully consider, and from a cold personal business angle, becoming an active member of this new Chilton area cooperative.

He talked for several minutes, then each member was given a chance to ask questions and discuss all aspects of the new proposed Bookmobile for Chilton Co. Afterwards we went through the Mobile itself and were pleasantly surprised to see how very well equipped it was with books for all and every age group.

At 12:00 noon the lunch was spread and was more than abundant.

The following ladies enjoyed the food and the fellowship:

Mrs. Frank Mastin, Mrs. Walter Mastin, Mds. J. E. Williams, Kermit Lowery, J. E. Parrish, Max Eiland, Turner Eiland, Aaron Price and Fred Robinson.

After lunch, the business meeting was dispensed with and final plans were made for our booth at the County Fair. Plans were also made for our members to contribute to the boith selling homemade articles, proceeds of which go to the County Council for Club trips in the future.

Club was adjourned about 4:00 o'clock and we're planning to meet next on Tuesday, September 6th with Mrs. Amos Smith.

FRIENDS fall into two categories — those we need and those who need us.

LIKE an automobile tire: a man's ambitions are often punctured on the road to success.

SUCCESS often turn a man's head. In fact, it would be a long head that has no turning.

IT'S easier to get a man to lend a hand, than it is a dollar.

THERE are two kinds of seekers — those looking for trouble and those finding fault!

TO motorists : If there were more people who drove right, there would be more people left!

A PICKET-walker in front of the nation's Capitol carried a sign which read: "We died in war, let us live in peace!" It was a group "speaking" for civil Rights. The bearer obviously did not "die in war" and we doubt seriously his desire for peace! To our way of thinking, a picket line is nothing but a mob trying to bully someone or some group. We'll bet a Chilton County Peach that those characters make poor citizens and we doubt the "rights" of any of them!

Let's Have A Billiard Parlor--

FOR several years now Clanton has been without a pool hall or billiard parlor. This can easily be understood because the last ones we had here, if you remember, were not well kept or conducted.

A pool hall, well policed by our city law officers should do a thriving business by the businessmen who wish to relax, or otherwise entertain themselves.

At present the license on the tables is prohibitive and of course cannot be paid by anyone who desires to start a business of that kind here. We hope the City Council and Mayor will see fit to lower the license so that a business like that will open here. At the same time it should be understood that at the slightest misuse of the sport the games will again be barred here.

Integrated Politics--

THERE was a time, once, when you could tell a man's political party affiliation by what ticket he ran for office on. That day is long past, and you can no longer distinguish one from the other. This could be a great factor in the popular trend to vote "independent", because the voter does not truly know what political faction he is supporting when he casts his ballot.

This 'mongrelization' of politics is just as bad for our two-party system, which we think was and is a good one, as integration—leading to mongrelization—is to the human race.

If, for example, the Democratic Party could guarantee the voter that when he cast his ballot for the Deemocratic candidate he would be voting for a man sanctioned by that Party and one who was true to its beliefs and traditions, it would greatly increase the prestige and stature of the Party and would guarantee better men running for public office and honest approaches to every situation.

If a man was required to make clear his beliefs—party-wise—before he "slugged-up" on the ticket, the calibre of men seeking office would improve greatly. It would, in fact, weed out the undesirables and a field of qualified candidates with nothing to hide, would be the result.

And the voter, much to his glee and amazement, would actually know who and what he was supporting!

WHY DON'T WE KNOW

TO prove the point that too many of us Americans take our way of life for granted we offer these statistics compiled by a reliable organization:

It disclosed that only one out of four workers interviewed could explain the meaning of capitalism as an economic system based on private ownership of business. And what's more, a large majority of employees did not grasp the meaning of such words as dividends, depletion, productivity, socialism and teechnology.

In view of the findings, it would seem that we, as Americans, take part in a lot of things that we don't know too much about!

ACROSS THE EDITOR'S DESK —

Stranger Takes Us To Task About Our Apathetic Approach To Library Program

Mr. Bob Tucker
Chilton County News
Dear Sir:

While visiting an old friend in Clanton last week I read the latest issue of your newspaper. Why, I asked my friend, is so much attention on a bookmobile? I was told that Clanton has no library; that Chilton County's only library is meagerly stocked, closed in the summer, and located in Jemison.

A town, a county seat especially, without a library staggered my mind. I tried to imagine my life without a library, I could only remember the wondrous joy the library in my home town had brought to me. I thought of the countless books that had been mine to read, to browse, to learn. Books that not only gave me knowledge not available in my environment, but also entertained me for innumerable hours. I remembered the five large rooms stacked high with books for all ages. Books of reference that delve deeply into all facets of living: history, religion, science and the arts; books written purposely to entertain, to stimulate the young and old to know and want to know more about themselves and the world.

My friend told me that people had been trying to get a library in Clanton for many years, but the bookmobile was the nearest any group or groups had come to achieving this goal. The people, until recently, had been apathetic and the leaders had said there were no funds. Now the people want a library and the bookmobile is a bright promise, for the state of Alabama would absorb the greatest portion of the cost and maintenance of such a project. The question of finances seems to be the stumbling block.

I cannot understand why there is a question of finances. I know that Chilton County has a $5,000,000.00 a year peach industry. Surely the peach industry alone contributes enough to the treasury to support the bookmobile. I suppose the reason that I cannot understand the question of finance is because I was raised in Jasper (Walker Co.) Alabama—a county whose economic level does not exceed or even equal Chilton's. I wonder if the people of Chilton County really know why they have no library. Surely they care enough for themselves and their children to try to alleviate the situation.

Very truly yours,
Margaret A. Fountain

HI VANCE'S

USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

THE loveable late Colonel Karl Landgrebe, official of the U. S. Steel Plants, the T.C.I. in Dixie, was originally from Cleveland, but he adjusted himself to the South quite soon after crossing the "line and could, and did yell louder than anybody when the band played "Dixie".

A favorite anecdote of his is still in circulation on TV, though it has been some years since the Colonel passed on. As a matter of fact, its dust was kicked up once again on a network video show just the other evening, and it must have been as far back as the mid-Twenties when his affable highness told it to a group of us, and we laughed over it.

According to Colonel Landgrebe a motorist stopped on a highway on the shoulder of the road when a motorcycle policeman happened along and inquired if he could help the apparently puzzled autoist. "How far is it to La Jolla?' the man at the wheel wanted to know, using the same pronunciation when addressing the law that the spelling would indicate.

"Its only thirty miles, the officer replied, "but for your information it is actually called La Holla in this part of California where the J is always H. I thought everybody in these parts knew that, buddy. You havent been out in this section of the country for too long, have you?'

"Not t long," admitted the motorist, "It was the latter part of Hoon or the early part of Hooly when we moved from New Hersey to Alhambra!"

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

AN EAGLE SETS HIS WINGS

Two little girls were gathering roses. One of them ran into the house crying. "Mother," she said, "every rose I have gathered has stuck me with its thorns." The other laughed gaily and said, "Mother, all my thorns have roses!"

What would you have seen—roses or thorns? Some people are sicker than others because of their melancholy outlook on life. They see the bad side of life because they practice wrong thinking and wrong believing.

It is the people who resist self-pity, who refuse to feel sorry for themselves, who will not allow themselves to cringe and whimper about life's struggle who know what living really is. They are the ones who can stand up and say, "I love God, I have faith in God. I believe God is with me, and if he is with me, nothing or no one can successfully be against me. I will succeed, in his name."

I learn a wonderful lesson from the eagle. When a storm strikes an eagle, he sets his wings in such a way that the winds lift him above the storm by their very fury. The set of the wings does it. And it is the right use of our faith that determines how the storms that come our way will treat us. We will rise above the storm; its very fury will send us higher and higher toward God—or it will wreck us for time and eternity. Faith makes the difference.

A young man out of college asked his father, "Dad," do you still believe there is a God?"

"Yes, son."

"Well, if there is a God, where is he?"

The father smiled and asked, "Son, where is he not?"

God is present everywhere at the same time. He is like the sun when it is shining. You may close your eyes but the sun shines right on—whether you look toward it or not. You do not have to go anywhere to find God, for he is here and he is there. I find him here through my faith. You will find him there through your faith.

You can find him today. Let me emphasize that faith in God is the greatest single possession you will ever have in this world. There are people who think if they had lots of money, they would have everything.

In my city there is a very rich woman who was afflicted with an incurable disease. One day her doctor came in and asked her, "Well, how are you today?"

She said, "About the same, doctor, and how are you?"

He said, "Lady, there is nothing wrong with me that a million dollars won't cure."

She said, "Doctor, I have a million dollars and you can't cure me."

In this world money is necessary and God has promised to supply our needs—all of them—according to his riches by Christ Jesus. But the most important thing in this world and in eternity is to have faith, faith in God.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

Be still, and know that I am God.—(Psalm 46:10)

These are days of uncertainty in our beloved land, of anxious questioning about our future. Frightening predictions are made on every hand, and the temptation is to lose faith and courage. We seek peace for our country and peace of mind and soul . . . Let us take a quiet moment to reflect: Do we love God? Do we trust in Him?

ONE OF CHILTON'S "MONSTERS"

MR. B. J. and Mr. Q. R. Cummings, along with their seven hound dogs "terrified" this female Bob Cat for about three hours last Friday night before subduing her. She weighed in at 26½ pounds, which is pretty hefty for a female, according to Mr. B. J.

This "Mrs." with the long legs and the ear-piercing scream was brought down on Mrs. Morgan's property in the Mulberry Community. According to Mr. B. J. there are some little "critturs" like this running around loose in that neck of the woods, too.

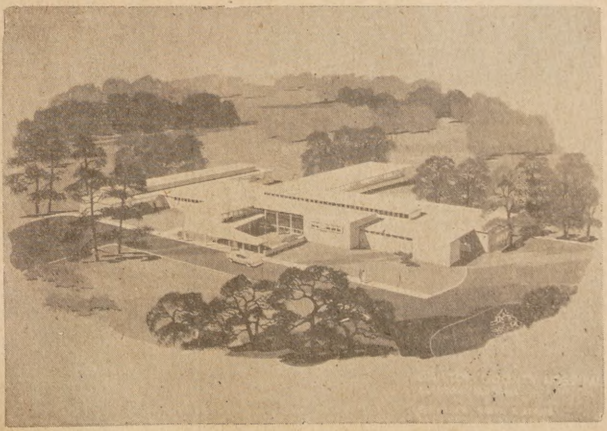
Hospital Celebrates 5th Birthday



THE Chilton County Hospital is five years old this month. Just five years ago the doors opened on this institution of mercy after more than a year of planning and construction. At that time there were six doctors and 43 full-time employees. Now there are eight doctors and 86 full-time employees.

Nursing Home Added—

In November 1957 a 30-bed Nursing Home was added to the original 40-bed Hospital. In February of 1960 ten more beds were added to the hospital making a total of Hospital and Nursing Home — 80 beds altogether.

The Hospital started with a total investment of $666,750.35 and now has assets valued at $1,066,382.06

No Outstanding Indebtedness—

In August of 1960 there was no outstanding indebtedness against the Hospital and the day-to-day operation has cost less than $20,000 of the Hospital Tax monies; this was given them when it opened in August of 1955.

Some Statistics—

Since opening the Hospital has served more than a quarter of a million meals.

There have been 9,311 patients admitted.

Thirty-five thousand eight hundred fifteen Laboratory Tests made on patients.

There have been 1,528 blood transfusions and there have been 2,253 babies borned at the Hospital.

There has been 2,860 operations, and 6,430 X-Ray pictures made.

Chilton County Hospital has become, in five short years, a big operation, and it is yours. Use it! It is under good management and is doing a good job!

IT'S a good thing to put something away for a rainy day — a little sunshine for instance.

PRAYER is wonderful. But, you have to put a little hustle behind it.

THE surest way to failure is to depend on luck.

IF you are afraid to earn more than you get, you will never reach the top.

THE modern day version of happiness: "To buy more than you can afford.

YOU notice the youth of today leave no "Footprints on the sands of time", they leave tire tracks!

OF course nothing is sure in this life—except expenses we hadn't counted on.

THERE'S always the bright lining — half the people don't know how the other half lives.

Organized To Death--

IT'S a strange thing, but true, that we, right here in Chilton County are guilty of organizing to the point of exhaustion. Of course, business ventures, yes, and even civic organizations, as well as most charity drives must be organzed to be effective.

But, how much further we go than that! We even organize our children's play for them. We "arrange" situations that function better on a completely spontaneous level for those participating.

Too many of us are not satisfied unless we're organizing sixteen different projects at one time. What we're getting at is, that we are so busy organizing and taking part in so many different thngs that we are losing our perspective on what is important and what is not completely necessary. What of our organization of our own lives and our family life?

If we would channel some of our energies into the 'family group' type organization, the results would be most beneficial to us all. Some folks feel selfish giving their time to their families, but remember that "charity begins at home" and there's no better way to improve our society and our world than by bringing up a family that fears the Lord and acts accordingly.

The County Fair Is Here--

ON August 29th the gates open at the Clanton Airport on the biggest of all County Fairs for this area. We always say that, but for the past several years, the men and women in charge of the Fair have been outstripping themselves each year and it is getting bigger and better.

You can learn an awful lot about your County and its communities and its people by attending the County Fair and we recommend that you do just that!

Let's take time out from the hectic daily grind, if it be that for you, and let your hair down and come to the Chilton County Fair! You'll be supporting a good cause with your presence and we think you'll go away satisfied with an evening well spent!

YOUR HEALTH

PRESCRIPTION REFILL

Many persons wonder why they can't get a prescription refilled. The purpose of a prescription is to help the person feel better. Some prscriptions are aimed at temporary relief, others may bring a fast and effective cure. Prescriptions are applicable to the individual, not to some other person.

The prescription is not to be exchanged back and forth between individuals, because each individual's need is different. There is a Federal law, only a fw years old, which places restrictions on the sale of certain drugs. Restricted drugs carry the label reading "Federal law prohibits dispensing without a prescription." A prescription for a drug carrying this label cannot be refilled unless the physician has indicated on the prescription that it is to be refilled.

The physician may give explicit oral or written authorization for a refill. The law against unauthorized refills is aimed at avoiding trouble. Many people are allergic to some drugs; therefore, to get a refill for use by another person might lead to serious reactions. The harmful cumulative effect of some drugs is a sound reason for limiting refills. Another reason for limiting refills is that some drugs are habit forming if taken over an extended period.

As a rule, the physician wishes to check results with his patient before writing another prescription for either the same or a different medicine. As an example, a person with a sore throat may an impulse to buy an over-the-counter sore throat medicine. A sore throat is not a disease but a symptom associated with various diseases and disorders. The doctor is the one trained to diagnose and prescribe.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

HOW TO RECAPTURE YOUR FAITH

Many people have written me this question: "Brother Roberts, why is there so much trouble and confusion in the world today?"

My answer is the same to all. In my opinion there is much confusion and trouble in our civilization today because millions of people have lost their faith. They have stopped believing in a higher power. They have ceased to have contact with God. They are not near the living presence of Jesus Christ of Nazareth.

I have discovered that there are two kinds of people who lose their faith. The first group is made up of people who have closed their minds to the proof of God's existence. They shut their eyes to the living evidence on every side—the stars, moon, sun. They do not see nature in its beauty and profusion. They refuse to realize the many providences of God which come to us every day of our lives.

The other group is made up of people who are honest in their doubts. They have not found the proofs their minds require for them to believe firmly in Christ, and in their honesty they are going about seeking some evidence, some tangible proof upon which they can hang their faith and believe in the existence of a true God.

Would it surprise you to know that Jesus is very kind and patient with honest doubters? He is concerned with men and women who have lost their faith because they cannot find a tangible proof.

Many people miss the blessing of the presence of God because they stay away from the place of worship. Worship is divine. Many, many people lose their faith because they do not go where Christ manifests His glory. They fail to associate themselves with people who know Christ and in whom Christ personally dwells.

I do not mean to say that the presence of God is found only in a church. I believe that we can feel the living presence of Jesus Christ anywhere, anytime, but often it is easier to draw near to God in His holy sanctuary. After all, it is His house and there we may expect to find faith and the presence of God.

Perhaps you have lost your faith through some tragedy or unpleasant experience but have still retained your basic honesty. You want only to find something upon which you can hang your faith. I promise you that God will come to you. This is the moment of revelation, when Jesus draws the curtain of mystery aside and lets you see the tangible proof of Christ's reality.

If you want to recapture your faith, simply look about you at the evidence. See Jesus—hear Him, feel Him, let the warm glowing feeling in your heart tell you now that there is a living God and He is good.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, talented entertainer who has starred all over America in one-woman shows, is very fond of re-telling one which was the favorite of her Father 'way back when she was a little girl, and he was starring in such vehicles as "Mr. Antonio," "Kismet", etc.

It had to do with the Ryans and the Caseys who were neighbors. Mr. Ryan had grown despondent over the loss of his business, his health and his daughter. The latter had run off with a ne'er-do-well and the coulpe had left town for he knew not where. So, in a hopeless mood one night, Ryan had journeyed to the attic and had there hanged himself. Naturally, Mrs. Ryan was grief-stricken over his rash act and she had mourned at home alone.

Mrs. Casey told her daughter that she was going over and see Mrs. Ryan and try to cheer her up, but her daughter Patricia tried to persuade her to stay at home. "You're always saying the wrong thing, Mama," advised the daughter, "and you shouldn't go."

Promising that she would say nothing to Mrs. Ryan that would in any way upset her, she went over next door and immediately asked: "How are you getting along, Mrs. Ryan?"

The lady replied: "Terrible, for two solid weeks, and I can't thank you. It has been raining get any of my washing done. No place to dry the clothes."

Whereupon Mrs. Casey replied: "That's a small problem. Looks like you would dry them in the attic it's such a nice place to hang things."

THINGS

We see and hear

by BOB

RED Glasscock said he (or somebody) heard a "Wampus" hollering down in the swamp the other night. We never saw a Wampus, but we hope it doesn't "vomit fire" and "trumpet like an elephant" like some of these other Chilton County "beasties"! Anyhow, wampus is what mamma used to do to us kids when we got into the sugar bowl!

WE have nothing in this world against shorts, or girls in shorts, or short girls or even short shorts—in fact, were a most ardent fan. . . but we also have a deep respect and appreciation for a "lady", young or old, and a lady does not parade around in considered public places in brief attire. Of course there are times when such dress is permissable. . . as we said, we ain't agin' it! But, in the middle of town on a Saturday afternoon or at the drive-in on a date, or any number of other places, should be out-of bounds for such skimpy attire.

The point is, there's getting to be no "out-of-bounds" and we wouldn't be surprised to see some well-stacked dame come into the church on Sunday morning sporting the latest thing in "casual undress"!

If the so-called modern woman thinks that gentlemen do not still appreciate the wonderful qualities of a lady, she not only doesn't understand her men, but she's missing a lot of what the Good Lord put her here for in the first place. She is to be an example of purity, gentleness, sweetness and goodness and she should dress accordingly. We know, of course, that there'll be a lot of sneering from the feminine gender at our opinion, which proves our point—ladies don't sneer either!!

GRANDMA Yeargan (Mrs. Ira) is about the best doggone cake baker of the kind that we're so fond of, in this or any other part of the country. Well, we get milk from one of Grandma's cows (bless 'er) and last Sunday we went down and the Yeargan's had flown the coop. The mistake Grandma made was leaving one of those cakes out in the open (actually it was under a cake tin, but we got a good nose). Anyway, after wrestling with our conscience for a second, we connived the missus into cutting us a piece of it. It was already cut you understand, or we'd never have let her do it. Grandma's out one generous slice of good ole caramel cake and do you know something . . . there's nothing quite like a slice of "snitched" cake, unless it's two slices! Next time by ganny, she'll bolt the door when she leaves, especially if she thinks old Bob is on the prowl for caramel cake!

HEARD a good one on old Buddy Williams—he got hooked (or is it hitched) you know! It seems this friend of the family down in Florida somewhere called home all excited the other day. He apparently didn't know that Buddy had taken the plunge and he wanted to know what Buddy was doing a way off down there with a blonde! You know, it's a darned good thing Mrs. Williams is a blonde, or that young whippersnapper would have some tall explaining to do! Good luck folks!

WELL Haley's Comet and Jumping Jupiter, we saw the Satellite! At least we guess it was a satellite. It was supposed to be Little Sir "Echo" and we "how do you doed it" Saturday evening about 8:15 traveling northeast. It's marvelous what science has achieved, but they came a little late. . . we heard a fellow get told by his Frau that she was going to put him into orbit if he didn't shut up! He didn't, and for all we know, she did! She's a big'un!

Congressman, Sixth Di

No legislative action was taken in the House of Representatives last week since for the first time in 15 years, there were not enough members present to constitute a qourum necessary to transact business. We did meet briefly each day, however, after reconvening on Monday in accordance with the provisions of an adjournment resolution adopted before the House recessed on July 3 for the political conventions.

The Senate had started its post-convention session August 8, a week prior to the House. Unlike the House, which is ahead of the Senate in its legislative program and is awaiting action by the other chamber on a number of measures, the Senate last week was vigorously engaged in congressional debate. Before the week ended, it had voted on one of the major bills of the session -- amendments to the minimum wage law.

Minimum Wage Bill

As approved by a vote of 62 to 34, the Senate measure raises the minimum hourly wage from $1.00 to $1.25 over a three-year period and extends its coverage to four million additional employees.

Bfore this subject can be considered further in Congress, however, the Senate bill must be compromised with a much more conservative one passed by the House on June 30. The House version raises the minimum wage level to $1.15 for those now covered and extends $1.00-an-hour coverage to approximately 1.4 million workers presently exempt. A House-Senate conference committee will attempt to reconcile the contrasting bills, provided the conference is approved by the House Rules Committee.

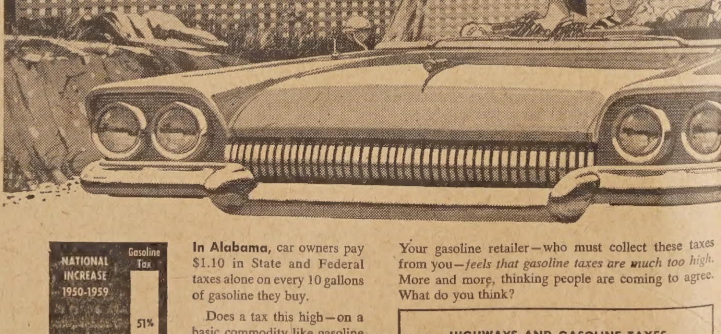
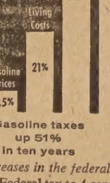
IN ALABAMA...

You pay $1.10* tax on 10 gallons of gasoline

*Does not include local taxes





Gasoline taxes up 51% in ten years

In Alabama, car owners pay $1.10 in State and Federal taxes alone on every 10 gallons of gasoline they buy.

Does a tax this high—on a basic commodity like gasoline—really make sense? Gasoline taxes in this state amount to a 50% sales tax—and that's over five times as high as the tax rate on luxuries like diamonds and mink coats.

How did gasoline taxes get so high? Well, since World War II, there have been three increases in the federal gasoline tax alone. This brought the Federal tax to 4 cents a gallon, in addition to the State tax of 7 cents a gallon, plus local taxes.

Looking at it another way, in the last ten years gasoline taxes have skyrocketed 51%—yet the price of gasoline itself has risen only 5.5% during the same period.

$84 a year for gasoline taxes! Gallon by gallon, these taxes add up to a lot of money. Each year the average motor vehicle owner in this state pays $84 for gasoline taxes alone. That's just a few dollars less than the average week's pay for most people!

Your gasoline retailer—who must collect these taxes from you—feels that gasoline taxes are much too high. More and more, thinking people are coming to agree. What do you think?

HIGHWAYS AND GASOLINE TAXES

Your gasoline retailer, naturally, favors construction of the roads that the motoring public needs. He believes in fair and reasonable taxation for this purpose but feels that taxes on gasoline have now reached unreasonably high levels. He also believes that all special taxes on the motorist should be used only for highway purposes. Yet last year, out of every automobile tax dollar collected by the Federal Government from highway users, more than 40 cents went for non-highway purposes. If these automotive tax revenues were dedicated for highway purposes, there would be no need for the latest increase in the federal gasoline tax.

Throughout all ages and all eternity, Almighty God seeks the soul of His children—seeking to fill our lives with the joy that comes from His good, His loving-kindness, His strength and His mercy. We create our own utter misery by wilfully turning away from Him.

We would like to thank everyone for their kindness shown during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Argie Virginia Culp.

We appreciate the kind nurses of the Clanton Nursing Home and Dr. Johnson.

● Let's Have More Recreation ●

On September 19th, in the City election, we the citizens of Clanton will have an opportunity to vote to see if the City Councilmen shall issue licenses for the operation of a billiard room, to be operated in the City of Clanton for the purpose of clean, wholesome recreation.

If you see fit to vote for licenses to be issued, I will assure you the Billiard Room will be operated in a quiet, orderly manner. There will be no drinking, no gambling, no profanity and no minors allowed.

It is my intentions to create and maintain a place of wholesome recreation and not a place for loafers or rowdy people.

-s- RAYMOND POPWELL

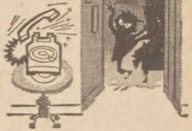
Your Telephone Manager



HOW MANY TIMES have you been the "star" of this little play? It's night time, and you're in bed. Suddenly: RRIINNGG! You leap up, can't find the light, stub your toe, finally get to the phone—and they've hung up. Irritating, isn't it? You can ring down the curtain on this little play once and for all, though. All you need is a handy bedside extension phone to take or make night calls. Convenient, inexpensive . . . and mighty attractive, too, when you pick one in color. Why not call our Business Office soon and ask about extension phones for your home, or ask any installer-repairman you see.

"I don't care where you get it! Get me a scare crow!"

A SCARE CROW would prove helpful in this situation - but this is one of the few. Our techniques when using the telephone - if they are improper - could have the same effect as a scare crow. The voice, our attitude, the nearness of paper and pen and our willingness to talk are just a few of the components of a satisfactory conversation. The absence of any - or all - of these causes us to convey the wrong impression to the calling party. Millions of friends and millions of dollars are won or lost through our telephone conversations.

Everybody Welcome

60 pounds of nitrogen per acre, (2) you aren't planning to maintain a reseeding legume or overseed winter legumes, and (3) you don't plan to harvest excess growth for hay.

The best combination will vary from farm to farm. It may be best to have part of the pasture land planted to one mixture and part to another. The big problem here is that bahia grass seed are easily scattered through droppings and by wind, and, due to the aggressive growth habits, may crowd out Dallis grass or coastal bermuda.

On upland soils of very low fertility, sericea lespedeza can be grown for emergency grazing and soil improvement.

Probably the biggest need on most farms is a good supply of stored roughage for wintering the herd. It's always good business to have plenty on hand. Due to the labor required in feeding silage, most farmers prefer to feed hay. Farmers who plan to stay in the cattle business should build the hay program around perennial crops—crops that don't have to be planted every year. Alfalfa, coastal bermuda, and Johnson grass are our best hay crops. One or more of these hay crops can be grown on most farms in the state. Properly fertilized and managed, they yield three and one-half to five tons of hay, and it will cost $15 to $20 per ton to grow and put in the barn.

Surplus pasture growth will supply most of the hay needed on many farms. This is especially true where coastal bermuda and crimson clover are used. An extra top dressing of nitrogen will produce the extra growth of coastal needed for hay.

Brown top millet, small grains, or small grains and legumes, and Kobe lespedeza are annual hay crops that may be used, but due to low yields and cost of preparing the soil and seeding, the cost per ton is usually high.

The best silage crops are corn, millet, sweet sorghum, surplus winter grazing crops, and grain sorghum.

Winter grazing for beef cows should come from the legumes in the clover-grass pasture or hay fields or from sod-seeded small grains and legumes. Small grains grown for grain may furnish some grazing until the first of March. It requires good management to maintain reseeding legumes in a pasture or hay sod. The surplus growth must be grazed down or mowed about the first killing frost for young seedlings to survive. Too, the crop must be allowed to mature seed.

areas. Water bugs are particularly abundant around the motors of washing machines, refrigerators, televisions, and in areas where ample moisture for their development is available.

Water bugs conceal themselves from sight during daylight hours and generally make their appearance only under the cover of darkness; however, where heavy infestations exist, they can usually be seen scurrying around during the day.

The control of water bugs is not a simple operation since they have become resistant to a number of chemicals formerly used for their control. Therefore, we recommend the use of malathion, diazinon, and korlan. Malathion should be used at the rate of a three percent spray or a five percent dust; diazinon as a one percent spray or two percent dust, and korlan as a two percent spray. It is important that all areas such as the cracks and crevices of floors and walls, cabinets and cabinet drawers, and any area in which roaches can conceal themselves be thoroughly treated with one of these materials. The insecticide should be applied as a coarse spray or with a paint brush. It should never be applied with a mist-type sprayer. Baseboards and molding should be thoroughly treated.

Fleas are also perennial problems in and around many homes. They feed principally on pets and farm animals but occasionally will attack people. There are several different kinds of fleas but most require the blood of animals to live and reproduce. Fleas pass through four stages of development but are generally recognized only in the adult stage. They are spread from one area to another by pets and other animals.

To control fleas, we must first rid our pets of them. One of the best materials for this use is malathion.

Lawns and outbuildings should be treated with DDT, chlordane, malathion, or rotenone.

THE WAY I SEE IT (from page 6)

Foy wrote me a letter in which he said, "Last night I was thrilled as I saw these young people in action. How proud I am of the attitudes, values, and character building program which is being so ably carried out among Alabama youth!" I am sure every citizen of Alabama would have shared this feeling if they could have seen these young people perform.

Alabama Ranks Fourth

Alabama can be justly proud of its 4-H Club program. As a state we rank fourth in the nation in 4-H membership, and our programs have long been considered among the best in the country. However, when dealing with a resource of such importance as our youth, can we afford to have just "one of the best" programs? There can be but one answer—an emphatic No!

Consequently, we have set as our goal the development of the best 4-H program in the country during the next five years. This can be done—it must be done! We shall settle for nothing less.

Next month I want to discuss specific plans and ideas to help us achieve this goal—a goal "to make the best better."

true if no supplemental heat is provided.

6. Have plenty of supplemental heat. Broilers grow faster and require less feed if the house temperature is kept above 50 degrees. Fuel is cheaper than feed to maintain the proper temperature of the bird. For individual hover brooding with gas or electricity, one coal, coke, or wood heater for every three brooders is recommended in winter for Central and North Alabama.

7. Maintain dry litter in the house by removing moisture with ventilation and heat. Wet or damp litter is one of the main causes of disease problems.

8. Keep only one age of broilers on a farm. Completely depopulate a broiler farm between flocks. Don't keep a few culls to spread disease to the new flock of chicks.

9. Clean and disinfect house and equipment immediately after each flock is removed.

10. Screen out wild birds, and exterminate rats and mice.

11. Keep all visitors out of the poultry house. This is a must in a disease control program.

12. Provide a dead bird disposal pit. (This is required in Georgia for every broiler grower.) Plans for building a disposal pit are available at your county agent's office.

13. Follow a vaccination program recommended for your area. Details for a vaccination program can be provided by your serviceman or county agent.

14. Make use of the poultry diagnostic laboratory in your area. These are located at Auburn, Cullman, and Albertville. Accurate diagnosis of a disease is essential for proper control and treatment of disease.

15. Keep a constant lookout for diseases. Report any signs of disease to your serviceman immediately. Early medication is essential—especially for CRD control.

16. Isolate broilers away from hens. Don't keep yard chickens on a broiler farm.

17. Keep records on mortality, daily feed consumption, cull birds removed, and vaccination dates.

18. Use only top quality chicks from reliable hatcherymen.

SAFE CORN STORAGE. Early harvest and good crib preparation assure low insect damage to stored corn, according to results of Auburn studies. Damage from stored grain insects cannot be stopped in the field during the fall. For this reason, corn should be moved from the field as soon as it is dry enough to store. Cribs should be made tight before storage in case fumigation is needed later. Another important preventive prestorage practice is cleaning and spraying the crib with DDT.

KEEPING YELLOW POPLAR STANDS. Yellow poplar grows well on moist, well-drained bottom land and is a valuable species. Too often when poplar is cut, no seed trees are left. Alabama studies show that seed trees must be left for reproduction. On an experimental area in Autauga County, all hardwoods two inches and larger, except yellow poplar, were removed. A stand of 15 poplars, 10 inches and larger, per acre was left. Two years later, 5,000 yellow poplar seedlings per acre were established and formed nearly a pure stand in competition with other hardwoods, principally black gum.

RETURNS FROM VEGETABLES. Vegetable growers will get top returns only by satisfying market demands. Recent Auburn studies show several factors that influence wholesale produce buyers' practices and policies. These included availability, grading, quality, varieties, packaging, delivery dates, farm handling, and promotion. Meeting buyer requirements will give Alabama growers competitive advantages over other areas. As a rule, wholesale buyers want the highest quality vegetables obtainable at competitive prices. They do not want 'cheap" produce at any price.

GOOD PASTURE GAINS. Nearly 400 pounds of calf gain was made per acre in 1959 from coastal bermuda grass with vetch-crimson clover sod-seeded. This combination carried more than a cow and calf per acre from April 8 to October 5 at the Piedmont Substation at Camp Hill. Average daily gain of calves on the pasture was about three pounds per day from April 21 to June 15. It dropped to about one-half pound per day in late June and early July. The high production was made without using commercial nitrogen. Coastal-vetch-crimson produced more forage and more calf gain than Pensacola Bahia-vetch-crimson, Dallis grass-orchard grass-white clover, or sericea-oats combinations.

ALFALFA YIELDS. Alfalfa can produce good hay yields over long periods when managed properly. A single planting at the Black Belt Substation at Marion Junction produced 50 tons of hay during 1948-58. Yields varied according to growing conditions. Highest yield was six and one-third tons and lowest was two and one-half tons per acre. Average for the 11 years was slightly over four and one-half tons per acre. Keys to success included (1) using a suitable variety, (2) planting on a suitable soil, (3) good preparation of seedbed, (4) using enough fertilizer for establishment and to maintain the stand, and (5) good cutting management. The hay was cut in bloom stage, with an average of three to four cuttings made per year.

THIS MONTH IN RURAL ALABAMA

SECTION OF - CHILTON COUNTY NEWS - CLANTON, ALA.

For Billion Dollar Income

Use Available Resources

O. N. Andrews
Extension Agronomist
Auburn University

A billion dollar farm income.

That's what we are shooting for in Alabama. And to accomplish this goal Alabama farmers will have to use all available resources.

Let's start with a pasture and feed program for beef cattle. The present income from sale of beef cattle and calves is slightly over $100,000,000 annually. We have land and other resources to more than double the state income from this enterprise.

The foundation for a profitable beef cattle program is based on economical production and wise use of forage. The present carrying capacity of our pastures and the yield of stored roughage is too low for the most profitable production. But by using a sound lime and fertilizer program and good cultural practices in connection with a good management program, the average cattleman can double his present beef production.

ANDREWS

Now let's figure out a feed program for a cow and calf herd. Cattle need large amounts of forage the year around. The following feed production program should provide this needed forage for a beef cow and calf: one to two acres of clover-grass permanent pasture; one ton of hay or three tons of silage; supplementary winter grazing from volunteering stands of crimson clover and Caley peas on hay fields or sod-seed legumes on grass pastures and small grains planted for grain; and six to eight bushels of corn for each calf. The acreage needed will vary with the productivity of the soil and improved practices used.

A good clover-grass pasture, the mainstay in a forage program will supply grazing eight to 10 months per year, depending on the season. It may also furnish hay needed for wintering the herd.

We have clovers and grasses adapted to most soils in the state. The best combination is white clover, Dallis grass, and/or Orchard grass. Orchard is adapted to the productive soils in the northern half of the state. White clover and Dallis grass are adapted to the moist well-drained bottom land in the state and the heavy clay soils in the Black Belt. At present we have an estimated 2,500,000 acres of white clover and grass pasture in the state.

Many acres have poor stands of clover, and heavy infestation of weeds. They are not furnishing adequate grazing for the cattle on the farm. Proper weed control plus the use of lime and fertilizer according to soil test will make most of these pastures productive again. However, some will have to be completely renovated and reseeded.

Many farmers have to depend on upland soils for their summer grazing. Coastal bermuda and crimson clover are adapted to the upland soils in most parts of the state. This combination, according to many farmers, is the most productive grazing and hay crop they have tried on their farms. Research confirms this opinion.

Fall dropped calves make good gains on milk, crimson clover, and tender spring and early summer grass. The late summer grass is adequate for mature cattle. Surplus pasture growth can be saved for hay.

Bahia grass is another possible pas-

Check Premises For Insects

Household Pests Spread Germs

HOT weather still prevails in most areas of the state which means that ideal conditions for a majority of our household insects still exist. Houseflies, fleas, carpet beetles, roaches and many others are presenting serious problems in many homes throughout the state.

The housefly has long been called the most deadly of all household insects. It gained this name principally because it carries and spreads disease germs from garbage disposals, city dumps, barnyards, and other unsanitary areas to our kitchen tables. In the city garbage cans are the principal breeding areas.

This thought is not too appealing to us when we realize that many of the diseases carried by this insect are of a serious nature. Flies are the principal carriers of typhoid, dysentery, and diarrhea. Therefore, we must realize that this insect, although not the problem it once was, still is a great menace to our health and to that of our children.

The life cycle of the housefly is relatively short. In this area a complete cycle from egg to adult is usually passed in from 12 to 30 days. This means that as many as 12 generations a year may occur in Alabama. The reproductive rate of the housefly is tremendous in that one female may lay as many as 2700 eggs in a period of about 30 days. So it is imperative that we carry out effective control measures if we are to combat this destructive pest.

The best control of houseflies in and around homes is to eliminate the breeding areas. However, this is not possible in every case, and we must resort to the use of chemicals. Poisoned baits will attract and kill adult flies. This will break the life cycle and will aid materially in reducing fly populations. An effective bait may be prepared by mixing three ounces of 25 percent wettable malathion, korlan, diazinon or one and one-half ounces of 50 percent soluble dipterex in five pounds of granulated sugar. To prevent this material from being mistaken for uncontaminated sugar, a coloring agent such as lampblack should be added to the mixture. The bait should be sprinkled in areas frequented by flies. Commercially prepared baits containing these materials are also effective.

Cockroaches are possibly more important to the housewife than any other insect that invades her home. Unlike the housefly, they do not carry a variety of disease organisms, but because of their preference to inhabit such areas as municipal sewers, outdoor privies, city dumps, and other sources of filth, they are potential carriers of any organisms associated with these unsanitary areas. There are at present about 55 species of roaches that are common to the United States, and new ones are entering from tropic areas each year.

GRIMES

Homeowners are fortunate in that there are only five or six species that infest homes. Of this group the German roach or "water bug" is by far the most common. This species of roach is relatively small, measuring from one-half to about three-fourths of an inch in length. It has two dark stripes on its back and is common in kitchens, bathrooms, restaurants, and many other

Production Credit Hits New Plateau

Farmers borrowed a record $2.5 billion from their 494 local production credit associations during 1959, the Farm Credit Administration announced.

The associations are 98 percent farmer owned. In other words, farmers have $157.2 million invested in their production credit units compared with government capital whittled down to $2.8 million. Most of the lending funds come from private investors in the nation's money markets through 12 intermediate credit banks.

The 1959 balance sheet for the 494 local production credit associations showed that they served 331,500 members. Total membership was 508,500. The associations had $1.4 billion outstanding on December 31, 1959. The accumulated earnings in reserve amounted to $119 million, and the associations total net worth was $279 million.

Heredity, The Basis For Tender Steak

From Texas comes the startling word that you can't tell all about a steer by looking at it—and that the tenderness of a steak is not guaranteed by conformation to breed, the carcass grade by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, or any other traditional standards of judgment.

Tenderness, according to Texas A & M College researchers, is mostly a matter of heredity. They have confirmed, reports Business Week, the well-known facts that an ideal-looking steak may be tough as a boot and that a hunk of only "good" grade beef may melt in your mouth.

A 10-year study found that gainability is hereditary—and furthermore that 52 percent of the animals classed as fast gainers produced meat rating high for tenderness. The offspring scored high on both points.

One of the A & M scientists states, "One of the solid bits of negative information the research has turned up is that there's no relationship between a drooping rump and the quality of meat inside the steer."

Milk Supply and Prices

Prices to farmers for milk and milkfat have trended slowly upward in the past several years, in contrast to a net decline for crops as a group and rather wide fluctuations for other livestock products. In the past, a rise in dairy prices relative to other livestock products, especially beef cattle, has been followed by some increase in milk flow. Milk production declined a billion pounds in 1958 and a half billion in 1959. However, within the past year or so the rate of decline in milk cow numbers has lessened considerably, and output per cow has reached a new record level. Total milk flow in the first five months of 1960 was up a little over 600 million pounds, about one percent.

Farm Folks Still Drink Most Milk

Although farm consumption of milk and cream accounted last year for only 14 percent of the annual total, the per capita consumption by farm folks of 416 pounds was well above the average nonfarm figure of 336 pounds.

Time was, however, when farm consumption was considerably higher. In 1950, for example, it accounted for 21 percent of the fluid milk and cream total. The per capita farm consumption in that year was 452 pounds.

Smaller Spring Pig Crop

The number of pigs saved nationwide in the spring of 1960 (December 1959 through May 1960) is estimated at 49,103,000 head. This is 16 percent below the 1959 spring pig crop of 58,578,000 head and 10 percent below the 1949-58 average. The 1960 spring crop was smaller than a year earlier in all regions. The spring pig crop was below average in all regions except the South Atlantic.

Farrowings in Alabama varied from the national trend, running 12 percent below a year earlier but four percent above average.

For the 1960 fall pig crop breeding intentions nationally indicate four percent less farrowings than during the fall of 1959 but nine percent more than average. In Alabama, fall farrowings are indicated to be down 11 percent from the fall of 1959. This year's smaller pig crop should result in higher hog prices and possibly more favorable cattle prices.

Co-op Aim—Keeping Up To Date

Agricultural cooperation is approaching the saturation point in Western Europe but is still in the pioneer stage in Britain, reported Margaret Digby, secretary of England's Horace Plunkett Foundation, at a staff meeting of Farmer Cooperative Service (USDA).

"Seventy to 80 percent of the European farmers market through cooperatives," she said. "The organizations are mature and competent. Their chief tasks are to keep their technical and business methods up to date and to make cooperation mean something to third generation members."

"The first generation reaped the excitement of pioneers; the second generation had the stimulus of a rapidly growing business, but the third generation is inclined to take cooperatives for granted, like the post office. This is a critical situation unless new enthusiasm can be inspired."

In Great Britain it was consumer co-ops which made the early gains, and farmer co-ops are only now coming into their own. The Federations of Agricultural Cooperatives recently instituted a training course for cooperative staffs consisting of correspondence courses plus a week of intensive classes.

"TO make the best better" is the motto and goal of more than 133,000 4-H Club members throughout Alabama. And this goal is being achieved with remarkable success.

Four-H and Objectives

What is 4-H and what are its specific objectives?

Four-H is the youth program of the Cooperative Extension Service. It is supervised by county and home agents throughout the state with assistance and guidance by specialists and supervisory personnel of the state staff of the Extension Service.

The name 4-H comes from the fact that each member dedicates himself—his Head, Heart, Hands and Health—to the service of his club, his community, and his country.

Members are joined together in clubs. They develop leadership through self-government. They develop knowledge and skills through instructional programs along with individual and club projects. They participate in programs aimed at cultivating traits of healthful living, purposeful recreation, and intelligent use of leisure time. They have opportunities to compete for scholarships and other awards. Character building and citizenship training are other basic aims of 4-H.

The ultimate goal of 4-H is the development of the individual's leadership ability, character, knowledge, and skills so that he or she can lead a richer, fuller life and more effectively meet the responsibilities of citizenship. Four-H uniquely supplements and complements, training received in the home church, and school.

Membership and Activities

Although rural youth has made up a major portion of 4-H membership in the past, today 4-H programs have no geographical boundaries or limitations. Projects in science, electricity, home safety, recreation, public speaking, writing, clothing, food preparation, and talent are just as basic to urban boys and girls as to their country cousins.

Recently, some 1,000 outstanding 4-H Club members from all over Alabama gathered in Auburn and Tuskegee for the annual 4-H camp and training school. They spent a better part of the week organizing their activities and electing their officers, studying new methods and techniques, competing for awards in various project areas, and enjoying themselves in wholesome entertainment and recreational activities.

It was truly an inspiration to observe these young people in action—neat, courteous, and well-behaved youngsters displaying an unusual array of talent from public speaking to singing or playing a musical instrument and from making and modeling a dress to the skillful handling of a farm tractor.

A prominent businessman who had driven more than 200 miles to attend the closing session of our state camp made the comment that juvenile delinquency will never be a problem among these youngsters. And how true this is!

After attending the closing session, Auburn University Dean of Student Affairs James PUREBRED STOCK—Although Roy Ellis has a commercial hog herd, he has purebred animals that are certified brucellosis free. The Coffee County producer, shown here with two of his outstanding brood sows, says he has better animals this way and can also sell breeding stock when there is a demand. And he is not in danger of losing animals from disease.

Bruce Jetton
Assistant Extension Editor
Auburn University

ROY ELLIS has one of the few commercial hog herds in Alabama that is certified brucellosis free. And the Coffee County producer feels the benefits are worth much more than the trouble he has in maintaining a disease-free herd.

With a herd of 10 purebred Duroc brood sows, Ellis tops out about 150 hogs a year. And he is able to sell breeding stock when there is a demand for them. The herd has been certified brucellosis free for five years and was checked in May and a certificate issued for 1960.

"Roy uses purebred hogs because they do well," according to County Agent J. R. Speed. "And he is able to maintain top quality animals that are in demand as breeding stock."

Ellis has 320 acres on Enterprise Rt. 1 and has some 220 acres in cultivation. In his feed production program he has 100 acres in corn and says he tries to have enough to use from August on through Christmas. Part of the corn is hogged off from August through November, the hogs also being on peanuts part of the time.

To fill out his feed needs, Ellis usually has around 10 acres in wheat. He has his own crushing and mixing machine to produce his hog ration. The machine operates on the power-take-off on the farm tractor and can grind two tons of wheat per hour.

Ellis also has 70 acres in pasture, 12 acres in millet, and 55 acres in peanuts.

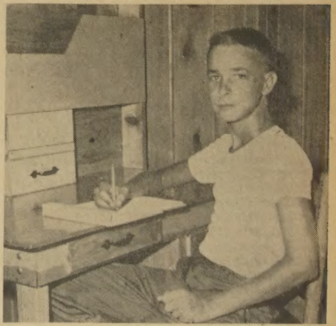
"Roy does a good job with all of his farming," declares Agent Speed. "But I think that maintaining purebred stock that is disease-free is one of the most important things he does. More hog producers should follow his lead. It can reduce their losses from disease and help them realize more from their hog program."

MIXES OWN FEED—Feed is a big item in any farm program where livestock is fattened out for the market. And that is why Roy Ellis of Coffee County grinds and mixes his own feed. The Enterprise Rt. 1 farmer, left, is showing County Agent J. R. Speed how the machine is operated by his tractor to mix feed for his hogs.

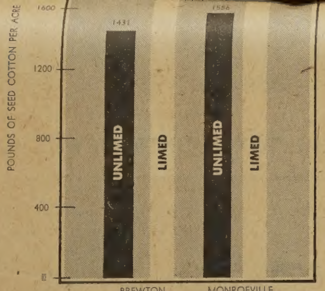
Homemakers' Interests Turn To Study Centers

IN recent months home demonstration women over the state have become interested in demonstrations on building a business or study center in their homes. And many such homemaking aids have been built as a result. At left, Mrs. Fred Wood tries out her new study center, which was built in when she converted a porch into a den. Mrs. Wood, immediate past president of the Kinston Home Demonstration Club in Coffee County, says the center is a big help in keeping records and running an efficient household. In addition to being a leader in the local club at Kinston, Mrs. Wood is also second vice president of the county home demonstration council.

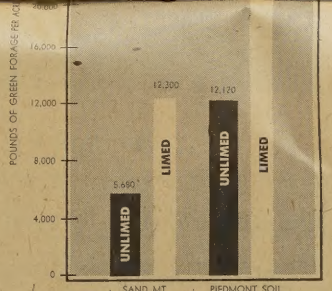
At right, Jack Ausley of Geneva County makes use of his mother's study center. After Mrs. C. L. Ausley saw a demonstration at the Lytle Home Demonstration Club on building a business center, she was very eager to get one. So 15-year-old Jack pitched in and built this one for Mother's Day. It was completed and used as an exhibit in Geneva County for National Home Demonstration Club Week. Jack is a 10th grade student at Samson High School.



WHY LIME SOIL



EFFECT OF LIME ON YIELD OF SEED COTTON
(SEVEN YEAR AVERAGE)



EFFECT OF LIME ON FORAGE PRODUCTION OF CRIMSON CLOVER

Dr. Walter Sowell
Extension Soil Specialist
Auburn University

WHY lime soil?

Last month I pointed out the soil pH values showing the acidity and alkalinity scale and the best pH range for most crops. Therefore, to neutralize soil acidity and furnish needed plant nutrients, lime must be added where medium to extreme acid conditions are present in the soil. A soil test will show you how much lime to apply in order to bring the pH level of the soil from an acid condition to a desirable one of about 6.5.

SOWELL

All plants require calcium and magnesium for proper growth. Calcium is found in the cell wall structure of every cell in the living plant. Magnesium is also a plant food essential to proper growth. These two elements are found in lime material. And in neutralizing soil acidity, the calcium in the lime replaces the hydrogen which causes the acid condition.

Many organisms in our soils necessary to promote favorable plant growth are dependent upon an abundant supply of calcium. The pH must be near neutral—6.0 to 7.0—for these organisms to live and multiply. (Nitrogen-fixing bacteria is a good example of this type of organism). In other words, lime brings about a condition in the soil which increases bacterial activity.

Lime acts as a regulator and aids in bringing about the desirable range of availability of many foods to plants. Lime also regulates the availability of other elements in the soil such as phosphorus, zinc, iron, copper, and manganese.

To be effective lime must be finely ground. Coarse limestone is not effective in correcting acid soils nor in supplying needed lime to growing plants.

Finely ground limestone is more soluble, and, consequently, more quickly effective in correcting soil acidity than coarse limestone. A lime material of which 90 percent will pass through a 10-mesh screen and 50 percent through a 60-mesh screen is recommended for use in Alabama.

When to Apply Lime

Lime reacts slowly in the soil and does not move about with soil water as readily as does nitrogen. Therefore, the greatest crop response to liming is obtained when the lime is applied and mixed with the soil three to six months before crop planting time. A crop will give greater returns if the lime is applied in the fall before the crop is planted the following spring.

Lime should be uniformly spread over the soil and then mixed by disking or other means. Skipped or overlapped areas result in spotted crop growth and yield losses.

Effects Of Lime On Crop Yield

In one experiment on Sand Mountain soil lime increased forage yield by 6600 pounds per acre. The pH level of the soil was 5.1, and yield was 5,680 pounds per acre. After applying two tons of lime per acre, yield jumped to 12,300 pounds of crimson clover forage per acre. An 8,000-pound increase in crimson clover forage resulted when the same amount of lime was applied on a soil with a pH of 5.8 in the Camp Hill area.

Lime increased seed cotton yield at Brewton from 1,431 pounds per acre to 1,754 pounds. An increase in seed cotton yield from 1,556 pounds per acre to 1,809 pounds was obtained at Monroeville by applying lime. These yield increases were obtained by applying lime to soils with pH values of 5.8 and 5.6.

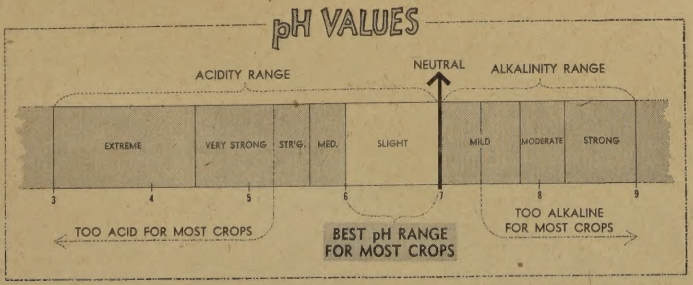
It will pay you to lime your soils. But, an accurate application is important, so test your soil to find out the exact amount you should apply per acre.

Scale Shows pH Values And Best Range For Crops

THE pH value is the soil scientists' way of measuring the degree of acidity or alkalinity of a soil. On the pH scale (shown at right) the neutral point is 7.0. Soils with a pH reading less than 7.0 are called acid soils, and those with a pH reading greater than 7.0 are known as alkaline soils.

In Alabama we must work toward a soil pH of 6.5—slightly acid. At 6.5—the area marked on the scale as best pH range for most crops—the major crops of our state will produce greater returns per acre than they will on soils of pH levels below or above this level.

The most accurate way to determine the pH of your soil is by a soil test. This service is provided by the Auburn University Soil Testing Laboratory. For details on supplies and instructions for taking soil samples, see your county agent.



BROILER EGGS AND SHEEP—The production of broiler hatching eggs and sheep make a good farm pair on Alton Landers' farm in Marshall County. Landers has 5,000 laying hens producing eggs for hatching broilers. And he recently added 20 ewes to make better use of his land and add to his poultry income. Here, Landers (right) and Assistant County Agent Ralph Sherer check the feed hoppers in one of Landers' three layer houses. He has automatic feeders in the other two houses. At right Landers feeds the ewes a bit of grain. This was done only as a supplement feed while a field of millet (planted for summer grazing) was maturing enough to graze.

Marshall Poultryman Says

Broiler Hatching Eggs-Sheep Good Pair

ALTON LANDERS of Marshall County has been producing broilers directly or indirectly for the past 10 years. And chances are that some of the tasty fried chicken that has passed over your plate came from his farm.

This Horton Rt. 2 broiler egg producer turned out three and four batches of high quality broiler chicks for six years before switching over to the hatching egg business. And in the four years he has produced eggs for hatching broilers, he has learned to like this new segment of the poultry industry even better than the previous one.

His three houses with 5,000 layers keep him hopping from feeding to gathering eggs and culling "poor doers," but he's never discouraged. In fact, he made his own egg washer using an old refrigerator compressor, a wash tub with legs, and a one-fourth horsepower washing machine motor. A bit of copper tubing to furnish air for agitation, a water heater element, and thermostat to control the temperature of the water at 110 degrees completed the homemade gadget.

"It works like a charm," says Landers. "All I do is add a detergent which also contains a preservative, flip the switch, and start dipping baskets of eggs into the tub."

Assistant County Agent Ralph Sherer, who works closely with Landers in his broiler egg operation, says the egg washer was built when Landers tried his hand at producing eggs for the edible market. Now that he's turning out broiler eggs, he still uses the machine to clean this product.

Landers, like most poultrymen, is producing eggs on a contract basis. The company he contracts with furnishes the chicks, feed, and medication. Landers provides the labor, housing, and equipment. He is paid so much per dozen eggs depending on hatchability, and hatchability of his produce is running 75 percent.

Automatic feeders in two of his houses cut down on the amount of labor he needs, and all three houses have automatic waterers for the birds.

Eggs are graded with 22-ounce eggs up to jumbo sizes going as hatching eggs. Jumbos and undersized eggs are also picked up by the company to be sold on the edible market.

Another of Landers' self-made gadgets for improving efficiency in his operation is an intercommunication system. Surplus army field phones were installed in the egg room, Landers' home, and his father's home—only a short distance away. The battery-operated system saves the poultryman many steps.

One of Landers' problems has been idle farm land since he went into the poultry business. He found that row cropping the land was just too time consuming for him to successfully look after his laying flock. So he bought a flock of sheep—20 ewes—to make better use of his idle land and, at the same time, supplement income from his eggs.

The by-products of his sheep operation are wool and lambs. Agent Sherer says the wool will pay for the ewe and her upkeep. This leaves the lambs to go on the profit side of his ledger. Landers planted millet for the lambs to graze during summer. Bermuda grass and some grain make up other feed rations for the animals.

Landers is a busy man turning out broiler eggs, wool, and lambs, but he's never too busy to show you about his farm—and he has a fine one.

BUILT OWN EGG WASHER—Alton Landers (above) is shown dipping a basket of eggs in an egg washer he built himself. He used an old refrigerator compressor, an old washtub on legs, some copper tubing, and a heating element and thermostat to make the washer. Air is forced through the copper tubing to provide agitation, and the heating element and thermostat control the water temperature at 110 degrees. Landers says the gadget works just as well as a commercial one.

INTERCOM SYSTEM—Here, Alton Landers of Marshall County makes use of his self-installed intercommunication system. He placed surplus army field phones in his egg grading room, his father's house, and his own house. This setup saves the poultryman many valuable steps in his business.

CLEAN REFRIGERATORS OFTEN IN HOT WEATHER

SUMMERTIME goodies such as fresh fruits, vegetables, cold drinks, and frozen desserts all cause refrigerators to work overtime. And according to Extension Home Management Specialist Elizabeth Bryan, proper care can add years to the life of the appliance.

Proper care includes cleaning—both self-defrosting or earlier models. And cleaning includes washing, rinsing, and drying the whole refrigerator unit—walls, trays, racks, door gaskets, and the exterior.

Miss Bryan says that a good cleaning solution is soap and water or soda water. However, if soap is used, it is followed with soda water. Most manufacturers recommend using one-half teaspoon of baking soda for each quart of water.

Remove stubborn stains with a mild cleaning powder, and always wash ice trays with warm water, never hot, because hot water will remove the coating which keeps the ice cubes from sticking.

Grand Jury Asks For New Deputy Sheriff

STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY

In The Circuit of Chilton County, Alabama — July Term 1960

TO THE HONORABLE OAKLEY MELTON, JUDGE OF SAID COURT:

After having been empanelled and receiving the Court's charge, we proceeded to investigate all the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors and herewith submit the following report:

During our deliberations we investigated 90 cases, interrogated 208 witnesses and are herewith returning 69 true bills.

We did not make a personal inspection of the County courthouse building as construction is due to begin within a few days upon a new courthouse for Chilton County. It is our understanding that the building is to be completed within 300 calendar days. Therefore, it is hoped that the building will be ready for occupancy within less than a year.

The County jail was found to be generally neat and well kept. Due to the fact that county prisoners must remain in this building until the new jail is built, it is necessary that some windows be replaced before the winter months.

During our investigation of the cases that came before us we were amazed at the unusually large number of forgery offenses that have been committed within Chilton County in the past few months. We hereby urge the citizens of our County to use due cation in the acceptance of checks.

We did not examine any of the books of the various public officials of our County, due to the fact that periodic examinations are made by the State Auditors. Since no irregularities have been reported by these auditors, we have concluded that the books of the public officials are correct and in order.

It has been brought to the attention of this Grand Jury that the jailor of Chilton County is paid a salary of only $150.00 per month. We are of the opinion that it is impossible for our Sheriff to obtain a competent jailor who will be on duty twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week for the sum now paid. It is our recommendation and we hereby request that the Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control seriously consider this matter and authorize payment for a jailor in the amount of at least $250.00 per month.

Your Grand Jury went into the matter of the need for additional deputy sheriffs in Chilton County. Due to the increase in the amount of crime being committed and the tremendous increase in the amount of civil litigation, it is the unanimous opinion of this Grand Jury that three deputy sheriffs are totally insufficient to provide the type of law enforcement in this County to which we are entitled and expect. Therefore, we earnestly request our State Representative and State Senator to consider instigating necessary legislation whereby at least two additional deputy sheriffs will be employed in Chilton County.

Now having completed the matters brought before us we hereby request that we be dismissed until such time as Your Honor may deem it necessary to have us again convene.

Dated this the 26th day of August, 1960.

OBIE Gene Davis drowned in the swimming pool at the City Park last Sunday afternoon.

He was seen to dive into the pool and a very few minutes later a litle child told the lifeguards that the boy hadn't come up. Norton Lecroy and Elliott Monroe went into the pool and pulled Davis out and rushed him to the hospital.

After some three hours of working over the boy, he was pronounced dead by Coroner Bob White. Mr. White stated that the condition of the boy looked as though he had been attacked by cramps. He is known to have had an attack before and had to be taken from the water.

CCHS Begins Season Shorthanded But With Plenty Of Will-To-Win

by BOBBY LITTLE

ONLY twenty-three players greeted coaches Don Finlayson and Ray Scruggs at the first practice of the Fall season at Chitlon County High School for what was probably the smallest turnout in several years for Fall training at Chilton's largest high school.

Of the group only seven are lettermen. The team was hit hard when they lost fourteen lettermen off of the team to graduation.

The Tigers suffered many injuries last year and finished with a 4-4-2 record.

Backfield Promising—

The backfield will be the strongest spot of the team because only one letterman graduated. Tommy Shelton a speedster and a two-year letterman, returns at right half. Shelton at 152 lbs. gained 738 yards last year for a six yard per carry average.

Mike Mims, also a two-year letterman at 158 lbs., is at left half and carried the mail for 242 yards last season in 35 tries.

At fullback will be Elliott Monroe (162 lbs.) a versatile player. Monroe, another two-year letterman, has in two previous years been out with injuries, but after a shoulder operation this ammer is all set.

John Will Wyatt, who missed almost the entire season due to injuries last year, will be ready and raring to go at quarterback.

Coach Finlayson stated, "We will have to build a complete new line. The center and end positions are the weakest spots."

No lettermen are returning at center. Only one at end and one at tackle. Two old-timers return at the guard position.

Unless a change is made Rossie Williams (155) or Hub Calloway (175) will be at center.

Tommy Tiffin and Jerry Vines (180) will be the guards. Tiffin is very outstanding on defense. Both are seniors.

Big Man Melvin—

Melvin Billingsley, at 190 pounds is the biggest man on the team at tackle. Thomas Earl Mims (170) and Johnny Mims (170) are contenders for the other tackle post.

At the end slots will be Curtis Deason and Norton Lecroy. Lee Garner will be their 'understudy'.

Gene Roach, who received a head injury in his sophomore year, will be limited to place kicking duties only.

Elliott Monroe and John Will Wyatt will handle the punting duties and Melvin Billingsley and Curtis Deason will administer the kick-offs.

Coach Finlayson summed his team up this way: "If the boys come through alright, we are going to do alright!"

Brown who assumed his duties in July, has been assistant county agent in Bullock County since 1948. He recently completed work on his master's degree at Auburn University.

Poultrymen And "Allies" Declare War

Fight Under Way Against CRD In Poultry

S. L. Davis and J. R. Hubbard
Extension Poultrymen
Auburn University

WAR has been declared, and the fight has been started against CRD (Chronic Respiratory Disease) in Alabama's poultry flocks.

"Allies" in the all-out "hot war" against this dreaded and costly enemy of the poultry industry include the Extension Service and Experiment Station of Auburn University, the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries, Vocational Agriculture Department, Alabama Poultry Industry Association, feed dealers, hatcherymen, poultry servicemen, and broiler growers.

DAVIS

The object of this battle is to reduce as much as possible the losses resulting from condemnation of broilers at processing plants and poor feed conversions in broiler flocks caused by CRD and other diseases.

Events which have led to war against CRD in poultry started last winter. More than $1,000,000 worth of broilers were rejected at plants in Alabama during the period from last December through March. According to poultry pathologists, CRD appears to be the most important cause of condemnation of broilers at processing plants under federal inspection. In addition to losses from rejects, more money is lost from poor growth, poor feed conversion, and mortality caused by this number-one disease of broilers.

Confronted with the aggressive action of CRD, which threatens the future growth of the broiler industry in Alabama, the Alabama Poultry Industry Association requested the Extension Service to organize an action program and take the lead in an all-out effort to slow down this enemy.

The first step was taken last March. More than 500 broiler growers, servicemen, hatcherymen, processors, and county agents attended two area meetings held in Albertville on March 29 and in Jasper, March 30. Sufficient evidence and enthusiasm for a full-fledged war against CRD and other causes of broiler condemnation were shown by people attending these meetings.

CRD and other respiratory diseases of poultry prefer wintertime for an attack. With this in mind, the "allies" took a second important step last July. A series of schools for poultry servicemen were held at Troy, Jasper, Cullman, Albertville, and Anniston which 165 poultry servicemen and county agents attended. The latest proved management practices, sanitation, vaccinations, and methods for disease prevention and control were given.

Since broiler growers are the most important group of soldiers in this war against CRD, they are being provided with the best available ammunition with which to fight. Feed dealers, servicemen, county agents and others engaged in educational work are the source of information. While the fight is continuing, research work to find new and more effective weapons to fight CRD is being carried on by the poultry department at Auburn.

Eighteen points of attack against CRD and other causes of condemnation have been planned by the poultry "allies." These are as follows:

1. Improve housing conditions by covering cracks in old houses with boards, building paper, or other materials. Many broiler houses are too open for adequate heating and proper ventilation.

2. Provide more floor space—a minimum of one square foot per bird. Some growers are finding it more profitable to provide one and one-fourth square feet per bird in winter when broiler prices are seasonally low and when good feed conversions are more difficult to get.

3. Provide plenty of feeders and waterers—25 five-foot feeders or their equivalent and four eight-foot waterers should be provided for each 1,000 chicks. In addition, 10 one-gallon jars per 1,000 chicks should be used to start chicks on water.

4. Provide plenty of good, deep, dry litter in winter. Six to eight inches of litter gives better insulation from the cold ground. Three to four inches of litter in summer would be cooler.

5. Reduce number of chicks per brooder. In most cases, 500 to 600 chicks per hover for gas or electric brooding in cold weather would be more profitable. This is especially

SOME homemakers have spots before their eyes every time they hang out the wash. That's because they haven't been able to remove stubborn stains from the family's clothing.

To help overcome this problem at your house, learn the simple methods for removing spots and then act promptly when a fabric is stained.

If possible, learn what caused the stain, says Auburn University Extension Clothing Specialist Kathleen Thompson. The right treatment for one stain may only set another. If you can't tell what caused the stain, try to decide whether it is greasy or non-greasy, or a combination of the two.

Then be sure the stain remover you use will not harm the fabric. Some removers may not damage the fibers, but they will cause fading, loss of luster, shrinkage, or stretching of the material. Test your remover on a sample of the fabric, or on a seam allowance, hem, inside of pocket, or the tail of a blouse or shirt. If it causes any change in the material, it is better to send the stained article to a professional dry cleaner.

Grass stains are perhaps one of the most common for mothers of small children. If the material is washable, work a detergent into the stain, then rinse. If this does not work, or the material is not washable, sponge the stain with rubbing alcohol. (Dilute alcohol with two parts of water for use on acetate.). If stain remains, use a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach, or hydrogen peroxide: Follow directions on the container. (Never use chlorine bleaches on fabrics that contain silk or wool or on a fabric with a resin finish.)

Beverage stains are another special headache for the homemaker, says Miss Thompson. Chocolate, tea, and coffee with cream may be removed by sponging stains with cool water. Or soak in cool water for 30 minutes or more. If stain remains, work detergent into the stain, then rinse thoroughly. Allow article to dry. If colored stain remains after fabric dries, use a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide.

Follow same directions for non-washable materials, except force cool water through stain with a small syringe, using a sponge under stain to absorb the water, instead of soaking the fabric.

If your clothing has become stained by deodorants, wash or sponge the area thoroughly with detergent and warm water, then rinse. If stain is not removed, use a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide. If the color of the dye in the fabric has been changed, it may be restored by sponging with ammonia. Dilute the ammonia with an equal amount of water for use on wool or silk and rinse.

To remove cosmetics, apply an undiluted liquid detergent to the stain. Or dampen the stain and rub in soap or synthetic detergent until a thick suds is formed. Work in until outline of stain is gone, then rinse well. Repeat, if necessary. It may help if you dry the fabric between treatments.

If the material is not washable, sponge cosmetic stains with a grease solvent as long as any color is removed. If stain is not removed, use soap or detergent as for washable fabrics.

Chewing gum may be scraped off if you are careful not to damage the fabric. It will come off more easily if it is first hardened by rubbing with ice. If a stain remains, sponge thoroughly with a grease solvent. A number of different solvents are available at drug, grocery, and auto-supply stores.

For fruit stains, the specialist suggests that you sponge the spot immediately with cool water. Then, if safe for fabric, pour boiling water through the spot from a height of one to three feet. Washable materials may be soaked for 30 minutes or more, overnight if necessary, then rubbed well with a detergent and laundered. If this does not work, a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide may be used.

For non-washable fabrics, force cool water through the stain with a small syringe using a sponge under the stain to absorb the water. If the stain remains, rub detergent on it and work it into the fabric, and rinse. A final sponging with alcohol helps to remove the detergent and to dry the fabric more quickly. Test alcohol on fabric first to be sure it does not affect the dye. Dilute with two parts of water before using on acetate.

One of the most stubborn stains to remove is rust. If the material can be boiled, put the article in a solution containing four teaspoons of cream of tartar to each pint of water. Boil until the stain is removed. Rinse thoroughly.

Try Stuffed, Baked Fish For A Change

Anne Patterson
Extension Editorial Assistant
Auburn University

WITH the cool of September, fishing picks up. And when that husband comes home with a nice catch and demands something new and different for supper, what on earth will you prepare?

He's tired of fried and broiled fish, and he certainly wouldn't want it boiled or stewed, but say—how about stuffing, baking, and serving it with tartar sauce, parsley potatoes, buttered peas, cabbage slaw, rolls, iced tea, and lemon meringue pie for dessert?

Maybe hubby was lucky and brought home a three- to four-pound fish. If he was, wash and dry it and sprinkle the inside and out with salt. Cut three or four gashes through the skin on each side to keep it from breaking. Then stuff the fish loosely with bread stuffing and close with skewers.

Place the fish in a greased baking pan and bake 45 to 60 minutes. (15 minutes per pound), basting occasionally with melted butter and lemon juice. Serves six.

For easy removal after baking, lay about three strips of aluminum foil in the pan and up over the sides. Pull up on the ends of the strips to lift the fish to the platter; then pull out the strips of foil.

In making the bread stuffing, cook one-fourth cup minced onion in one-fourth cup butter until soft and yellow. Gradually stir in four cups dry bread crumbs and seasonings—one-half cup chopped celery, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, sage or poultry seasoning to taste, and one teaspoon thyme—and heat until light brown. If you prefer a dry stuffing, add little or no water. For a moist stuffing, add just enough water to moisten. This makes four and one-half cups of stuffing.

Reasons For Higher Yields

I'VE heard farmers say, "Soil testing my land caused me to get higher yields this year." And another one, "I used a hybrid last year and increased yields on my farm." And so on down the line.

The truth of the matter is that farmers are getting higher yields from their crops because they are using a combination of things—better and newer varieties; closer supervision and management; and soil testing and hybrids.

Ten to fifteen years ago corn yields averaged around 15 bushels per acre with efficient farmers making 25 to 30 bushels per acre—some 50. Cotton was turning out from a half to three-quarters of a bale per acre. Today, corn yields range around 32 to 33 bushels with top yields running 50, 75, and 100 bushels per acre. Cotton has moved up to a bale and a half to two bales per acre with irrigated fields turning out two and a half to three bales.

It's hard to put your finger on any one thing and say it increased the yield.

Poultry Folks Fight CRD

Poultrymen over the state are taking up arms against CRD—Chronic Respiratory Disease.

According to S. L. Davis, Extension Poultryman, several servicemen's schools were held last year and this year to acquaint fieldmen with new and proved practices.

It seems that condemnations at processing plants are due largely to this disease, and Davis believes that the servicemen's schools are the first step toward greatly reducing the hazards of the disease. County agents and servicemen can be of greater assistance to the poultrymen as a result.

Good Seed Produce Good Seed

Melvin Moorer, Extension agronomist, tells me that good, high quality seed of any crop cannot be grown from mixed, diseased stock. He says that farmers interested in the seed business should remember that pure foundation seed are needed in the multiplication and production of good seed which are to be sold to other farmers.

If you have trouble finding foundation or registered seed, check with your county agent.

Treat Pasture Seed

Moorer also had this to say about planting small grain seed. Farmers must not plant these seed unless they have been treated. Losses caused by seedling diseases, smuts, blights, and rusts can be be eliminated or greatly reduced if farmers will check tags to determine if the seed have been treated. Also, if seed are home grown, they should treat seed themselves or take them to a custom seed processing plant. Substances used for treatment are Ceresan M, Agrox, or Panogen.

Check Home Wiring

Some of our home wiring systems are as out of date as the Model-A Ford. At least that's what Extension Engineer Bill Cox says. He points out that only one home out of 20 is adequately wired for efficient use of modern electrical equipment.

An overloaded wire can cost a lot of money—maybe even your home, he says.

The Missing Issue--

One of the most important issues of the day was completely overlooked by the 86th Congress. This issue is the urgent need to reform the federal income tax rates which are crippling the nation's economic growth.

Economic growth currently is a much used and little understood term. Actually it means increasing the gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced in America. Economic growth means building more businesses, more jobs, more goods, more services.

If you're going to build a business, you must have capital. To get capital, you must have savings—either your's or someone else's. That's where high tax rates hurt. They make it hard to save up money to invest, and they make investing unattractive to those who do manage to build up some savings. Why should people put money into a business when they know that if the business fails they will lose their investment and if it succeeds the government will tax away most of the profits?

This is how high tax rates drain off and bottle up the investment funds needed for economic growth. Now, while our congressmen and presidential candidates are campaigning for election, is a good time to ask them what they intend to do about reforming income tax rates in the next session of Congress.

We Need One--

THERE is, of course, no way of knowing whether or not the machine known as a Resuscitator would have saved the life of young Obie Gene Davis last Sunday afternoon. However, officials and leaders in the community agree that it would have been one more step which could have been taken in efforts to revive the boy, had one been available.

The local CD Rescue Squad has been working on this project for some time. Mr. Burton Mullins, head of Civil Defense in this area believes that one can be acquired at a reasonable cost.

This latest incident of drowning, in which everyone made maximum efforts to save the life, has increased the interest in obtaining one of the machines for Chilton County. It is a tragic accident. If a Resuscitator might increase the odds against certain death of a drowning victim, then we most asuredly should make every effort to acquire one.

Since life itself is invaluable, then it would take the saving of only one life to pay for such an instrument. Let's get one!

A committee is sometimes a group of the unwilling, appointed by the unfit to do the work of the unconcerned.

IT'S great to be born under a lucky star, but it's the "hustler" that wins in the end.

Bureaucracy in Action--

Ever wonder why more school youngsters are not employed?

A friend of ours owns a small factory. His 16-year-old son decided that it would be nice if his father gave him a job in the factory during summer vacation. An excellent idea, said the father, who promptly boasted to his foreman about the "chip off the old block."

But the foreman was a cautious fellow and immediately began to sprinkle cold water on the father's enthusiasm. In order to employ the boy for a few weeks, he pointed out, the father would have to do these things:

Apply for a special permit for the employment of a minor.

Deduct 20 per cent from wages paid to the boy, for income-tax purposes.

Apply, at the end of the boy's employment, to the Internal Revenue Bureau for permission to refund the 20 percent, since the boy would not be earning enough in the vacation period to make him eligible as an income-tax payer.

Report the boy's earnings along with his own, at the end of the current tax year, and pay taxes on them, since the boy is a minor.

Report the termination of the boy's employment.

Sequel: The boy attended a summer camp.

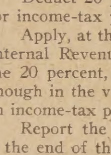
Report from Washington



BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Congressional Conference Committees last week put the finishing touches on sevral major bills and referred them back to the House and Senate for final action. Among those was the social security and medical care bill which had been the subject of intense debate in the Senate a few days previously. The House version of the legislation had been approved before Congress took its recess for the political conventions.

Med'cal Aid to Elderly—

As compromised by House-Senate conferees ,the social security and medical care plan would provide in its first year of operation assistance for approximately 1,360,000 needy persons over 65 years of age.

For the first years the program would cost the federal government about $202 million annually and the states $61 million. Federal funds for the program would come directly from general revenues, without the addition of a new social security tax.

However, it is up to each individuay state to decide whether or not it wants to take part in the federal-state medical care program. Participating staes would administer the funds in two categories — under the new Medical Assistance for the Aged Plan and under an expanded version of the social security systems existing old age assistance program.

The medical aid section authorizing federal grants to assist states in providing financial aid for medical care for persons 65 and over constitutes the major part of the bill passed by Congress. The other sections make numerous changes in the Social Security Act, such as the addition of a new formula whereby an individual can earn slightly more than $1200 annually without losing any part of his retirement benefits. The bill also removes the requirment that a disabld person must be 50 or older to receive disability payments and extends social security coverage to about 25,000 survivors of workers who died before 1940.

The conference report, passed last week by the House, is scheduled for Senate approval early this week.

Fiscal Measures—

Both the House and Senate approved a compromise version of the mutual security appropriation bill that includes $100 million in contingency funds which can be used by the President for aid to the chaotic Republic of the Congo. During House consideration of this legislation, I attempted to force a separate vote on the section of the bill which provides funds that can be dispensed to stabilize the communist-inclined government of President Lumumba of the Congo, in the hope of eliminating this provision. My efforts failed, however, and the bill will be sent to the White House with these funds intact.

A compromise was also reached on the Public Works Appropriations Bill, and the legislation is scheeduled to be passed and sent to the President early this week. This measure contains $549,000 for further planning of the Holt Lock and Dam that is to be constructed on the Warrior-Tombigbee Waterway near Tuscaloosa.

Adjournment—

While I was in the district during the recent congressional reecess, I predicted publicly that Congress would meet for just a few weeks after reconvening and enact only a few major measures. There is every indication Congress will adjourn this week, having been in session less than four weeks and taking action on a minimum of legislation.

Because hot water sets milk, eggs, and starchy foods, soak mixing bowls, spoons, and doughy dishes in cold water.

Number Of Teachers In Chilton Coun
Depends On Average Daily Pupil Attend

IT COSTS COUNTY MONEY WHEN JR. "MISSES" SCHOOL

W. A. Lecroy,
Supt. of Education, Chilton Co.

As we approach another school year, there are many problems confronting the school people and the parents. One of the problems is that of having enough teachers in each of the schools so that there can be a good school program.

It stands to reason that in order to have a good instructional program in the schools, there must be a sufficient number of teachers to teach the children full-time.

In the past, this has not presented such a problem to the administration since each school earned its teacher units based upon the average daily attendance of the previous year.

During the 1959-60 school year, the year just ended, the state allowed teachers to be placed in the various schools on that basis, but school administrators were notified a year ago that beginning with the 1960-61 school year, the year we are about to begin, a school must have enough children enrolled for the current session to support or hold the teacher units.

Attendance Is More Important Than Ever—

In other words, at the beginning of the 1960-61 school year, teachers will be assigned to the various schools as they have been in the past, but within a few days a count must be taken. If it is found that a school has decreased or increased in enrollment, teachers must be moved or additional teachers must be placed in the school. This arrangement by the state makes it very necessary for the parents in Chilton County and throughout the State of Alabama to see that the children are enrolled at the beginning of the year and that children stay in school better than they have in the past.

$56,000 Loss—

Since schools belong to the people, it should be pointed out that each year Chilton County along with other systems lose a considerable amount of state money because of poor attendance. For example, during the 1959-60 school year Chilton County lost approximately $56,000 in state money because children were allowed to stay to work, or they were of illness, or they were reasons.

This amount of m as great in 1959-60 as other years. With Education making e obtain all of the Sta is available, it can r that such a financial l ucational progress.

May it be stated t ginning of this school will have fewer tea the close of the 1959- but to hold the numb each school must hav dren enrolled and in attendance to hold th under the present sta the teachers will hav ferred to schools hav rollments.

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

WE feel a lot better! Up until the other day, we were convinced that we were sorry budget-managrs, when we read that it cost the average American family $6,000 a year to live comfortably, Heck, were not doing so bad after all, we don't make anywhere that much. Found out it isn't poor management after all; we didn't have a chance to begin with to make the books balance at that rate!

IT'S high time we cut out this pussy-footin' around and let it be known that we do not want a Socialistic Government. Nor do we want Bureaucracy! If we are blind to what Socialism is and what Bureaucracy means then it's high time we took steps to correct that ignorant situation. Higher taxes and more government handouts is not the answer to our prayers. Only free enterprise is America and we must preserve that. For, so-called intelligent men, some of our lawmakers and high officials are stupid—at least they appear to be. We have reached and surpassed the saturation point in regards to federal taxation and centralized government. We either continue down this already well-beaten path or we institute a reformation which will bring back America's hard-earned Freedoms. Public apathy is only a term to some folks, but it is a malignancy which can no longer be condoned. You must concern yourself with your nation's business. It is necessary to our future prosperity. We don't mean politics either, we mean good Americanism. If we are to withstand the external pressures on our way of life, then we must be well internally. Local government is our only hope, if we let it be trampled by the overgrown and inefficient federal giant, we cannot hope for personal progress or private enterprise!

GET the old notebook out and the pencil sharp kids, it's that time again! Don't knock it boys and girls, you're having the best time of your life, even if you can't realize it until it's too late!

RECEIVED a very interesting letter this week from Mrs. Horace L. Payton of Rt. 1, Stanton. She has just returned from a trip to Mobile and points of interest with Mrs. Ruby Harris, Mrs. Esther Crowe, Miss Jessie Nell Harris and Miss Katie Faye Harris. According to Mrs. Payton, the ladies took in all the sights, including Dauphin Island and the State Docks. They made lots of pictures, so you might persuade 'em to show you a few, if you've a mind to. One thing the folks remembered that too many of us fail to think about. They returned home, tired and weary, but since it was church time, they huriredly got ready and attended church that night. Now that's what we call a mighty good way to conclude a happy vacation tour of God's beautiful nature!

NOWADAYS, instead of a guy or gal puttering around the garden, they're "putting" around the closest golf course! Times change and ain't things strange—especially people!

ABUNDANT LIFE

EVERYTHING GOD HAS IS YOURS

God has been dividing His blessings with you and me since the day we were born. The talents we possess were given us by God.

One of the most fascinating things about people is the difference in their talents. For example, one man can repair automobiles with the greatest of skill, and it is a pleasure for him. Another can play a musical instrument without ever having taken a music lesson in his life. One man can speak in public; another can use his hands—how wonderful are these gifts.

How God divides with us His blessings, His providences! Everyone of us can look at the blessings in our lives and say, "This is what God did for me."

Some of us are so materialistic that we put more value on things than we do on life. We think it's more important to recover a lost automobile or a lost piece of property than to recover a lost soul!

How many of us put things ahead of salvation? A man may lose a hundred dollars. If he lives, he can get another hundred dollars. But if he loses his soul for eternity, he can never recapture it. Nothing is so important as a soul.

God has everything we need, and then some. Everything God has is ours. Did you know that the Bible says, "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus"? Think of your needs. You may need a new house, an automobile, money to pay your bills, a new suit of clothes. The Bible says that God will supply your needs.

Do you know how rich God is? He hangs solid pearls for the gates of His city. The walls are of jasper; the foundations are all manner of precious stones, and the streets are of purest gold. God isn't poor. Take your little need and stand it up beside Heaven and all the riches of God. You can then realize how easy it is for God to supply your needs. He has plenty of everything and to spare!

Many people secretly resent God because they feel He has never performed a miracle in their lives.

Have you ever asked for one? Have you ever expected God to take a hand in your life? Have you sought the Lord? Have you read His Holy Word? Have you conformed your life to His will? Thousands never receive anything of significance from God, because they expect nothing.

James said, "Ye have not, because ye ask not" (James 4:2).

The Word of God teaches us to ask, largely. Expect the blessings of God. Everything He has is yours!

"I am the sort of fellow that has been a member of my Church for thirty years. The pastor is sorry, and has never preached like I wanted him to. The Deacons don't seem ever to do what I think they ought to. In fact nearly everything went wrong. I was always telling them what to do. The Sunday School teacher seemed to fail in teaching the lesson.

We had a meeting not long ago, and Christ came into my heart. It was marvelous; the pastor improved in his preaching and the Deacons seem to all be good men. The working of the church improved. I find it is not necessary for me to tell anybody what to do. My Sunday School teacher taught the best lesson I have ever heard.

Only one thing I lack to be perfectly happy. I bought a bill of groceries from a merchant and told him I would settle the next Friday. The next Friday did not come so far as this bill was concerned.

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

The one chisen for this issue must be a bit older than the late lamented Joe Miller himself, becaus it has to do with an Indian massacre, the arrow as a weapon, yellow fever as a malady and a buggy as a vehicle.

Little Chip introduced me to this story many years ago. Perhaps I should explain that Little Chip was a star entertainer of the vaudeville days, and always teamed with Mary Marble.

A fellow out on a country road traveling in a buggy, noted flames billowing up over the top of a distant hill. He whipped up his horse and he and the animal arrived at the desolate scene as the burning embers told that the Indians had visited there and had burned the house down. One survivor, the man of the place, was pr ground with an arrow in him. As the traveler the survivor showed When asked what had wounded man falteringl

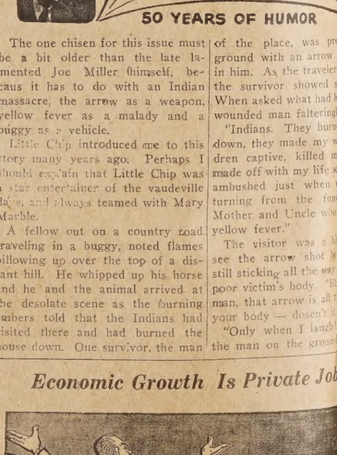
Economic Growth Is Private Job



For many, many years businessmen have been pointing out the necessity for economic growth. Now, suddenly, the words have been taken up by people in various walks of life and they're heard in almost every campaign speech.

This interest in economic growth ought to be a good thing for the people of this country. And it will be, if the public understands what economic growth really is, and is not. For instance, many look to government for economic growth. But government is not a provider of real economic growth—nor is government growth the same thing as economic growth.

A big government ap ernment growth means t not necessarily grow mu of federal spending p all kinds—making more bureaus and agencies, m dependent upon the gover divrting more of the ci ney from his own affai government.

If economic growth m thing, it means an increa tories, transportation, p other elements of perma ductive capacity. This of growth is the source of goods. But when gover overfed, the economy it starved of growth.

7:30 p.m., Evening Worship

Our hearts were saddened Sunday morning when Bro. Daniel submitted his resignation to the church. We have been blessed by his services here in our church. He leaves us to go to another church in Fla.

Remember our regular business meeting to be held Sunday morning following the morning Worship Services.

Family night will be held Wednesday night. Everyone come. Reports from the Nominating Committee will be made.

Several men from Mulberry are attending the Brotherhood Meeting at Shocco Springs today and tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Conway are entertaining the young girls and young men of their Sunday School classes with a "Back-To-School" party Friday night at their home. All members of these two classes are invited. This will also be a farewell party for Louise and Betty Daniel who are moving to Florida.

Four persons rededicated their lives in our services last Sunday. Come to church, won't you?

Simms - Northcutt Vows Exchanged

A lovely late summer wedding was that if Miss June Northcutt and Dr. Phillip B. Simms, Jr. of Clanton. The ceremony was solemnized in the Rocky Mount Methodist Church near Jemison, Sunday afternoon, August 14th at three o'clock with the Rev. David Sayers, pastor of the church officiating in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Brasher Northcutt and Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Simms, Sr. of Clanton.

The church was decorated with southern smilax, palms, ferns, white floral arrangements and candlelight.

Southern smilax gracefully entwined the alter rail and formed a screen at the back.

Mr. Aulton Benson and Mr. Billy Bensin of Birmingham alternated in presenting a program of nuptial music. Mr. Billy Benson was soloist singing "Oh Promise Me" and "Whither Thou Goest".

Mr. Aulton Benson sang "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction as the couple knelt at the alter.

Ushers were Larry Minor, Bill Smith of Clanton and Raybon Ellisin, a cousin of the bride. Larry Minor and Bill Smith lighted the candles. Raybon Ellison and Larry Minor rolled the aisle cloth.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was a portrait of loveliness in her floor length gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza over taffeta. The sleeveless gown, styled on princess lines, featured a sweetheart neckline with a wide circular skirt. An insert of lace formed a bustl effect ending in a short train. The gown was topped with a minute lace jacket fashioned with a Queen Anne collar and long sleeves forming a point over the hands. A seed pearl tiara held the fingertip veil. The bride carried a satin covered Bible marked with a white orchid encircled with lillies of the valley and a acscade of tube roses and satin bow knots.

Mrs. James Bugg of Gadsden was Matron of Honor. Mrs. Jimmie Gilmore, a cousin of the bride, Mrs. Douglas Cleckler were brides matrons and Miss Nancy Harney of Paris, Ky. bridesmaid and Miss Juette Ellison, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The attendancts wore street length dresses of white embroiderd organdy made similar to the bridal gown.

Dr. Joe Roberts of Alexander City was best man.

The bride's mother was attired in an orchid lace sheath with purple accessories. The mother of the groom was waring a beige lace sheath and beige accessories. Their corsages were white rosebuds.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlor.

The receiving line consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Northcutt, Mr. and Mrs. Simms, the bride and groom and the bridal attendants.

The square, four-tiered wedding cake and crystal candle holders with tall white burning tapers marked the bride's table which was covered with white satin overlaid with green net. Bows of white satin ribbon and net with wedding bells caught up the net at each corner. The bride's bouquet marked the front of the table. The cake was mounted on a large mirror and decorated at the base with pleated ruffles of green net and white satin. Small corsages of wedding bells, lillies of the valley and satin bows ornamented th cake corners.

After the cake was cut it was served by Mrs. Horace Carden. Punched was served by Mrs. Troy Benson and Mrs. Ed Coles. They were assisted by Mrs. Billy Conway, Mrs. Hollis Ellison and Mrs. L. J. Kofer. The punch table was ornamented with the attendants bouquets.

Mrs. David Sayers registered the guests. Her table was covered in white overlaid with white net, ornamented at the corners with wedding bells and white satin ribbon.

The couple left for a wedding trip to the Smokies and points of interest along the way, including the Cherokee Indian Reservation.

Upon their return, they will be at home in Pensacola, Florida where Dr. Simms will be stationed at the navy base. Dr. Simms was awarded a Lieutenants Commission upon graduating at the University of Alabama Dental College recently.

YOUR HEALTH

OBESITY

Fat children grow up to be fat adults. There are figures both statistical and physical to prove this fact. Obesity in children and adolescents is often seen in families with a history of obesity. If one parent is overweight, 40 per cent of the offspring will be overweight; and 80 percent of the children will be obese if both parents are overweight.

A study rnging over a period of 20 years presents some enlightening data. Of 50 males who had been considered overweight as boys, 43 were overweight as adults. Of 50 average-weight boys, only 21 became overweight as adults. Of 50 overweight girls, 40 were oeverweight as women, while out of 50 average-weight girls, only nine were overweight as adults.

Physicians know that the earlier the overweight appears the more difficult it is to treat. Overweight varies in different cultural environments and varies to some extent with race, family background and body types. Most of the standard charts for heights and weights indicate that any child weighing 20 per cent above the normal for his height and age is overweight. The overweight child is overweight primarily because he takes in more calories than he uses up. The time of the first appearance of overweight in most fat children is above eight or nine years of age, although some begin before or after this time.

The relationships that the child has with the parents, in school, with friends, and with society in general play an important part in the weight problem. Often the pattern is set in early infancy with anxiety on the part of the parents in feeling a new child or in the feeding of a child of four or five who has begun to lose his rotund baby look and has less interest in food. The parents become worried and try to force food on th child. Many parents maintain the fallacy that the bigger the baby the better he is.

When it is cleanup time at the cookout ,lay a cloth soaked in hot water and heavy duty detergent on the charcoal grill, let the food particles soften, and then wash with a brush or heavy cloth.

by Hubert V. Ray

THE Jemison Panthers open their football season Friday, September 9th at 7:30 p.m. at the Jemison football field against the Verbena Red Devils.

These two teams started the season off last year with a 0-0 tie.

Support the team and start the season off right. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m. Don't be late!

Meat production for the next few months is expected to fall short of last year's output because of the reduced hog slaughter. But cattle slaughter will likely be up, moderately.

The 30-Yen stamp (lower left) depicts the Embassy being greeted by President James Buchanan at the White House on May 17, 1860. The 4¢ U.S. stamp shows the famous Japanese cherry blossoms in Washington, D.C., with the Washington Monument in the background. It is engraved in pink and blue and was designed by Miss Gyo Fujikawa of New York, an American citizen of Japanese parentage. Fourth Polio Shots Now Available

NOTICE from the State Health Department has been received by the local Health Department that State vaccine may be used for the Fourth Polio Shot.

This change has been made possible because of the reduced cost of the vaccine. It does not change the age eligibility requirements of the first three doses however. Immunization of infants may be given as early as two months of age and up through age 12.

It has been shown that booster doses of polio vaccine, especially the fourth, offer increased protection against paralytic polio.

Red Cross Offers First Aid Course Here

OBJECTIVE: TO HAVE FIRST-AIDER IN EVERY HOME

FIRST aid instruction will be offered, beginning Monday night, September 12, from 7 to 9 in the Library Room at the Chilton County High School, Clanton.

The Standard course of 10 hours of class-room work is a community service offered by the Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"You will like first aid," said pastor W. Rendell Caviness, instructor, first aid, Chilton County.

"You, as a first aider, may save your own life. Our objective is to have a skilled first-aider in every home.

"The Federal Civil Defense Administration is cooperating with American National Red Cross and other volunteer organizations, such as our own, to extend first aid training to every household," according to Pastor Caviness.

According to the FCDA: "In the event of nuclear attack on this country, survival may very well depend on what everyone does for himself, one's family or neighbor during the first critical hours following such an attack."

Every member of every family is urged to accept this basic responsibility to support his vital requirement toward home security and to be ready if needed in times of National emergency.

The 5 2-hour classes will meet on Monday nights, September 12, 19, 26 and October 3 and 10.

Dr. W. W. Rennings, local physician, will also serve the class as associate instructor.

All interested in holding Standard certificates in first aid may call Red Cross Executive - Secretary, Miss Beth Davis, Phone 585.

Fallout Shelters Can Save Millions of Americans

Many Americans near the points of bomb impact could be killed in a nuclear attack by blast, heat and initial radiation.

But millions could survive by the simple expedient of protecting themselves against radioactive fallout.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has called fallout shelters "the best single defense measure for the protection of the greatest number of our people."

For about $25 to $150 per person, families can construct shelters, on a do-it-yourself basis, into which they can go after any nuclear attack to stay alive until radiation intensity outside lessens to safe levels, civil defense authorities point out.

Any shelter must be equipped with the necessities of life, including food, water, first aid and sanitary supplies and lights. There must be enough for all shelter occupants for at least 14 days.

Two pamphlets are available to help you construct a suitable basement or underground shelter. One is MP-15, "The Family Fallout Shelter," which details five basic designs of concrete block, reinforced concrete and preshaped metal. The other, MP-18, "Clay Masonry Fallout Shelters," shows five other plans for basic shelters, calling for use of clay products (brick or tile).

THESE PAMPHLETS can be obtained from your local or State civil defense offices, or by writing to Box Home Shelter, Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, Battle Creek, Mich.

Many persons building shelters are setting them up as recreation rooms, dens, or extra bedroom space, thus gaining multiple use of the facilities, civil defense officials report.

OCDM encourages multi-purpose use of shelter space. Its prime concern is that such radiation-proof shelter be provided now, officials say. On the day of any attack, such efforts would be too little and too late.

Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up.

—(I Corinthians 13:4)

The real meaning of charity is a deep and true love of one's fellow men; this includes an abiding understanding of and sympathy for their faults and failings as we realize our own—andit means humility, and gratitude to God for the power and privilege of helping someone in spiritual, mental or physical need.

A man who goes through this life keeping his own books is going to have trouble with the aduitors in the hereafter.

THERE are some fellows you just can't convince honesty is the best policy unless it pays a profit.

TO err is human — to blame it on the other fellow is natural.

IF we expect our young folks to register and vote we are going to have to teach them the necessary steps in that line of responsibility.

Action Is A Must--

THE City Fathers have done well with what they have in making it safe for our school children at the Clanton Elementary School, but the traffic bottleneck is getting so bad that they, or the Board of Education or the P-T.A. is going to have to take steps to correct the problem. Taking a child to school has become a major operation. Those who can, should ride the busses, but even that will not completely solve the problem. We've gotta do something!

HI VANCE'S USED YARN LOT

50 YEARS OF HUMOR

When any professional man spends a whole life time in a career and lives to a rip old age, naturally he accumulates more stories having to do with his profession than any other type of yarn. This was true of the late Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey, who died not too long ago, and who was famed as of the sea battles of the South one of the greatest naval heroes Pacific.

Likely, the Admiral's favorite was one having to do with two shipwrecked sailors who had survived the tragedy at sea. They had been drifting and rowing in a small boat for two weeks, having little to eat and drink, and being almost at the point of exhaustion from their constant labors. Shortly after they had found themselves adrift in an unkind sea they had followed the same daily pattern. As one prayed row. They would switch assign- the other would look ahead and ments every few hours.

Near sundown one afternoon as one rowed and gazed ahead, his buddy on his knees in the little boat, was fervently praying that the good Lord would save them from death. Finally, the fellow rowing, and looking ahead, broke into his pal's supplication with this: "Don't promise too much, Bill — I think I see land!"

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

THERE IS UNLIMITED POWER IN PRAYER

The story of Helen Keller is familiar to all of us. She was without the power of sight, speech or hearing. In her childhood, Helen learned to communicate her thoughts to a world that she could neither see nor hear.

Miss Anne Sullivan went to the Keller home when Helen was just a child and undertook to teach her a language. Step by step Miss Sullivan brought Helen along dark, uncertain pathways until she could convey her thoughts by means of physical signs. She taught Helen about tangible things—a doll, a flower, a kitty.

And as the child mastered signs representing these objects one by one, Miss Sullivan was conscious that the time would come when she would have to tell Helen about God.

She dreaded the task, because it had been so difficult to teach her about tangible things. How could she ever get over to the little girl the idea of God?

Then one day when Helen was about 14 years old, Miss Sullivan took up the task. With Helen's sensitive finger placed along the side of her cheek, Miss Sullivan started to speak slowly, simply, almost painfully about God—the One who made us all and who loves us and wants to save us.

The deaf, blind girl sat with a blank look upon her face for a long time as her teacher spoke. Then suddenly the look of blankness gave way to bright illumination. Reaching out, she grabbed her teacher's hand and spelled into it: "Oh, I am so glad you told me His name, for He has spoken to me many times!"

God could speak to Helen Keller, even though she could not hear audible sounds. Helen could converse with God, even though she could not speak. Prayer is communication with God in any form.

I have learned four secrets of answered prayer. Although everyone has had an answer to some prayer, he wishes to know the real secret of receiving more answers to prayers. Through years of experience I have learned these four things about prayer:

1. Learn to wait on God. This is the first step. We must learn patience. Prayers are not always answered immediately.

2. When God says no, He means He has a better way. If He says no, there is a larger yes that He wants to give you.

3. God may have something He wants you to do. It may be that you are not right in your spirit. We must learn to forgive one another.

4. A secret of prayer is expectation. If you want God to do something, expect Him to do it. God is able and willing to give us our heart's desire. When you pray, expect God to answer, for the power of prayer is absolutely unlimited.

Democrats Stand Up

COME November millions of Americans will be voting what we hope will be their honest convictions in the election of a President andVice-President of the United States.

The issues at hand are obviously difficult to define and even more difficult to decide upon. It is for this reason that we Americans must put much thought and preparation into how we cast our vote in the election.

Here in the South one of the big problems confronting us is segregation-integration. . . which one? Another issue which appears to be taking the lead in importance, like it or not, is the religious beliefs of the respective candidates.

It should go unsaid that the mind should definitely be left open on such an important problem, but already there is the presence of cynicism, doubt and stubborn refusal to accept anything but what is familiar and what we are accustomed to.

We believe in determination, but we do not believe in making up our minds through prejudice and disregarding of available facts,

If we had a choice we would not be inclined to vote for John Kennedy; But we will vote for the Democratic Party. We will do this because we believe in what the Democratic Party stands for and we base this conviction on the record of same not on future promises.

Boiled down, the Democrats, as a Party, have done more for the people of the United States than has the Republican Party. The past will bear us out!

Anyone would be foolish to say that there is no reason to be concerned about the possibility of a Roman Catholic in a high office of authority. But, by the same token, anyone would be foolish to contend that the mere fact that this individual was a Roman Catholic would mean the end of freedom in America. Our religion is stronger than that!

The President, due to democracy, is not a dictator and therefore does not have power to make or break laws. Our Congressmen are the lawmakers of our Country. The President cannot enforce laws without the approval of Congress. Therefore, the President, as only a PART of our governmental system cannot override the desires and the convictions of the people whom he represents.

If we lived under a totalitarian government, a dictatorship or a monarchy, then we would have much cause indeed to be concerned over the possibility of a Roman Catholic as a leader, but then we wouldn't be given a choice anyway. We live in a Democracy and no one man, not even the President can decide our future for us.

The Declaration of Independence guarantees the American citizen the right to worship as he sees fit. The President cannot change the Declaration of Independence.

As long as we have God-fearing, honest men in the Senate and the House of Representatives, we have no reason to fear for our right to worship.

If all the members of Congress were Baptists we'd fear for our religious freedom, because, as sure as we're born, we'd be a Baptist eventually, like it or not. The same would hold true of Methodism, Judism or Catholicism. This will not happen as long as we maintain an interest in our chosen religion and as long as there are free elections.

America is not going to the dogs and our freedoms are not vanished. Of course they are threatened, time and again, but that is because they are valuable and we must strive diligently to preserve them.

If we had to pick an individual to vote for, we could not do it, because, in our opinion no matter how good the man, he would be a dictator. We must vote for a Party because it takes an organization to run the government—a good organization. We believe that the Democratic Party has within its ranks some of our best men and women, as Americans, and we believe they will do what is best for us. The President, though strong politically does not decide or establish our freedoms, nor does he curtail them.

A political election is one that decides how we will run our government and not how we will run our churches—they are distinctly separate—and as long as we maintain a democracy this will be true.

We must work together for the good of all concerned, that's how democracy works and thats why we believe in it as a fair and just means of governing ourselves.

We should and will maintain separation of church and state and while we're about it, we should establish the separation of personal gain and government—the wisdom of that speaks for itself.

If we were getting a new preacher for our church, we would not want John Kennedy because we are a Methodist. We do want the Democratic Party to head up our government and the religious beliefs of the thousands of individuals making up this Party does not concern us greatly as long as they believe in the Almighty—anything beyond that is between Him and them. We firmly believe that John Kennedy believes in God just as strongly as we do ourselves. Knowing that we believe in God as our Creator, we therefore have faith in another like creation of His and we believe that He approves of that.

The Vatican in Rome is not going to run our America, unless God wills it so and not as long as we maintain our Democracy. Kennedv, nor any other individual is going to change that. The only thing that threatens our religious freedom is the same thing that threatens our Democracy— that is the refusal of many so-called American citizens to learn and accept their responsibilities in a free land! !

We were not given freedom, but were given the ability to maintain it. There is no place for prejudice, but there is a place for differences of opinion to be heard. . . that IS Democracy. To be seen you must stand up; to be heard, you must speak!

THINGS We see and hear

by BOB

AMERICANISM has always, without exception, meant optimism. We realize facts, as such, are not always optimistic. But it's the way you define them or look at them that is important. We are depressed each time we pick up a daily newspaper lately. Every writer, whether editorialist or columnist is apparently lost in the pit of despair and their writings tend to have the wrong effect on the personality of the reader. They are holding forward the excuse that it is "fact". . .. that's the way it is. They also claim that the mature mind should be able to "see the light". Even mature minds can be impressed. A continued strong diet of "all is woe" and "there is no hope" can only further deteriorate our belief in ourselves.

Optimism is the taproot of freedom and if we lose our optimistic outlook on life, we have lost our desire—our deserve—to be free!

The gloom that faces us in the world can only be erased by faith and there is no faith without optimism. We cant please everybody but we can meet 'em, and greet 'em with a cheerful countenance and it is a tried and true method of winning friends and influencing others.

Our Declaration of Independence, our National Anthem, our Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and all of our creeds are based on an optimistic look toward the future. All these things, when practiced, have created unity and there is definitely cheerfulness in unity.

Throw off that scowl
And do not growl,

BRO. M. G. Fields, the Baptist Missionary, says that it's not too late to conduct a Vacation Bible School or a Revival meeting, if you've a mind to. He is most anxious to assist you in this work and asks that you call him at a new address if he can be of service. His residence is now 2010½ 4th Avenue North in Clanton. Telephone 1753.

IF you're a Republican, stand up and say so, we don't mind! If you're a Democrat, stand up and say so, we don't care whether they mind or not!

RAN into our friend Joe Teel the other day while we were holding up (the line) at the bank. He used to be with Goodyear here in Clanton and moved with them to Opelika. He recently switched jobs and is now with a tire distributor there in Opelika. Joe has made an acquaintance with Bonnie Hand, now editor of the LaFayette Sun and one time employee of the News here in Clanton. Mr. Bonnie seems to have made quite an impression on Mr. Teel, as he has on many others over in that neck of the woods. Heck, anything transplanted from good old Chilton County sod is bound to grow and make a good impression.

WE gave away $5.00 worth of scratch pads from the News three nights of the Fair and only two have been claimed. A young lady came in to get 'em last Wednesday afternoon about 4:30 or 5:00 o'clock just when we were all trying to combine efforts and catch the train with ur papers. We asked her to come Thursday afternoon, because she said she lived in town, but she never showed up. Now we won't feel right until that lady picks up her note pads and we're sorry if we inconvenienced her. When that old whistle blows and we ain't down at the depot to meet it, it's just all hands on deck to try to make it. Come on by now, we want you to have them, 'cause you won them, fair and square!

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The 86th Congress ended last Thursday night with the adjournment of the Second Session. House members wound up their work at 6:51 p.m., and the Senate followed suit at nine minutes before midnight.

It is legally possible for the President to revive the 86th Congress by calling a special session this fall. Since this is highly unlikely, however, legislators wil meet next in January for the convening of the 87th Congress.

Bills Enacted—

The session just completed, which convened on August 8 following a recess for the political conventions, was not as active as the presidential candidates had predicted. However, four major appropriation bills were enacted, as well as a measure to amend th Sorial Security Act to provide medical care for the aged and a bill authorizing special assistance for Latin America.

Legislation that died with the 86th Congress included bills to raise the minimum wage, to provide federal aid for education, to expand federal housing programs, and to give the President authority to refuse to buy sugar from the Dominican Republic.

Sugar Issue—

It was the Dominican sugar issue that Congress was wrestling with when adjournment came. When the Cuban sugar quota was reduced earlier this summer in accordance with a new law giving the President that authority, the Dominican Republic was assigned 322,000 tons of its regular quota of 130,000. As a replacement sugar in addition to result of the recent Conference of American Foreign Ministers in San Jose, Costa Rica, however, the United States has broken diplomatic relations with the Dominican Regime. Thus, the Administration feels that purchase of additional Dominican sugar now would have serious repercussions in Latin America.

House members had passed a bill which would have permitted the President to refuse the sugar only if other member nations of the Organizatiin of American States impose economic sanctions on the Dominican Republic by October 15. After fervent pleas by Republican leaders on behalf of the Administration, the Senate passed a bill to relieve the President of the obligation to buy the sugar or give him the option of buying it from other nations. House members refused to accept the Senate version of the legislation, and the issue was not resolved before Congress adjourned.

Returns to District—

On Wednesday of this week I Bureau with members of the Waram appearing before the Budget rior-Tombivbee Development Asconstruction funds in next year's sociation to urge the inclusion of budget for the proposed Holt Lock and Dam on the Warrior River. Immediately following this appearance, I plan to return to Alabama.

My weekly report to you will be resumed when the 87th Congress convenes next January.

Chilton-Unity Believes In Separation Of Church And

A RESOLUTION

Resolved:

1. That we, the Executive Committee of the Chilton-Unity Association of Chilton County, seek to call the attenion of all Christian ciizens to the fact that they should give thoughtful consideration to the implications of the coming national election with reference to the Separation of Church and State.

2. That we request and instruct Rev. E. C. Hand, secretary of the Executive Committee of the Chilton-Unity Baptist Association, as citizens of Chilton County, Alabama, to acquaint our people with the action taken by this Committee in regular session August 28, 1960, with reference to the possible election of a Roman Catholic as President of the United States:

"Whereas, through the centuries Baptists have firmly advocated freedom of religion for all people, and have fought and suffered for this great principle, and

"Whereas, religious freedom in America is completely dependent upon the continued separation of church and state as guaranteed by the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and

Whereas, persons nominated to the high office of President or Vice President of the United States who are committed by religious affiliation to the principle of a church-controlled church as advocated and sup- state and state supported ported by the Roman Catholic hierarchy, and

"Whereas, the nomination and election of a person committed to this un-American principle would seriously endanger religious freedm as we know it in

Pimento Cream Cheese Potato Salad

Looking for something different to do with potatoes? A new way to fix them is always welcome because in most households potatoes are on the menu every day. Here's an idea that is easy, unusual and altogether delicious—Pimento Cream Cheese Potato Salad. There's no need to peel, cook and slice potatoes because the recipe calls for the instant whipped variety combined with tangy cream cheese and chopped pimento. It's prepared in a jiffy—and for pennies—with instant whipped potato flakes, a wonderful convenience food you'll want to keep handy on the pantry shelf. Serve it with a platter of cold meats and cheese wedges for a satisfying main meal.

Pimento Cream Cheese Potato Salad
(Makes about 4 servings)

1½ cups water
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cold milk
1 tablespoon butter
1 envelope Borden's Instant Whipped Potato Flakes
1 (6-oz.) bar pimento cream cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup finely chopped pimento

Combine water and salt in medium-size saucepan; cover; bring to boil. Remove from heat. Add milk and butter immediately, then Borden's Instant Whipped Potato Flakes. Stir gently with fork or wire whip until liquid is absorbed. Whip briskly. Combine potatoes with pimento cream cheese, finely chopped celery, green pepper, and pimento; mix well. Chill thoroughly before serving.

For that wonderful feeling of well being, a properly balanced diet is a must. Foods that supply body building materials and have real appetite appeal are essential. Homemakers know that "good things happen" when their families are well fed. Let canned condensed soups help you with this important job.

Tempt your family any night with a tureen of delicious, satisfying soup. It's sure to give them that important feeling of relaxation, warmth, and contentment.

Canned condensed soups fit into many of the Basic Four Food Groups essential for well being. As examples, cream of chicken contributes to the dairy and meat groups, cream of vegetable to dairy and vegetable groups. Remember that when these and other soups are combined and made with milk and other good foods, as in the following recipe, they supply greater amounts of the daily food requirements.

For a "souper" balanced and appetizing supper round out the menu with a grilled cheese and tomato jumbo sandwich. Dessert . . . canned applesauce atop spice cake squares; milk or coffee.

RIPE GOLDEN PEARS OFFER RICH DIVIDENDS for your jelly shelf now, and ready rewards for the breakfast table later on this winter. Simply follow today's easy recipe, and you will have 11 medium glasses of golden Pear Jam in less than 15 minutes after the fruit has been prepared.

PEAR JAM

Yield: about 11 medium glasses (5½ lbs. jam)

4 cups prepared fruit (about 3 lbs. ripe pears)
¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons)
7½ cups sugar
½ bottle Certo liquid fruit pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Peel and pit about 3 pounds fully ripe pears. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Squeeze the juice from 2 medium-sized lemons. Measure ¼ cup juice into saucepan with pears.

Then make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. If jars are used, seal.

Note: This jam may set slowly—allow about 2 weeks.

March of Dimes Support Urged by Mother Who Lost Birth Defects Baby in 49 Days

By MARY STROUS

Mary Strous, of Ohio, and daughters Julie Ann, two, and Donna Marguerite, five, study photos of youngest child, Laura, who died of birth defects at seven weeks.

Our baby Laura was born on Mother's Day seven years ago.

We lost Laura seven weeks later on Father's Day.

She gave a soft little sigh as she died in my arms. My husband and I buried her with the rattle to which she had clung tightly during her brief life.

But Laura, who died of the terrible birth defects known as open spine and too much fluid on the brain, still lives in the hearts of her father Don and myself. When asked by strangers, we always say we have three daughters (instead of really only two), and I want to explain why.

We feel that each of us, including our tiny Laura, is brought into the world to serve a purpose, even if our stay on earth is as tragically short as 49 days.

For years we were numbed by our baby's passing. But today we recognize that in being asked by The National Foundation to renew our memories of those despairing seven weeks, my husband and I are somehow fulfilling the purpose of Laura's fleeting visit with us.

That purpose is to repeat as forcefully as we can the lessons we have learned:

1. Scientists insist that parents should not be ashamed over the birth of an infant with a congenital malformation; instead, face the situation bravely and seek professional advice. Feelings of guilt aren't justified.

2. There is no medical evidence that birth defects are always hereditary; and

3. There is no evidence that because a couple have had one defective baby, they are likely to have another. Doctors at Columbus, Ohio, near our farm at Laurelville, said our chances of having another malformed baby were something like one in 40,000. (Donna Marguerite, five years old, and Julie Ann, two, who followed Laura after Don and I had reflected deeply and sought advice, could not be healthier or more normal.)

But by no means have Don and I forgotten our hopelessness and indeed our self-loathing during those 49 days and nights when we took turns holding Laura in our arms, or sat hour after hour beside her bassinet, watching life drain from her eyes.

We detested ourselves because of torments that something was wrong with us physically, or that a shameful defect had been inherited from our forebears (later proved untrue), and that we were thus responsible for this cruelty to an innocent baby.

Never will we forget the frantic drive, while our baby was dying, to our church so that she might be baptized before she left us. In some way our congregation had learned of the reason for our headlong visit, and the tears of those sorrowing folks flowed with ours.

Our Laura was one of 250,000 babies born each year in our country with significant birth defects; that tragic total is growing with our increasing population. Our baby was one of 34,000 who in addition die annually from theese congenital malformations; and that awful figure is also mounting.

At last, something constructive is being done about birth defects. With March of Dimes contributions, The National Foundation is directing a broad study of this devastating puzzle, just as it fought polio and in time found the Salk vaccine to prevent it.

With a donation in January from each of us, in time there will be many fewer Lauras in our land.

Miss Matthews Is Bride Of Joe Frank Cobb

A candlelight ceremony at 4:30 p.m., Sunday afternoon, August 21, marked the marriage of Miss Jacqueline Sue Matthews of Birmingham to Joe Frank Cobb of Birmingham and Jemison. The wedding took place at Stradley Memorial Chapel, YWCA, Birmingham with the Rev. Louis Brasher, pastor of the Jemison First Baptist Church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Toothman, Anchorage, Alaska and J. C. Matthews of Winter Haven, Fla. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb of Jemison.

Candles were lighted by Charles Cobb and Dwight Cobb, brothers of the groom. Best man was Lonnie Cobb, father of the groom.

Serving as Matron of Honor was Mrs. Gerald Bonner and bridesmaids were Miss Janis Burdette and Miss Marilyn Reeves.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, J. W. Hamm. Her gown of Italian silk bombayine and alencon lace was fashioned with elongated bodice overlaid with jeweled lace, Sabrina neckline, long sleeves and full skirt with princess panel, ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a scalloped Chantilly shell.

She carried a cascade of ilies of the valey with a white orchid.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Y teen room.

Mrs. Gene Swindall, the bride's sister, presided at the bride's table.

Serving the cake and punch were Misses Virginia Stanley, Edna Marbury, Virginia Hendricks and Peggy Linebaugh.

Folliwing the wedding trip to the Smokies the couple will reside in Thorsby.

For traveling the bride wore a brown sheath, beige accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

AFTOSA

Few are the countries of the world where the livestock owner does not live in dread of seeing the above notice tacked upon his gate. For he knows that if his animals become infected with this disease they will waste away and never regain normal weight and milk production.

He also knows that once aftosa hits the only way to stop it is to kill off all livestock in the entire infected area!

But the economic losses caused by this animal ill—formally named foot-and-mouth disease, but more commonly known as "aftosa" — are not limited to stock owners. Today aftosa is a world problem. Here are a few reasons why:

- — Because aftosa control and eradication measures are expensive to governments.
- — Because in a world where too many millions are already undernourished, aftosa is the number one cause of loss of animal protein.
- — Because aftosa cuts down international trade by forcing aftosa-free countries to bar animal products coming from infected lands.

Only Australia, the Guianas, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, and the western hemisphere north of Panama are free of aftosa. Yet even these areas run danger of infection as the aftosa virus can be carried in bones, blood, milk and hides as well as fresh, dried, canned or even frozen meats.

Taxes National Economies

In stamping out six aftosa epidemics between 1900 and 1930, the United States suffered direct and indirect costs totalling almost $200 million.

Therefore when aftosa broke out in Mexico in 1946, the U.S. found the need to protect its own livestock at one with its sympathy for a sister republic's plight. Both countries fought shoulder to shoulder for six years before aftosa was eradicated. The cost: $130 million to the U.S. and more than $500 million to Mexico.

In South America, Argentina alone estimates aftosa costs it $150 million a year.

When aftosa suddenly appeared in limited areas of Canada's Saskatchewan province in 1954 all shipment to the United States of Canadian breeder and feeder cattle was abruptly halted. In the few months before the outbreak was put down Canadian farmers lost millions of dollars of customary revenue.

Pan American Center Set Up

It was in recognition of aftosa's international dimensions that the 21 American Republics jointly founded the Pan American Foot-and-Mouth Disease Center on the outskirts of Rio de Janeiro in 1951.

Administered by the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, and financed through the Organization of American States' Technical Cooperation Program, the Center's purpose is to aid the countries in controlling and eventually eradicating aftosa from the hemisphere.

The Center trains anti-aftosa workers, provides the countries with consultants, organizes multi-national campaigns, furnishes reference laboratory and diagnostic services, and carries out research.

Center experts hope soon to produce a vaccine that will protect livestock for much longer periods than do any in present use. Such a vaccine could mean aftosa's eradication.

- 1 lb. ground beef

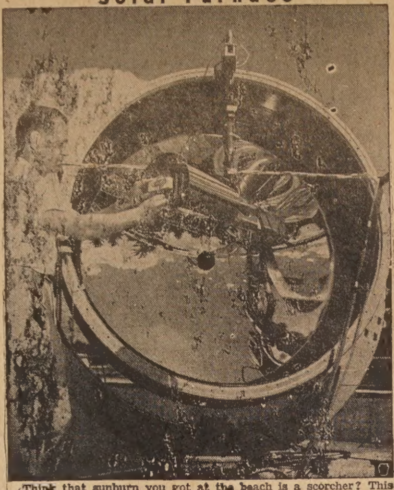
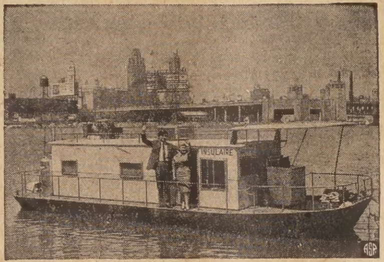
Pre-heat oven to 450°. Pack meat mixture level or slightly rounded into greased muffin pans. Bake 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Solar Furnace



Think that sunburn you got at the beach is a scorcher? This solar furnace turns sunshine into 7,000 degree Fahrenheit temperatures as Avco Corporation's Research and Advanced Development Division puts the sun to work for science. The high temperatures generated by the furnace are used to test new materials being developed for ICBM nose cones, rocket engine nozzles, space craft and other applications where enormous heating is a problem. Here, an Avco scientist mounts specimen of material to be tested. Acting much like a magnifying glass, furnace focuses sun's rays on small spot on specimen raising its surface temperatures to 7,000 degrees Fahrenheit in 30 seconds—temperatures that would melt ordinary furnace walls.

En Route Down The Yukon



Waving farewell from Chicago harbor, John Bremer and Sandy Bodkin show no qualms about leaving the big city for a houseboat trip into the primitive Yukon territory. Actually, Bremer's houseboat has all the comforts of home, including an LP-Gas range for cooking. The portable LP-Gas fuel supply is carried in the cylinders at the rear of the boat. From Chicago harbor, the houseboat was taken overland by truck to Whitehorse, Canada. The 2,500-mile trip down the Yukon river started from Whitehorse.

The wild, treacherous stretches of the Yukon river country hold no terrors for John H. Bremer, a widely-traveled adventurer from the big city.

And why should they? Bremer and his crew of five have taken the big city conveniences right along with them as they cruise down the Yukon in a 34-foot houseboat.

The adventurers, who live in the Chicago area, started their trip from Whitehorse in the Canadian Yukon. They hope to travel 2,500 miles down the river to the Bering sea.

Despite the primitive country, the crew does not lack for the comforts of home. The houseboat has laundry facilities, a tiny bath, hi-fi set, tape recorder, and ship-to-shore telephone. It even has its own modern gas service—portable LP-Gas.

With this "private gas main," the crew doesn't have to stop to look for firewood to cook meals. Food is prepared aboard the houseboat on an LP-Gas range, with the supply of liquefied petroleum gas being carried in cylinders on the rear of the boat.

The house boat, powered by two outboard motors, is constructed with a heavy gauge steel hull to withstand the jolting ride over the rapids. It was taken from Chicago to Whitehorse by truck and probably will be sold at journey's end.

Purpose of this trip is to test equipment for industry and to shoot about 16,000 feet of film for travel, sports, and industrial movies. Sandy Bodkin, Gary, Ind., "stars" in the movies, but she also has to share the "housework" with the rest of the crew.

"Heaven help her if she can't cook."

Neighborhood Suppers

Neighborhood supper parties are becoming more and more popular. Couples find the effort to put on their best bib and tucker, scrounge around for a baby sitter, spend extra money for traveling and dinner and feeling exhausted the next day, somehow just doesn't seem worth it. So in many suburban areas nowadays, when you hear the call over the fence—"How about eating out tonight?" it doesn't mean a night on the town but gathering the group, pooling dinner resources and cooking out in someone's back yard. And best idea yet, the children are included.

Many times these suppers are not spur of the moment, but planned ahead and include 8 or 10 families. Each family chips in to buy something special for the meat course and the husbands and fathers have a chance to prove their merit as real chefs.

Whatever the choice of meat, be sure to include hot dogs, for the children, not being able to wait, have their dogs and relish early while the adults relax with a nice, long, cool drink.

Here is a suggested menu that will add zest to one of your dinners:

Chilled curried pea soup (see recipe)
Charcoal grilled steak with barbecue sauce (adults)
Charcoal grilled hamburgers or hot dogs (children)
Hot potato salad (see recipe)
Two fruit salad molds
Toasted rolls
Two cakes

To eliminate tedious dishwashing, use paper plates and cups for table service. The Branded Design Lily cups and plates are attractive and give the table a festive appearance. Include the 10 lb. Lily paper buckets as they can be used for many things: transporting food; ice buckets; as serving bowls for soup, salad and corn; and at the end of the meal, to simplify the clean-up operation, use them as trash buckets.

The pleasant part of the evening is when the meal is finished and the little ones are tucked into bed. Everyone can settle down for a quiet evening of chatter with no worries about catching the train or going over the budget.
